Gas Tax Loss May Deprive D.C. Program Of $1,300,000

Concedes Transfer Of Traffic Bureau

Demands 500 Million in Permit Proceeds for Auto Use.

By James D. Secrest.

The District Commissioners yesterday were confronted with the threat of having to find $1,300,000 additional revenue after they submitted an $8,900,000 tax program to the Kennedy sub-committee of the House District Committee.

The threat arose out of a proposal by Representative Nichols (Democrat), Oklahoma, that the $1,500,000 estimated return from the motor weight tax be turned into the gasoline tax or highway fund rather than into the general revenue.

Fighting the cause of the motorists, Nichols told the sub-committee and District officials that they stood in danger of losing about $600,000 in Federal aid because of "diversion" of funds that should finance only expenses associated with motor vehicles.

He expressed a willingness to support the transfer of the department of vehicles and traffic and Metropolitan Police Department Traffic Bureau to the gas fund providing the $1,500,000 were added.

Demands Other Transfers.

At the same time he demanded that some $500,000 in receipts from various permits used by motorists go into the gas tax fund.

He estimated that this additional $2,000,000, taken out of the general revenue, would obviate the necessity for the proposed 1-cent gas tax hike despite the transfer of more than $600,000 in expenses from the general revenue to the gas tax.

The net effect of his proposal, which was left hanging over the heads of the Commissioners when the conference adjourned, would be to necessitate the raising of an additional $1,300,000, he admitted.

It would mean that, while motorists would be saved $1,100,000, which is the estimated income from a cent increase in the gas tax, the general taxpayer would have to make up the loss and perhaps a little more.

"Balance" Argument Vain.

Vainly did Commissioners Dan I. Sultan and Melvin C. Hazen argue that expenditures for and collections from motorists now "just about balance" if a "liberal" interpretation of motor vehicle expenses is made.

Nichols refused, however, to concede that the maintenance of trees and parkings should be transferred to the gas tax fund even if it were bolstered by the $2,000,000 in general revenue.

When the House passed the District supply bill, Nichols succeeded in having the Department of Vehicles and Traffic taken off the gas tax fund but was overruled when he raised a point of order against the placement of the trees and parking division's expense on the motorists.

Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, told the Kennedy subcommittee that the Commissioners had asked the Senate sub-committee on District appropriations to restore this item, as well as the Department of Vehicles and Traffic, to the general revenue fund.

Sales Tax Parley Set.

District officials explained four of their five tax proposals to the subcommittee yesterday morning, but the conference adjourned before the general sales tax was reached. Another parley will be held at 10 o'clock this morning to discuss the latter levy.

Although Chairman Kennedy said that all taxes previously suggested will be considered before a report is made to the District Committee, indications were that the sub-committee is prepared to adopt the Commissioners' program, save for possible elimination of the gas tax increase.

Kennedy said that he had ar-

Suicide Is Verdict For Mrs. Hartman

After more than an hour of deliberation, a coroner's jury early this morning decided that Mrs. Mabel B. Hartman, of Lanham, Md., killed herself. The inquest was held in the home of Acting Coroner Fred C. Lutz to investigate the death of the 35-year-old woman, found dead May 16.

A tense throng crowded Lutz' home and sobbed as Billy Hartman, blond 10-year-old son of the slain woman, told of events that led to her death. She was found dead in the garden of her home, a bullet wound in her temple and a .22-caliber rifle beside her.

Roosevelt Is Confined To Mansion With Cold

By the Associated Press.

President Roosevelt remained in the residential quarters of the White House most of yesterday because of a head cold. He did appear, however, for his regular press conference.

His associates said the cold, contracted after he got wet in Saturday's driving rain at Quantico, Va., was clearing up rapidly.

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 25.—Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, manager and catcher of the Detroit Tigers, suffered a fractured skull when he was hit by a pitched ball during today's game at the Yankee Stadium. Dr. Robert E. Walsh, Yankees' physician, said X-rays showed a skull fracture and that Cochrane was in a serious condition.

Mrs. Cochrane boarded a plane in Detroit to go to her husband's bedside.

Dr. Walsh said other details of the injury would not be known for several hours. Cochrane is in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where he was reported resting quietly tonight.

He was hit by one of Irving (Bump) Hadley's pitches in the fifth inning of the Tigers' game with the Yanks, after hitting a home run his last time at bat in the third inning.

Hadley, a former Nat, threw high and inside, and Cochrane tried to duck. He droped to the ground as the ball hit him, but thousands in the stands thought he had been hit on the wrist.

In the clubhouse ice packs were applied to Cochrane's forehead and

Truce Spurned As of Little Aid For Court Bill

Chances Same Without Any Compromise, President Hints.

By Franklyn Waltman.

Despite the Administration's clear-cut victory in the Supreme Court decisions upholding the social security act, President Roosevelt yesterday indicated he had no intention of yielding in his fight for reorganization of the tribunal by naming six new justices to its bench.

Not only has the White House no intention of abandoning the fight altogether but it has no intention of compromising in order to get a half-loaf. Indeed, the feeling exists that prospects for ultimate success of the reorganization bill would be no better if a compromise were projected—at least at this time.

The President did not say this in so many words, but it is to be inferred from a few informal remarks which he made at his semiweekly press conference. What he said was that while he was happy over Supreme Court approval of the social security act, he was taking a long-range view of the situation and that he was cherishing the hope that the same human point of view exhibited in the case of the old-age pension and unemployment taxes would also be manifested when similar matters come before the high court.

He recalled that in his message to Congress on Monday he had proposed four lines of action, which, if enacted, soon or late would come before the Supreme Court. One would ban the products of child labor from interstate commerce. If that prohibition were to prevail, he pointed out, it would be necessary for the Supreme Court to reverse its decision of almost a score of years ago. The other proposals concerned minimum wages, maximum working hours and subjecting

President Asks New Curbs in Securities Act

Indicates Approval of 3 Pending Bills in Letters to Congress Leaders.

By Sidney Olson.

President Roosevelt asked the Congress yesterday to extend present Federal protection for "the uninformed and helpless investor" to other financial fields not now under governmental supervision.

The President did not submit remedial legislation, but signified his approval of the objectives sought in three bills now before the two chambers. His views were presented in three letters, addressed to Senator Robert F. Wagner (Democrat), New York, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee; Representative Hatton W. Sumners (Democrat), Texas, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, and Representative Clarence F. Lea (Democrat), California, chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee.

In the letter to Wagner the President stated that since enactment of the securities act of 1933, the researches of the Securities and Exchange Commission have demonstrated the need for further strengthening of that act to protect investors in trust indentures.

A trust indenture—a contract under which a borrower lists property protecting a loan and appoints a trustee, usually a bank or trust company, to represent the investor in enforcing the loan—is a method used often to make bonds or debentures appear to be alluring investments to the public.

A bill now before the Wagner committee, drafted by Senator Alben W. Barkley (Democrat), of Kentucky, moves toward the SEC objective of investor-protection by disqualifying trustees in trust indentures whose personal interests conflict with interests of the in-

Sharon Steel Labor Backs C. I. O. by 2-1

New Strikes Develop as Jones & Laughlin Signs Pact.

By the Associated Press.

Sharon, Pa., May 25.—Union forces aligned with John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization won their second victory by a greater than 2 to 1 majority today as they carried an employe election in the plants of the Sharon Steel Corporation.

The men voted on the question: "Do you want the union to represent you in collective bargaining?" The vote was in the affirmative, 1,773 to 721.

Earlier, in Pittsburgh the union bolstered its threat of war against four major steel producers with a signed contract recognizing it as exclusive bargaining agency for the 27,000 Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation workers. The contract was the result of a similar vote taken in that plant last week resulting in a slightly less decisive victory.

Union workers of the Canton, Ohio, plants of the Republic Steel Corporation went on strike late tonight. Frank W. Hardesty, subregional director of the organizing committee, said the strike "was a spontaneous rebellion against discrimination against C. I. O. men in Republic plants." Picket lines were immediately formed.

New Strike "Inevitable."

Meanwhile, a definite strike move was made at Indiana Harbor, Ind., where an immediate walkout of the 12,000 employes of Inland Steel Co. was called "inevitable" by Van A. Bittner, regional director of the organizing committee.

The company has refused to sign an agreement with the union, but a formal strike was withheld pending mass meeting. Bittner claimed the union had between 8,000 and 9,000 members, "an overwhelming majority."

Hardly had the ink of the contract signatures dried before Chairman Philip Murray of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee announced a "war council" of the committee would meet in Youngstown, Ohio, tomorrow to map strategy against companies which have refused to sign contracts affecting their 176,000 employes.

Threat Voiced During Vote.

Murray voiced his new threat while nearly 3,000 employes of the Sharon Steel Co. voted.

Leaders at the Pittsburgh steel headquarters of the John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization said tomorrow's meeting in Youngstown would be aimed chiefly at the Republic Steel Corporation and Youngstown Sheet & Tube, who together employ 76,000 men.

Murray asserted the union was "going right along" and would have a signed contract with Bethlehem Steel Corporation despite information he said he had that the corporation would shortly announce a 10 per cent wage increase affecting its 80,000 workers.

The New York office of the corporation declared there was "no foundation for nor truth in" Murray's announcement of the wage increase.

The union said such an increase would bring Bethlehem into line with the $5 minimum daily wage specified in union contracts with units of "Big Steel" and more than 130 smaller independents.

After signing the Jones & Laughlin contract with Chairman H. E. Lewis, of the corporation, carrying out the majority decision at the country's largest Labor Board election last Thursday, Murray declared:

"The other independent steel corporations which have entered into the unholy alliance with the definite agreement not to enter into a written agreement with the S. W. O. C., have definitely determined to thwart the intent and purpose of the national labor relations act, regardless of the consequences which must result to their corporations."

Six-Hour Day Sought.

Detroit, May 24 (AP).—The United Automobile Workers, aiming its unionization drive at the gates of the Ford Motor Co.'s giant Rouge River plant today named the 6-hour day and $8 minimum daily wage as objectives.

Opening the second of its offices for the campaign to organize the workers of the only major automobile producer who has not negotiated with the U. A. W. A., the union adopted a slogan of "Unionism. Not Fordism!"

Catalan Town Seized, 100 Shot By Anarchists

Battalion Revolts; British Freighter Damaged in Rebel Air Raid.

By the Associated Press.

Perpignan, France, May 25.—Reports reaching the frontier tonight said a battalion of anarchists serving with the Spanish government armies on the Huesca front had revolted, marched to the rear, seized the town of Barbastro and there shot 100 persons.

Gen. Sebastian Pozas, commanding government troops in Catalonia, was reported to have sent two battalions of regular army infantry from Lerida to quell the revolt and free Barbastro.

A dispatch from Almeria to Valencia tonight said the British freighter Greatend suffered "considerable damage" when struck by bombs from insurgent airplanes which today raided Almeria for the third successive day.

Leftists Bomb Palma.

The Greatend, listed by Lloyd's as a Newcastle freighter of 1,495 tons, was loading at a dock. Almeria is a government-held port on Spain's southern Mediterranean coast.

There was no mention of casualties at Almeria, but several persons were reported injured in an insurgent air raid on Berja, about 30 miles to the west.

The air ministry announced the government air forces yesterday twice bombed the harbor of Palma, chief port of insurgent-held Majorca in the Balearic Islands.

On the Bilbao front the war drowsed under a hot sun as Gen. Emilio Mola's forces continued slow encircling movements calculated to bring the all-important struggle for Bilbao to a climax.

Little Opposition.

Trips along the insurgent front lines and talks with officers indicated the movement may build up to the real climax of the war.

Working through the picturesque mountain country, dozing under its first real summer weather, the insurgents are meeting little opposition from government forces. Some said they expected little more.

Planes are overhead constantly in the fleece-clouded sky; artillery bangs spasmodically; the repair corps is busy behind the lines repairing bridges and roads blown up by the retreating government troops.

League Gets Madrid Protest.

Geneva, May 25 (AP).—The Spanish government placed a "white book" before League of Nations delegates today to support its contention Italy has continued to intervene in the Spanish civil war.

The publication was distributed privately to members of the League Council.

One chapter was headed "How Italy Became Mistress of Mallorca," the Insurgent-held Balearic Island, which Madrid has said is a base for Italian planes.

Juliana of Netherlands Expecting Heir in '37

London (Wednesday), May 26 (AP). The Daily Mail today reported it understood Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands is expecting a child.

It said the princess, who married Prince Bernhard Zu Lippe-Biesterfeld January 7, 1937, had been "advised to take as much rest as possible and will shortly cease to fulfill public engagements.

By William V. Nessly.

More than 2,700 temporary homes in America are awaiting 500 Basque children, terror-stricken victims of the Spanish war, it was learned yesterday as officials here were requested to assist in obtaining temporary visas for their admittance to this country.

But the Basque people want them back when peace is restored and the youngsters can be cared for again in the once tranquil scenes of their homeland.

That was made plain by those in charge of the venture, who have formed the American Board of Guardians for Basque Refugee Children. They are said to include such figures as Dr. Mary E. Woolley, president emeritus of Mount Holyoke College; Prof. James T. Shotwell, of Columbia; Representative Caroline O'Day, of New York, and others.

However, there were indications the children might run into difficulty here, a storm of protest against their being brought to America. Massachusetts appeared last night to be the center of the movement against the project, with Catholic church leaders denouncing it as a radical move operating behind prominent persons as a "front."

Last night confidence was expressed by those in charge of the undertaking that no legal or official bar would be encountered in bringing the children here.

The day's developments included transmission of a request to State Department for them to enter the country, with a State Department reply which pointed out possible stumbling blocks in the law, but gave assurance the cases would be considered "in the most humane and generous way possible under the law."

The day was marked also by departure from France of the steamer Sinai for Bilbao, where efforts are to be made, despite the critical war condition, to embark the boys and girls for removal to France.

Once the young refugees reach French soil, applications for visas that will admit them to America can legally be made.

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles yesterday made public cor-

3 Supply Ships Complete Hop To North Pole

By the Associated Press.

Moscow, May 26 (Wednesday).—Three Soviet planes bearing a year's supplies for the Russian north pole base completed their flight to the top of the earth today, circling the camp seven hours after taking off from Rudolf Island for their 560-mile Arctic flight.

The planes sighted the camp established by Dr. Otto J. Schmidt on a floating ice floe in the Polar Seas at 6 a. m., Rudolf Island time (9 p. m., E. S. T.).

The commander of the expedition, which eventually may make possible a commercial air route from Moscow over the pole to the United States, radioed the news of the feat back to Moscow.

Blizzards, fogs and generally bad weather had kept the three planes grounded at Rudolf Island since Saturday.

Their mission was to carry supplies and the portable hut in which four men plan to spend a year on the ice at the pole.

The planes were landed on the ice floe on which the first party of 13 men was landed 13 miles from the top of the world May 21.

At the controls were three of the Soviet Union's most famous pilots, Vassily Molokoff, A. D. Alexieff and I. P. Mazuruk, all veterans of Arctic flying. Crews of three planes were believed to total about 15 men.

Damage to the radio apparatus at the polar station added to the hazards of the flight.

Jews Must Back Duce or Leave, Paper Asserts

By the Associated Press.

Rome, May 25.—Premier Mussolini's Milan newspaper asked Jews today to give whole-hearted support to Fascism or to leave the country, and to cease criticism of Germany.

The choice appeared to be one between race and country.

Editorial Writer Ugo Preste Gregorio wrote in Mussolini's Popolo d'Italia that Jews must decide "whether they are Jews in Italy or Jews of Italy."

The editorial emphasized Italian Jews must give up any opposition to the Nazi principle of a pure Teutonic race and must abandon any participation in the Zionist movement for a national Jewish home in Palestine.

Cites German Accord.

The paper held that opposition to Nazi ideas would be "irreconcilable with the friendship that binds us to Germany and which has objectives far more vast and fundamental than the Jewish question." (Italy and Germany are linked by a friendship accord to cooperate in action upon European problems.)

Support of the Zionist movement would be "in definite opposition to the Mediterranean spirit of Italy" because, the newspaper said, the national home project is designed to set up a new state under British control which would be hostile to Arabs and Moslems. (Mussolini has proclaimed firm friendship for the people of Islam.)

Despite the strong tenor of the

Mrs. Lindbergh, Baby to Leave Nursing Home in London Soon

By the Associated Press.

London, May 25.—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh is almost ready to leave the maternity hospital where she gave birth to her third baby boy May 12, members of the hospital staff said today.

She and the child are convalescing in a seventh-floor room of the fashionable nursing home, where the flying colonel comes to see them regularly.

The jam of Coronation Day traffic, it was learned, almost kept Mrs. Lindbergh from reaching the home before the baby was born. She and the colonel, motoring from their home in Kent, had to make a wide detour and arrived just in time.

Col. Lindbergh and their other surviving son, 4-year-old Jon, were said to be living temporarily in London.

The secretary of the nursing home insisted no "Mrs. Lindbergh" was registered at the institution, but he evaded a question about whether a "Mrs. Charles" was there. It was understood Mrs. Lindbergh assumed the name in registering, in order to have privacy.

(Washington authorities said the child, being the son of American parents but born on British soil, would be entitled to both British and United States citizenship all his life unless he chooses one or the other nation when he reaches 21.)

505 Millions In Relief Bill Set Aside in House Drive

PWA, Flood Control and Roads Blocs Join to Raid Measure.

Roosevelt Warns Of Job Reductions

Administration Leaders, Amazed by Attacks, End Session.

By Robert C. Albright.

Over Administration protests, three special interest blocs joined forces in the House yesterday to logroll $505,000,000 in road, flood control, drought and PWA projects into the President's $1,500,000,000 relief bill.

In vain, Majority Leader Sam Rayburn took the floor to turn back the landslide. He told members they were "wrecking this great relief program." At the White House, President Roosevelt warned every dollar earmarked for other purposes would mean fewer jobs for those on relief.

Members applauded Rayburn, smiled grimly when told of the President's comment, but continued their earmarking raid, keeping strictly within the $1,500,000,000 limitation. In desperation, leaders finally mustered strength to adjourn without passing the bill.

Will Come Up Tomorrow.

The relief measure will be called up for final action tomorrow. Over the full day interval, Administration aid will be sought to reverse the promiscuous earmarkings on separate roll call ballots. Aware of the efforts, bloc leaders planned to write letters to members today urging them to stand firm against Administration "pressure."

Leaders were surprised at the sudden combination against them. Although warned in advance of logrolling efforts, they were encouraged by Administration success last Friday in holding the relief figure to the $1,500,000,000 budget figure.

Directing the successful bloc movement were Representative Alfred F. Beiter, of New York, head of the House PWA faction Representative Wilburn Cartwright, of Oklahoma, more roads advocate, and Representative Joe Starnes, of Alabama, of the flood control bloc.

Major victories claimed by the blocs were the following five amendments, breaking through the loosely drawn Administration earmarkings, and fixing minimum sums to be spent for so-called "pork-barrel" undertakings.

For Harold L. Ickes Public Works administration, left out of the Administration's relief draft—$300,000,000 for approved PWA projects. The vote was 172 to 48.

Impounding of $131,000,000 in the PWA "revolving fund" for the exclusive use of PWA, making a $431,000,000 total for Ickes in the bill. The vote was 154 to 47.

Earmarking of $150,000,000 for highways, including $50,000,000 for "farm to market" roads, and $25,000,000 for grade crossings. The vote was 175 to 53.

More for Flood Control.

Earmarking of $45,000,000 for approved flood control projects—this in addition to $22,500,000 for flood control in the President's budget estimates, and $30,000,000 in an omnibus flood control bill. It was finally approved 156 to 89.

Provision that $10,000,000 be spent in the Great Plains area to build small ponds and lakes as a water conservation and drought prevention measure. This was added to the flood control amendment by a 132 to 84 vote.

Cries of "pork" and repeated admonitions from leaders that the President's relief program was being "stripped" failed to stop the pell-mell rush of amendments. Mingled with the desire for pet project was a train of protest at "blank check" relief appropriations. Republicans joined heartily in the earmarking, throwing minority support behind each amendment.

Any one of the groups would have failed if acting alone, but by employing the well-known log-rolling rule of "you vote for mine and I'll vote for yours," they easily crashed through every Administration defense. Highways, flood control and hometown PWA projects are effective election bait, and the huge relief lump sum offered members their chance.

Representative Starnes, a member of the Appropriations Committee, started the earmarking with his flood control amendment, after the leadership had successfully repulsed a Republican effort to turn relief administration back to the States.

Chairman Whittington, of the House Flood Control Committee,

A man suspected of being nearby Virginia's "lone wolf" robber was being held in Arlington County Jail yesterday. Police accused him of ransacking 75 houses in the county since February.

Sheriff Howard B. Fields announced he would invite the Washington detectives to interview the man to determine whether he is the Cat, who nine years ago terrorized Chevy Chase and Cleveland Park. The Cat also worked alone.

A trap was set for the Arlington County robber three months ago, and the man now being held literally fell into it late Monday night.

He gave his name as Doctor Albert Powell, 28, of the 1200 block Thirty-sixth street northwest. He said "Doctor" was his baptismal name, not a professional title. Charges of grand larceny and housebreaking were preferred.

In his room in Georgetown, police found a huge pile of suspected loot—jewelry, silverware, clothes, suitcases and even automobile tags. Last night this was piled on a 14-foot table in the jail, awaiting inspection by the 40 house owners who had reported robberies since February. Four pistols also were found in the room.

When the robbery reports began to mount in February, Sheriff Fields set his trap. He assigned Detectives Harry L. Woodyard and Hugh Jones to run down the robber, and ordered 20 policement to patrol the county and to be on the alert for suspicious characters.

Late Monday night, a neighbor saw a man sneaking into the home of Mrs. Margaret V. Payne, 4803 North Washington boulevard. The neighbor called the jail, where three policemen were on duty awaiting just such a "break."

Arriving at the Payne home, two of the officers, Raymond Crack and M. F. Ward, went into the house with drawn revolvers. The third, H. E. Mason, remained outside under the porch, on the theory the intruder would be flushed from the house and forced to jump.

That is what happened. Mason heard noise on top of the 15-foot porch, and then saw a man jump. Mason opened his arms and caught him.

After taking Powell to his room in Georgetown and finding the alleged lot, the Arlington County officers took Powell to the local detective bureau, where he was photographed and fingerprinted. The prints were sent to the Department

C. & O. Official Admits Mistake In Stock Report

Omission of Securities Controlling Two Lines Called Accident.

By the Associated Press.

Comptroller E. M. Thomas of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad testified at a Senate inquiry yesterday that for five consecutive years he failed to report the firm's ownership of $50,000,000 worth of securities to the Interstate Commerce Commission. He said the omission was "solely through a clerical error."

Testimony before the Senate Railway Finance Investigating Committee indicated this stock, together with more held by the Chesapeake's affiliates, carried working control of the Erie and Nickel Plate lines—although the commission recently had forbidden the C. & O. to acquire control of these roads.

Thomas, who had been described at earlier hearings as "the dean of American railway accountants," assured the committee mention of about 1,000,000 shares of this stock had been "inadvertently left out" of his reports for the years 1926 to 1930.

"Yet that million shares carried control of another railroad," remarked Acting Chairman Truman (Democrat), of Missouri.

"There was no attempt to deceive anybody," Thomas protested hotly. "I'm telling you under oath that it was a plain error and nothing else—made by the clerks in my office, to be frank with you."

Herbert Fitzpatrick, chief legal officer of the Chesapeake, testified much of the unreported stock had been purchased for the C. & O. through its wholly-owned subsidiary, the Virginia Transportation Co.

This firm was organized in 1926, he said, a few months after the Interstate Commerce Commission refused to let the Chesapeake acquire direct control of the Erie and Nickel Plate. Almost immediately the subsidiary began to make heavy purchases of Erie and Nickel Plate stock.

New Faces in Congress

Jarman, of Alabama, Inherited Political Interest From Family

REPRESENTATIVE PETE JARMAN.

Democratic Congressman, Whose Father Was Probate Judge for 29 Years, Held Numerous State Posts Before Coming to D. C.

By Scott Hart.

Pete Jarman (Democrat), of Alabama's Sixth District, was born into politics. That's the way they would say it in the Deep South. It's how Jarman expresses it here.

This means that Jarman, a man with a spontaneous laugh and a fine facility for turning off some serious discussion into a funny story, was born into a family that for generations was in politics. There are such families in the Deep South. A grandfather, even a great-grandfather, held a public chair; then his son holds a public chair and on down the line until both the community and the family itself expect the succeeding sons to hold public office.

Jarman, with some warmth, recalls this political background. It was said of Caesar that he knew the name of every man in his legion; Jarman recalls that his father, Judge P. B. Jarman—probate judge of Sumter County for 29 years—knew the name of every white and colored man in his county. He recalls how his father's home was generally a meeting place for many people of the county. In this tradition Pete Jarman early found himself with an interest in politics. Now he doesn't know exactly how he came to run for Congress—except that it was just the natural thing for him to do.

Yesterday he was busy with the memorial exercises to be held in Congress today. And he was pleased at the fact that he was designated chairman of the Committee on Memorials when he had been only eight days in the Congress.

His career, outside of Washington, has been fairly crowded and at times exciting. A major part of the excitement came when a machine gun bullet ripped into him in the Argonne Forest on October 11, 1918. But earlier—from 1907 to 1910, he attended Old Southern University at Greensboro, Ala. He was graduated from the University of Alabama in 1913 and from that year to 1917 served as chief clerk in the probate office (under his father). Then, until 1919, he was in the Army.

Subsequently, he served as assistant examiner of accounts, secretary of State for Alabama, member of the State Democratic executive, and assistant State comptroller. In June, 1922, Jarman was appointed inspector general of the Alabama National Guard with the rank of major, and in June, 1924, was promoted to lieutenant colonel of Infantry, as inspector of the National Guard Division composed of the troops of Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana. While still serving in France, he was elected first commander of the Legion post in Sumpter County. Later he was elected Department or State commander.

And so running for Congress, he received 13,674 votes as against 4,535 for his opponent. He says that he has followed the Administration in "most things," but reserves the right to think for himself.

Montgomery Ward Strike.

Kansas City, May 25 (AP).—The Montgomery Ward & Co., retail and mail order plant here, was closed today by a strike affecting 2,000 workers. Emil Talley, chairman of a C. I. O. committee directing the strike, said the walkout vote, taken late yesterday, was unanimous.

HOLC Attacks Move to Slash Rate on Loans

By the Associated Press.

The Home Owners Loan Corporation struck out yesterday at proposals pending in Congress to reduce interest rates on HOLC loans. It said these suggestions are adversely affecting collections from those "abundantly able to pay."

In letters mailed to every member of Congress, Chairman John H. Fahey of the loan corporation named no particular interest reduction, but his statement followed introduction of a bill by Senator Copeland (Democrat), of New York, and Representative Curley (Democrat), of New York, for suspension of HOLC foreclosures pending passage of legislation to extend and liberalize terms of their obligations.

Time Extension Asked.

Contending 84,385 home owners were threatened with HOLC foreclosures, Copeland advocated reduction of interest rates on their loans from 5 to 2½ per cent and extension of the amortization period from 15 to 30 years.

Fahey's statement also deplored activities of unnamed "professional organizers" who, he indicated, are promoting campaigns in behalf of proposals to ease HOLC terms.

Other corporation officials said that at least one organization here is urging Congressional action to reduce interest rates and extend the amortization period in HOLC loans.

Support Sought Here.

The organization, it was said, has circulated copies of the Copeland bill and urged owners of homes mortgaged to the HOLC organize behind it.

"It is evident," Fahey said in his letter to Congressmen, "that misunderstanding exists.

"It is not generally realized, apparently, that the corporation does not resort to foreclosure if there is a reasonable way of avoiding it; that the corporation has ample authority within the present law to make adjustments with home owners who are temporarily unable to meet their obligations fully and it makes such adjustments in every case where the facts justify it in so doing."

Civil Service May Get Appeal Board

Establishment of a Civil Service Board of Appeals was recommended yesterday by Representative Barry (Democrat), of New York, in a bill introduced in the House. Three members of the board would be chosen thus: one member of the Civil Service Commission, one selected by civil service employes, and one named by the President.

The board would be empowered to adjust any complaints submitted to it in writing by civil service employes.

Ranks to Shape G.O.P. Policies, Hamilton Hints

Party Chief Puts Issues Up to 16,000,000 'Ordinary' Members.

Determination to let the rank and file of the more than 16,000,000 Republicans in the country fix the party's policies on relief and other issues was seen yesterday in the Sunday night radio address of John Hamilton, national chairman of the party.

Attacking the "skillful propaganda" that had labeled the G. O. P. the party of "economic royalists," Hamilton pointed out that in 1935 only 484,000 persons had reported incomes of more than $5,000 a year, and that if all of them had voted as Republicans there still would be over 16,000,000 members of the party in the smaller income class, "ordinary people, trying to get along, trying to get something better for their children than they had when they started."

Then, declaring that if all persons working for relief checks were given, through direct relief, the same amounts they now are earning, "we will save $400,000,000 of every billion dollars now spent for relief" through saving in material costs, he added:

"Is the substitution of direct relief for work relief, the policy of the Republican party? Is it a wise policy? That is what you Republicans back home, far from Washington, can best judge. That is one of the ways you can shape the policies of the Republican party."

He declared that if direct relief would shatter the morale of the jobless he would be for work relief despite the extra cost, and then asked:

"Won't you Republicans talk with those on relief in your home town, talk with your clergymen, talk with your doctor, see what they think on this question of morale. Perhaps you and they will believe finally that work relief, despite its extra cost, is better. Perhaps you won't. We want to know. Let your Senators and Congressmen here in Washington know what you find out."

Later he told his air audience:

"What I have said as to how you may express your opinion upon these matters (relief and labor) applies with equal force and equal effect to every question. You have the right, and it is your duty, to express your opinion directly to your Senators and Representatives; to express it in party primaries, in party meetings and caucuses and in the hundred and one ways which are provided under our political system."

Test Vote Today On Dutch Fascism

Amsterdam, May 25 (AP).—Fascist strength will meet its first serious test in The Netherlands tomorrow when 4,000,000 voters elect a new house of Parliament.

One hundred seats are at stake.

The National Socialists, or Fascists, hope to win 8 to 10 of the seats. They won two last year.

'Scottsboro' Case Will Be Resumed

Decatur, Ala., May 25 (AP).—Another revival of an old court drama was heralded today as Judge W. W. Callahan set July 6 for resumption of trials in the "Scottsboro" case.

Nine colored men are accused of a mass attack on two white girls.

The call for new trials overshadowed quiet reports for an agreement toward expeditious disposal of the 6-year-old cases.

In New York, Samuel Leibowitz, chief defense counsel, called for a "show-down" compromise on the fate of the men, but Alabama sources indicated hopes for an agreement had faded.

Attorney General A. A. Carmichael, who will have charge of the prosecution, declared in Montgomery "the State will be ready." He has denied rumors of a pending out-of-court settlement.

Federal Wage Law May End D. C. Act

The proposed national wage and hour law make unnecessary the enforcement of the District's minimum wage law, Representative Connery (Democrat), of Massachusetts, sponsor of the national bill, said yesterday.

District officials were not prepared to comment.

It was believed, however, that the national law, if passed, would apply only to those businesses in the District which are engaged in interstate commerce. Consequently, a local minimum wage board would be necessary.

WHY you should THINK before you Drink

Blending is an art that requires the utmost skill. Anyone can distill whiskey—but there are only a handful of men, we believe, not more than five or six, whose taste is sufficiently sensitive and whose experience is sufficiently great to blend fine whiskies so as to bring out a superlative flavor and bouquet.

Seagram has searched the world to single out these master blenders. Their unique skill created the famous "Crown" taste — a taste so distinctive it required over 600 experiments with combinations of different blending whiskies to produce it.

Mat Referee Indicted Also as 'Receiving' Shoreham Loot.

Bernard (Benny) Bortnick, referee at wrestling shows, and Walter E. Koons, manager of Bortnick's junk yard at 171 N street southeast, were indicted by the District grand jury yesterday on a charge of receiving stolen property. The charge involved the purchase of 33 large aluminum trays which were allegedly stolen from the Shoreham Hotel.

In another indictment, the grand jurors charged another junk yard dealer, Isador Leavitt, who operates near Third and E streets southwest, with also receiving stolen property, the property being additional trays that were said to have been lifted from the Shoreham.

Three colored man, Taylor Carroll, Wilson Hart, and James Watson were indicted for grand larceny for the alleged theft of the trays. The first two were said to have been employed by the hotel. They placed the trays in trash that Carroll was to take away in a truck, the grand jurors were told. Some 200 trays, valued at $3 each are missing.

Three youths who were accosted by Policeman Lewis M. Francis at Eighteenth and Harvard streets northwest on the night of May 13 while they were allegedly acting suspiciously were named in an indictment, but only one, John Edward Marr, 17, was charged with a crime. Marr was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon and two cases of joy-riding. The others, somewhat younger, were turned over to Juvenile Court for action.

Twelve indictments were presented against Kenneth A. Washington, colored, who was charged with housebreaking. Most of his alleged victims were colored.

Abattoir Hearing Set for June 14

A public hearing before the full District committee will be recommended by Chairman Mary T. Norton in time to call up the abattoir bill again in the House on the next District day, June 14. Mrs. Norton yesterday wrote to the District Commissioners and asked them to make whatever corrections are necessary in the language of the bill and to make a report prior to next Wednesday, when the measure will be discussed by the committee.

She said that she will try to arrange for the hearing of all witnesses in two hearings, one for the proponents and one for the opponents.

National Guard's Festival Opened

The District National Guard's first annual military festival opened last night for a 10-day stand.

Proceeds from the festival, which is being held on the lot adjacent to the Guard Armory at Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, will be used for athletic and recreational purposes, Col. John W. Oehmann, commanding officer, said.

In addition to numerous amusement concessions and a high-diving act, the show includes a military display.

By the Associated Press.

Cincinnati, May 25.—The American Federation of Labor decided today to battle the growth of John L. Lewis' rebel Committee for Industrial Organization at every turn, and voted to build up its war chest for the struggle.

"When we return to our homes there will be no mistake in the hearts and minds of the workers that the American Federation of Labor is on the battle lines," President William Green told a conference of loyal union representatives.

The representatives voted almost unanimously in favor of a four-point battle plan the federation's executive council had proposed:

To double the one cent a month per member dues each member union now pays the A. F. of L. If all unions pay the increased dues the federation's monthly income will be increased about $30,000.

To start a co-ordinated membership campaign this summer.

Plan United Front.

To complete the split in the American labor movement by expelling all C. I. O. locals from city central bodies and State federations of labor.

To require all loyal unions to join these central bodies and State federations so as to present a united front against the C. I. O.

Lewis, at New York, termed the Cincinnati conference "merely a council of desperation." He predicted many international unions would refuse to pay the additional assessments.

"In any event the amount the federation proposes to raise is insignificant as compared with the financial resources of the great industrial unions which are members of the C. I. O.," Lewis said.

Even though the vote was all but unanimous, there appeared to be considerable division in the A. F. of L. ranks as to how the additional money should be spent and just how the proposed organization campaign should proceed.

Green, generally regarded as speaking for Lewis' most bitter enemies in the federation, plainly indicated to fight the C. I. O. directly—with rival unions in some cases. Another group's spokesmen said they felt the federation should try to build itself up by organizing the unorganized, but should not poach on Lewis' territory.

This issue will be fought out at the executive council meeting to follow the conference.

"There have been times when I thought you have been a little bit too easy," Hutcheson said. "Now, by God, I'll be a good soldier in your army."

British, American Flying Boats Make First N. Y.-Bermuda Hop

U. S. Clipper Ends Flight in 4 Hours 54 Minutes; Transatlantic Passenger Service May Begin Next Month.

By the Associated Press.

Port Washington, N. Y., May 25.—Two big flying boats, which probably will inaugurate regular passenger service between New York and Bermuda next month, lazed over the 783 miles of open ocean today in what was described officially as survey flights.

From Manhasset Bay, an indentation on the North Shore of Long Island, a Pan-American Airways plane of 21 tons picked up a tail wind the moment it left the water and droned into the harbor at Hamilton, Bermuda, four hours and 54 minutes later.

Britons Battle Winds.

The British Imperial Airways boat of 20 tons encountered headwinds on its trip from Hamilton to the harbor here, and settled its silver-hued hull into the water after five hours and 46 minutes of flying time.

"Without incident," read the reports of Capt. Harold E. Gray, of Pan-American's "Bermuda Clipper," and Capt. William Neville Comming, of Imperial Airways "Cavalier."

Skippers of the four-engined flying parlorcars looked on the flight as routine. But Cumming's welcome to American shores was something more than routine.

"How you do things!" he exclaimed as he faced a battery of microphones, movie cameras and interviewers.

The skippers talked to each other at about the half-way point on their flights, exchanging greetings by radio, but their respective altitudes—Gray flew at 8,000 feet and Cumming at 1,000—prevented their sighting each other and dipping wings in salute.

Historical Event.

The visits to Bermuda and the American mainland marked the first time that regular passenger transport airplanes of the two countries ever had landed in the other's territory.

The Bermuda-New York service, which may utilize Charleston, S. C., and Baltimore as alternate termini, probably will be begun on regular schedule in June, it was said unofficially. Imperial Airways and Pan-American will operate in concert, but their services will be separate.

4-H Founder Is Dead At West Virginia Camp

Jacksons, Mill, W. Va., May 25 (AP). A heart ailment claimed tonight the life of William H. Kendrick, 55, founder of the National 4-H movement and State director of the 4-H camp at Jacksons Mill since 1921.

He died at the director's cottage of the camp, much of which he was responsible for building. It was the first 4-H camp in the Nation. His only son, James Garrison Kendrick, lives in Washington.

Witness Turns On D.C. Jeweler Defending Self

With his chief defense witness presenting damaging testimony, Ezra Ravven, 50-year-old jeweler, who is defending himself in Police Court of an assault charge, appeared in a hopeless muddle late yesterday when the trial was recessed until today.

Sentenced last week to post a $300 peace bond or serve 90 days on a charge of threatening a former secretary if she preferred assault charges against him, the jeweler demanded a jury trial.

The accused man insisted on acting in his own defense, despite the advice of Police Court attaches.

Madeline Veach, 2119 H street northwest, who said she formerly was employed in Ravven's shop, 1900 block Pennsylvania avenue northwest, said the man struck her several times when she attempted to remove from the shop her typewriter after she had quit.

Detectives Earle Talbot and Elmer Dalstrom both testified they had arrested Ravven after they had seen him strike the woman. Ravven had few questions to ask the men, and when he dismissed them requested that Judge John P. McMahon issue a directed verdict. Judge McMahon overruled the motion.

Thomas L. Avant, 828 Twentieth street northwest, was called to the stand by Ravven as a witness in the latter's behalf.

Ravven began by asking the man if he had ever been in the jewelry shop. Avant said he had and was asked what he had said.

Avant answered from the stand: "I think I said you are a crook and a rascal."

Clarence C. Butler, War Veteran, Dies

Clarence C. Butler, a World War veteran, of 104 Allegheny avenue, Takoma Park, Md., died yesterday at Walter Reed Hospital. He was 42. In 1917-18, he was an interpreter at the G. H. Q. of the American Army at Chaumont, France. After the war he taught in a school of languages in Turkey.

A native of Cleveland, he came here five years ago to work as an interpreter for the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice. He died from complications which resulted from an operation a week ago.

Mr. Butler is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary L. Butler, and his mother, Mrs. Amanda B. Butler. Funeral services will be conducted at Hines funeral home, Fourteenth street and Columbia road northwest, by the Rev. C. E. Hawthorne, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church. Butler was senior vice commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 350, and his comrades will accompany the body to Arlington Cemetery.

Ship Goes Down Ways Ahead of Ceremony

Nagasaki, Japan, May 25 (U.P.).—Officials in high silk hats who came here to launch the new 7,000-ton Yalu Maru, were surprised to discover that a crew of workmen, assigned to test launching gadgets, had already launched the boat by accident. The official party held the launching ceremonies anyway, with the boat already floating out in the river.

Pierre duPont Income Taxes Hearing Closes

Leader's Brother Witness at Concluding Session in New York.

New York, May 25 (AP).—Irenee duPont testified today that gunpowder for military purposes now constitutes only one-half of one per cent of the total production of the E. I. duPont-DeNemours Co., which during the World War supplied 40 per cent of all the explosives used by the allies.

"Paints and chemicals today comprise the great bulk of our business," he said.

DuPont was a witness at a Federal income tax hearing involving his older brother, Pierre S. duPont, who is accused with John J. Raskob of engaging in a series of transactions to establish fictitious losses for tax purposes in 1929 shortly after the Wall Street crash.

The hearing under way for the last three weeks, came to an end late today. Pierre duPont and Raskob both testified in defense of the transactions, which enabled them to establish losses of more than $7,000,000 for income tax purposes.

Mason B. Leming, chief of Government counsel, arranged to confer tonight with Joseph Hartfield, counsel for Raskob, on the question of whether all the evidence adduced at the duPont hearing could be conceded as being equally applicable to the Raskob case, which was to have been heard separately.

Gem Theft Suspect To Be Sent to D. C.

New York, May 25 (AP).—Jewell Ashby Gould, former convict wanted here in connection with the jewel-robbery slaying of Max Silverstein in 1934, was ordered removed today to Washington, D. C., to answer a charge of transporting stolen jewels in interstate commerce.

U. S. Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter ordered the removal after Assistant District Attorney Charles T. Murphy, saying that New York police wanted Gould, asked that bond be set at $15,000.

Safecrackers Get $1,000 in Robbery

Robbers early yesterday broke into the safe at the Tru Blue Beer Co., Fourth and Channing streets northeast, and escaped with nearly $1,000 in cash and $2,000 in checks.

In their haste to escape the yeggs missed $1,200 in cash and jewelry. The job, police said, was done by experienced men who drilled the combination.

A. R. Graustein to Head Maritime Reorganizing

By the Associated Press.

Veterans Head Coming Drive For Chest Funds

All Leaders Have Held Key Posts in Previous Charity Campaigns.

The tenth anniversary Community Chest campaign this fall will be conducted by veteran leaders, all prominent residents of Washington who have held important key posts in the past nine drives, President Clarence Phelps Dodge has announced.

Pledged to use their every effort in promoting the campaign, the leaders' committee will be headed by Dodge, with William J. Flather, jr., as vice chairman. Its formation will not affect the functions or operations of the regular campaign executive committee, composed of chairmen of the various units.

Seeking to effect a united front, the 1937 drive will enlist not only the 25 veteran leaders but also all outstanding division chairmen, team captains, key men and other workers of the last nine campaigns who are available.

Among those who have accepted invitations to serve on the anniversary campaign committee are:

To Drive Message Home.

"We are going to make this a real jubilee year in honor of the tenth anniversary campaign," said Dodge. "We are going to bring home to Washington the fact that the beneficiaries of the welfare agencies financed through the Community Chest are the responsibility of all Washington, of every organization and every man and woman who has an income, and that the Community Chest is merely their agent in transmitting the necessary funds, supplied by them, to these agencies."

Prior to launching of the Community Chest in 1928, there were on record the names of 13,500 individuals who contributed to the charities of Washington. In the first campaign pledges were made by 64,864 persons.

"In spite of severe handicaps," said Dodge, "the work of most of the Chest's agencies has expanded almost, but not quite, sufficiently to keep pace with the needs of the community.

Sixty-five Agencies Participating.

"Thousands of families have been helped to become independent, self-supporting and self-respecting. Literally hundreds of thousands of individuals have been helped back to health through Chest agencies. To list the number of beneficiaries of Chest agencies during the past nine years would produce staggering figures that would challenge the credulity of the average person.

"But the job has been done and the proof is available for all who care to see it."

From 64,864 contributors in the first campaign, the number grew to 172,553 in 1936.

"Washintgon is a generous city," Dodge said. "Its people are ever ready to listen to the cry of distress. If they can once become accustomed to the idea that they are making not one, but 65 gifts, when they make their Chest contribution the problem of financing private social welfare in Washington will be solved."

Man Hangs Self In Locked Room; Shot Draws Police

Elry Sidney Ball, 71-year-old retired carpenter, was found hanged in his home, 412 Hamilton street northwest, early yesterday after a shot was heard to come from his locked basement room. Police from the Sixth Precinct forced the door and found Ball suspended by a rope from a water pipe. A .44-caliber horse pistol was found on the floor nearby.

Police first reported he suffered a gunshot wound in the forehead. More thorough investigation, however, disclosed the wound was only scratches received when the swinging body struck a steel girder. There were no other wounds on the body.

Detective Sergt. John Dalglish, of the homicide squad, found two torn notes in the room. They were pieced together, but proved illegible.

Dalglish said the death apparently was a suicide. He explained the shot as having been fired by Ball just before he lost consciousness.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald ordered the body to the District Morgue for an autopsy, which disclosed death was due to strangulation.

Mexico Oil Strike Starts Tomorrow

Mexico City, May 25 (AP).—Mexican labor is ready for battle with the Nation's $400,000,000, foreign-dominated oil industry—scheduled to begin at midnight Thursday.

A general strike of 18,000 employes of 17 producing, distributing and transporting companies has been set for that hour.

It may slow the whole commercial structure of the country. Railways, many factories and other industrial concerns depend on oil for fuel.

Powerful unions in outside industries are discussing joining the oil men in sympathy strikes. Government labor department efforts to avert the oil strike have brought no solution. Treasury officials said privately President Lazero Cardenas needs 1,000,000 pesos daily to carry forward his extensive public works program. Oil furnishes him about 117,000 pesos daily, and dependent industries probably provide as much.

Fugitive Is Seized.

Hagerstown, May 25.—Richard W. Renner was returned here today from Cleveland, Ohio, where he was apprehended on a warrant charging embezzlement of $103.20 from his employer, R. M. Doub, of Washington.

Abolition of WPA Demand of Lewis

By the Associated Press.

Senator Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, using President Roosevelt's wage and hour message as a text, demanded Monday that the WPA be abolished and that the Federal Government make limited relief grants to the States.

Shortly after the President's message was read, Lewis took the Senate floor and interpreted a phrase as indicating an intention on the part of the Administration to shift back to the States responsibility for relief.

He referred to a statement that "no State is justified in sitting idly by and expecting the Federal Government to meet responsibility."

Lewis called for elimination of "useless" bureaus and warned that "the Federal Government cannot forever endure the demands that the States are making on its Treasury."

Two Liquor Stores Robbed by Bandit

First he entered a store operated by Rebecca Weinstein, 35, of the 300 block of H street northwest, forced her into a corner and escaped with $100.

Then he went to the 1300 block of H street northeast, where he robbed the store of Tessie Gurevich of $15.

respondence between the department and Dr. Frank Bohn, of New York, secretary of the American Board of Guardians.

Dr. Bohn had written that the venture was part of "a concerted effort by democratic countries to evacuate women, children and the unprotected civilian population from the war zone, regardless of race, creed or politics." Calling attention to "the terrible emergency that has arisen in the autonomous Basque republic," he said he felt confident "that we will be fortunate enough to have your assistance should minor technical difficulties appear to hamper this humanitarian enterprise."

The State Department replied, expressing its "real and profound sympathy * * * with the plight of these children" and adding that "any humane person would have a natural desire to be of any possible assistance to persons in this situation."

Legal Complications.

However, the letter pointed to "legal aspects," including the Department of Labor's definition of a temporary visit, under the immigration act of 1924:

"'An alien visiting the United States temporarily as a tourist or temporarily for business' shall be construed to mean an alien who, having a fixed domicile in some other country which he has no intention to abandon, comes to the United States to remain for a temporary period only."

Attention was called to a portion of the immigration act of 1917 which includes among groups of aliens inadmissible into the United States "all children under 16 years of age, unaccompanied by or not coming to one or both of their parents, except that any such children may, in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor, be admitted if in his opinion they are not likely to become a public charge and are otherwise eligible."

Another legal restriction in the act was referred to by the department in the inclusion among inadmissible aliens of "persons whose ticket or passage is paid for by any corporation, association, society, municipality or foreign government, either directly or indirectly."

Ages of Children.

The reply to Dr. Bohn said the individual decision as to whether these children may be issued visas is in the hands of the consular officer concerned, who must be guided by the law.

At the office of Secretary of Labor Perkins it was said there was nothing before her department in connection with the case and no action was being taken at present.

The children it is intended to bring here will not be of tender years, it was pointed out by Gardner Jackson, representing the Board of Guardians here, but will rang in age from about 12 to about 16.

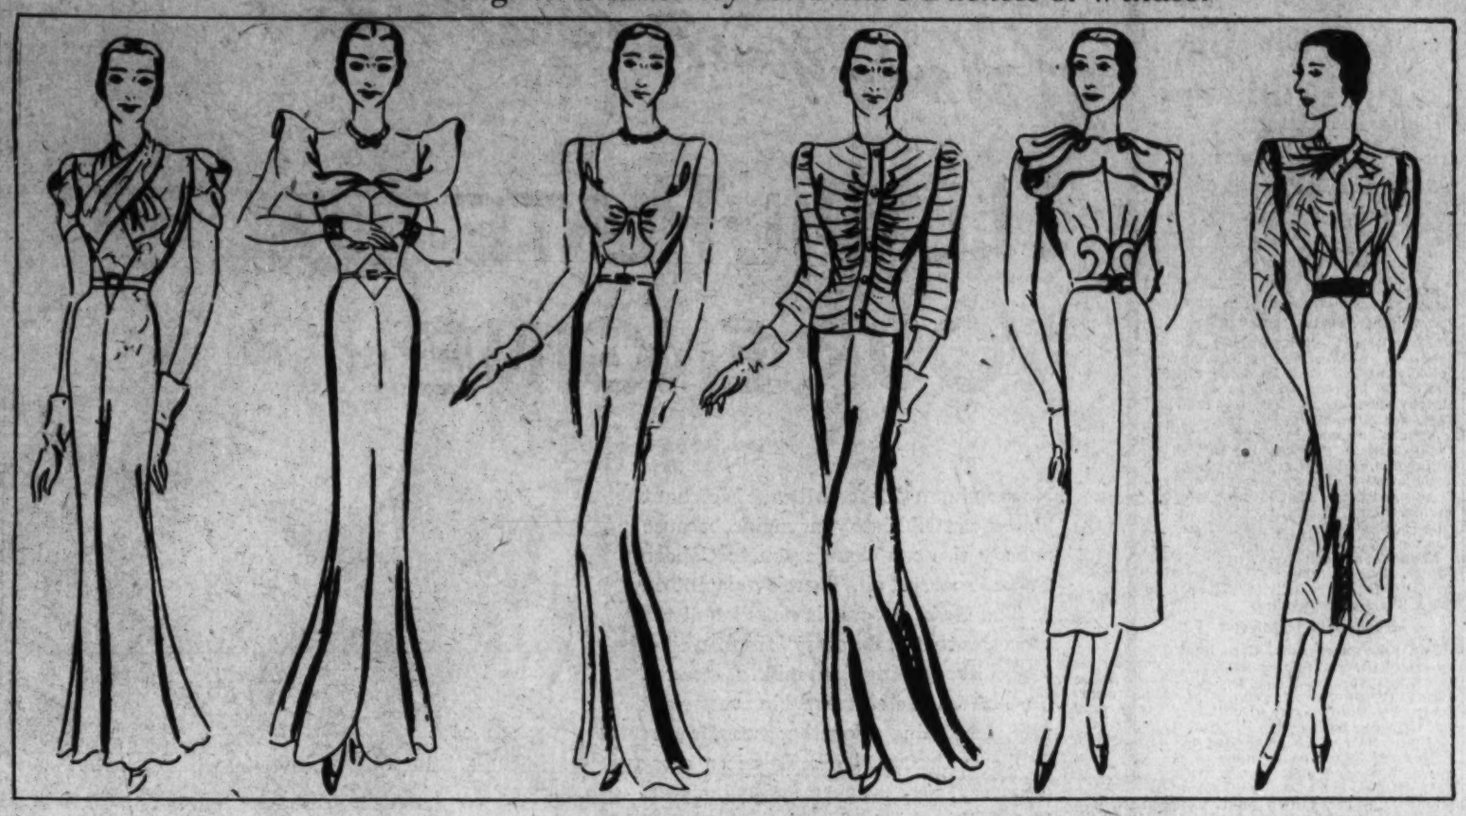
Both Massachusetts Senators were reported last night to be receiving protests against the undertaking. Senator Walsh reported 100 telegrams received and Senator Lodge 75, while written protests were starting to arrive in the day's late mails. Most of them were said to be from members of the Knights of Columbus and the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters.

Objections Cited.

Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, was represented considering it ill-advised to bring the children so far from their home, to a land where their tongue is not spoken and where they may be removed from their Catholic faith.

Meanwhile, Jackson revealed that from both private homes and private camps have come the 2,700 or more applications to care for, at least one of the children. He said it was "interesting to note" that the first two camps to send in applications were the Italian Settlement House Camp, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and the Naturfreunde Camp of New York, a German-American organization.

Wardrobe Designed Exclusively for Future Duchess of Windsor



For honeymoon dining the future duchess has chosen this frock in a flowered crepe of soft pastel colors. The neck is draped high in fichu style and short drapes simulate sleeves.

Midnight blue satin is the theme of this regal looking evening gown. Wide shoulder straps are cut in one with the bodice front and jeweled clips flashed at the corners.

The jacket is the dominating element in this evening gown ensemble. The jacket is red and silver lame in a striped design and is worn over an evening gown of midnight blue satin.

Funeral Rites For Rockefeller Set for Today

Private Service to Be Held at Pocantico Hills; Burial in Ohio.

By the Associated Press.

North Tarrytown, N. Y., May 25.—Surrounded by the same rich simplicity that marked his living habits, the body of John D. Rockefeller, sr., arrived here tonight for private funeral services.

After last rites are held tomorrow in the presence of relatives, close associates and devoted servants, the body of the capitalist-philanthropist will be taken to Cleveland, Ohio, and laid to rest beside his wife, Laura Spelman Rockefeller, who died in 1915.

By plane, motor and rail, members of the Rockefeller clan gathered at the 3,500-acre estate.

The services will be held in the great hall of the 47-room mansion, with the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the Riverside Baptist Church in New York, and the Rev. Lester H. Bent, pastor of the Pocantico Hills Union Church, officiating.

During the services the activities of many units of the vast Standard Oil system will be suspended, and the offices of three of his major beneficiaries, the Rockefeller Institute for Memorial Research, the General Education Board and the Rockefeller Foundation, will be closed.

Milk Rule Suggested.

Hagerstown, May 25.—A standard milk ordinance for Hagerstown and Washington County has been recommended by the State Department of Health to the Mayor and City Council and the County Board of Health. The ordinance is identical to that recently adopted by Montgomery.

Royal Guests Ban Stirs Duke; Betrothed Will Tint Hair Blue

Monts, France, May 25 (U.P.).—King George VI, directly furthering ostracism of the Duke of Windsor, telephoned his exiled brother late today and told him that official guests will not be permitted to attend the wedding of the duke and Mrs. Wallis Warfield on June 3.

The duke was enraged at what his friends at the Chateau de Cande described as a "coup de grace by Edward's enemies," but he sought to conceal his anger after his conversation with the King.

The monarch, telephoning from his study in Buckingham Palace, was said to have been sympathetic. As result of the royal verdict for which the duke blamed his critics in the British cabinet rather than the brother to whom he forfeited his throne, Edward's wedding will be marred by the absence of several of his closest friends.

To Tint Hair Blue.

Monts, France, May 26 (A.P.).—Wallis Warfield will have her dark hair tinted deep blue to match her gown and eyes for her wedding June 3 to the Duke of Windsor—who busied himself pushing a lawnmower about the Chateau de Cande estate today.

Paris' well-known Pierre will come to the estate Monday to do the tinting. Other announcements were that the civil wedding service will be a double-ring ceremony. There will be no entertainment for the 30 wedding guests the night before.

New Protest Is Due On Cardinal's Talk

Berlin, May 25 (A.P.).—Diego von Bergen, German ambassador to the Vatican, has been instructed to protest the anti-Hitler speech of George, Cardinal Mundelein, of Chicago.

It was disclosed tonight Von Bergen was told to file with the Holy See strong representations against the speech, in which Cardinal Mundelein called Adolf Hitler "an Austrian paperhanger" and characterized German "immorality" trials of Catholic monks and lay brothers as "crooked" propaganda.

2 Officers Shot By Trio Fleeing Bank Robbery

One Policeman Wounded 23 Times in Pursuit of Indiana Gang.

By the Associated Press.

Logansport, Ind., May 25.—A new foray of crime—in which a bank was robbed and two peace officers were showered with machine gun fire—was charged tonight by State police to the notorious Al Brady and two of his lieutenants, all of whom already had price tags on their heads for murder and robbery.

A burst of machine gun bullets stopped State Policeman Paul V. Minneman, of Logansport, and Deputy Sheriff Elmer Craig, of White County, as they raced in pursuit of an automobile carrying three men who robbed the Goodland State Bank of $2,500 today.

Minneman was shot probably fatally. Twenty-three bullets were removed from his body. Craig suffered less serious wounds.

Fugitives Suspected.

The robbers escaped. Capt. Matt Leach, of the State police, said their descriptions indicated they undoubtedly were the three fugitive Brady gangsters—Brady James Dohlhover and Clarence Lee Shafer, jr.

Minneman and Craig spotted the robber car less than an hour after the hold-up and gave chase. State police rushed every available officer into a widespread man hunt. Two airplanes roared back and forth between Logansport and the Ohio line carrying searchers. The last report was that the outlaws were headed east.

Ohio officers joined in the search. Sheriff George Lutz, of Hamilton County, Ohio, had men guarding roads into that county.

Two of the robbers entered the bank and forced Miss Leona Hamilton, cashier, into a rear room. A moment later R. Lyle Constable, a director, entered the bank and was forced to go to the back room. The third robber waited in an automobile.

One Knew Detective.

As they finished one of the hold-up men said to Miss Hamilton, "If you see Detective Don Winn give him my regards because he knows me."

Donald Winn, a State police detective, has been assigned to search for the Brady gangsters for several months.

Fleeing with their loot, the robbers encountered Craig and Minneman near here. Craig said he and Minneman were watching for the car. When they started in pursuit the bandits opened fire.

That's me—Your Mileage Merchant

I'LL OIL-PLATE YOUR ENGINE

Nobody but a Conoco Mileage Merchant like me can Oil-Plate your engine, because nobody else can change you to Conoco Germ Processed oil. There's a patent on it. The Germ Process is not like all the processes that "take away" from an oil—sort of like making skim milk. Instead of that, after the oil is refined in every right way, something altogether extra is put in Germ Processed oil. This is a great discovery, because then a genuine plating of oil is able to form in your engine. If you would imagine a slippy skin of oil really grown to every working surface—and not just floating around—that's a picture of Oil-Plating. A plating can't flow down while your car is parked, so you won't punish your Oil-Plated engine doing all the stopping and starting you please. Or if you're hitting a pace all day—maybe even pulling a trailer up the mountains—it does not make Oil-Plating rub away. That's letting you out of all the worst wear, at the same time that your Conoco Germ Processed oil is saving you quart after quart.

OLYMPIC STAR. Arthur Highland blazed his way to aquatic fame by smashing records in the dash and middle-distance events. Arthur says: "Smoking Camels with my meals and afterwards eases the strain after racing and helps my digestion."

WHAT THESE ACE MERMAIDS SAY—Dorothy Poynton Hill speaking: "I'm always in training with good condition in mind. I prefer Camels for their mildness. They never jangle my nerves. I can enjoy smoking as often as I wish. Another advantage of smoking Camels is the invigorating 'lift' they give me when I'm tired after a strenuous workout."

Lenore Kight Wingard—one of the greatest, yet most modest, American woman athletes of our times—adds this: "I really get fun out of swimming. Hard work is part of the game and I enjoy that too. It's grand the way Camels help me enjoy my food no matter how tired or strained I may be. Oh! Another thing! I've found Camels do not irritate my throat."

Truce Spurned As of Little Aid For Court Bill

Chances Same Without Any Compromise, President Hints.

manufacturers to rules of fair labor practices.

Thus four issues for the future are raised in that one measure, the President pointed out, adding there also were many measures of the past which have not been finally adjudicated, such as the TVA in all its aspects; flood control; the right of municipalities to borrow funds from the Federal Government for publicly-owned power systems and the right of the Federal Government to condemn land for housing projects.

Asked whether all he had said should be taken to mean the emergency which prompted the Supreme Court reorganization proposal had not yet passed and that a rejuvenation of that tribunal was still regarded as necessary, the President urged his interviewers to use their imaginations.

May Push Other Bills.

How far the President intends to go in pushing the court plan is not clear. Some observers regarded submission to Congress of his message on hours, wages and working conditions as evidence he wished to change the subject away from the court plan, which would not formally be withdrawn but be permitted to rest on the Senate calendar as other matters were settled.

But other observers see submission of this message as laying of the foundation for a renewed effort by the President in behalf of his Supreme Court plan. They contend the President lost the greatest incentives for passage of his reorganization bill when the Supreme Court validated both the Wagner relations act and the social security program and thus found it necessary to project at this time other legislative undertakings affecting large numbers of persons and then point to it as threatened by judicial invalidation.

Death of Bill Forecast.

But whatever the White House intentions may be, the view still prevailed on Capitol Hill that the reorganization in its present form is dead, and that it is doubtful whether any compromise which had for its purpose increasing the size of the Supreme Court could be passed.

As an example of the manner in which the recent liberal trend of the Supreme Court has chilled enthusiasm for the court reorganization plan, even among some of the most ardent New Dealers, was a radio address last night by Senator Robert F. Wagner, commenting on the social security decisions.

Senator Wagner asserted that after a series of decisions narrowing the Federal power to solve broad social and economic problems the Supreme Court this year had handed down several historic opinions "bringing judicial judgment into line with the spirit of our institutions and the needs of our times." He added that "the Constitution has not changed, but the men interpreting it have become more alert to the world in which they live."

In what almost amounted to an eulogy of the Supreme Court, Senator Wagner went on to assert that on Monday "for the first time, the court held forthrightly that the Federal Government had the power to tax and spend directly for any purpose involving the national welfare."

"Avenues Reopened.

"It held further," he continued, "that the national welfare was involved in any evil condition affecting the people all over the country—any condition with which the States as individual units were not competent to deal. The magnitude of this holding is easy to see."

But more indicative of Senator Wagner's attitude was his contention that "thus in two short months the avenues which had been closed have been reopened; the powers which had been stifled have been reborn" and that "our dual form of government is once more able and ready to minister to the needs of the people."

"The court decisions bringing about this change," he said, "will be listed among the most statesmanlike of all times."

Although he did not say so, Senator Wagner's attitude was that of a man who wished to forget the reorganization bill as unnecessary and to get on with matters of more vital importance to the Nation. He would have the Federal Government move on to "extend the unemployment provisions of the act to those as yet uncovered by them, such as farmers, domestics and workers in small establishments.

"We must make even more free from economic worry the winter days of the old," he asserted. "We must develop a more far-reaching system of aid to the crippled and destitute. Vocational rehabilitation, a more pressing need now than ever before, must be pushed forward. Methods must be devised shortly for removing the risks which the wage earner faces through ill health."

The President was asked at his press conference about suggestions that the social security program now be extended. He replied that last fall the Social Security Board commenced talking about minor extensions, especially in regard to the crippled and dependent children. It was found, he said, the various plans projected all would cost the Treasury money and in view of the budgetary situation they were held in abeyance.

Test of McNutt's 'Cocktail Ukase' Is Expected Soon

Manila, May 25 (AP).—A test of High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt's order that he be toasted ahead of Commonwealth President Manuel Quezon at all official functions appeared in prospect tonight.

Some observers expressed belief a formal occasion would be chosen at which a toast to Quezon would precede one to the new high commissioner "to see what McNutt will do about it."

At the same time authoritative sources disclosed the diplomatic corps was circumventing another McNutt order—that all letters to commonwealth government officials regarding foreign affairs be routed through the high commissioner's office.

U. S. Minister To Costa Rica Is Dead at 64

Edward Albright, United States Minister to Costa Rica, lawyer and publisher, died yesterday in Nashville, Tenn. He was 64.

Mr. Albright was a close friend of Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He became ill in this city while preparing for the Costa Rica assignment, and never was able to fill the post. He was named Minister to Finland in 1933, and asked to be transferred to Latin-America because of the severe winters in Helsingfors.

Mr. Albright was born near Gallatin, Tenn., the son of John Wesley and Callie (Guthrie) Albright. He was educated at Gallatin Male Academy and Cumberland University, receiving his law degree from the latter school. President Wilson appointed him United States Marshal for the middle Tennessee district in 1919.

Four years before this he had managed Kenneth D. McKellar's successful race for the United States Senate. In 1924 he was a Presidential elector on the Davis-Bryan ticket.

He was publisher of the Sumner County (Tenn.) News when he became Minister to Finland.

M.D. Rathgeber Burial Services Set Tomorrow

Funeral services for Mortimer D. Rathgeber, 43, who died Sunday of a heart attack in Jacksonville, Fla., will be held tomorrow in the Fort Myer chapel at 2:30 p. m. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

According to word received here, Mr. Rathgeber, who lived at 3727 Warren street, was stricken while riding in an automobile with his wife and two friends.

An employe of the Potomac Electric Power Co., he was widely known in local tennis circles, having been one of the organizers of the Public Parks Tennis League and having been active here for many years in promotion of tournaments.

He left Washington Saturday with his wife, Mrs. Florence P. Rathgeber, and Mrs. Helen Thorpe and Albert Fisher, en route to Miami, Fla. The group planned to join Mrs. Thorpe's husband, Wendell Thorpe.

Son of the late Maj. George H. Rathgeber, Mr. Rathgeber was born at Fort Riley, Kans. He was a second lieutenant in the United States Army during the World War.

Besides his wife, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Nellie Rathgeber, and a sister, Mrs. Seth H. Frear, wife of Lieut. Col. Frear, who are in the Philippines, and a daughter, Kay.

ACT YOUR AGE BIG BOY—ASK FOR THE DRY BEERY KIND!

EVEN a gal—if she's a real beer drinker—may kid a guy about drinking sweet beers. That ill-advised taste came from the concoctions of prohibition. They had to be made sweet to hide their unpleasantness. But after repeal, some brewers, following pre-prohibition standards generations old, began to brew a dry beery beer again. And all over the country wherever such a beer appeared it gradually became the favorite.
Here in the Baltimore-Washington market, Gunther's outsells sweeter beers by a country mile. And you'll understand why when you try a glass. Made after the manner of the finest Bohemian and Bavarian beers, only the best imported hops are used. It has as grand a taste as any premium beer. Yet it costs no more than other brews, because most of it is sold right here near the brewery, and that keeps the handling and transportation costs low. If we sold our beer in St. Louis or Milwaukee, we'd have to charge a big premium, too!
And another thing: Gunther's is light in body. It doesn't fill you up the way heavier-type beers do. You can drink more of it and never lose your appetite for food. Its dry, beery flavor adds a zestful tang to any meal. Order a case of Gunther's today and learn to be a real beer drinker.

The End Of A Chapter.

An unpleasant chapter for the teachers and pupils of Washington's public schools came to an end Monday when the House by a 3-to-1 vote put its seal of approval on the repeal of the red rider.

This action was long in coming. It is just short of two years since the red rider was adopted and local teachers were compelled to swear each month that they had not taught communism to their charges. Yet, belated or not, it was an eminently wise and praiseworthy move on the part of Congress to wipe the measure off the books. Nor will any one begrudge the members the face-saving gesture they apparently felt compelled to take when they accompanied the repeal action by a statement declaring that it was not to be construed as permitting the advocacy of communism.

There is no group which happens to be more loyal to American institutions than the teachers in our public schools. The overwhelming majority of them do not need to be instructed to eschew propaganda and stick to teaching. A stigma on their patriotism has now been removed and it is all to the good.

Members of Congress who sponsored the repeal bill are entitled to a large measure of credit. By a patient process of education they convinced a majority of their colleagues, who had previously passed the red rider, that it was an unwarranted encroachment upon educational freedom. In the House the efforts of Representative Kennedy to clear the issue of misunderstandings and prejudices were especially effective. He and his colleagues deserve hearty congratulation for the manner in which the bill was handled. For under their skillful guidance a serious threat to educational freedom has been turned into a resounding victory for common sense in teaching.

Light And Shadow At Geneva.

The skies over Geneva on the occasion of the ninety-seventh session of the League of Nations Council are by no means wholly gloomy. The statesmen gathered in the Swiss city can take comfort in the fact that before the present deliberations end at least two constructive steps shall have been taken.

In the first place, the once troublesome Alexandretta dispute, which at one time embittered Franco-Turkish relations, has been satisfactorily compromised through the mediatory efforts of the League. And, secondly, the meeting of the Council and of the Assembly, which convenes in special session today, will see a new member added to the Geneva organization. Its sovereignty now fully recognized by Great Britain, Egypt is about to have this fact signalized by admission to the League.

But there is a large fly in the ointment of the League's satisfaction over these happy developments. The dangerous Spanish problem must also be confronted.

That problem lies at the very heart of the present international situation. The great powers have somehow managed to keep the war in the Iberian peninsula from spreading. Yet the danger of a continental conflagration lit by a spark from the Spanish fires remains. Moreover, this will continue to be the case as long as the civil war lasts, or at least as long as outside nations continue to make Spain the battleground of their ideological struggle.

Despite the non-intervention agreement and its sequel—the international control scheme—charges and counter-charges of foreign intervention in Spain continue to be made. And the Spanish government has now given warning to the League that it will protest against German and Italian activities on behalf of the insurgents.

It is entirely within the rights of the Spanish representatives at Geneva to do so. But their prospective action, in the opinion of more than one outsider, is packed with dynamite. Thus a very definite attempt is under way in the Council to sidetrack the Spanish question or at least see that it is handled with kid gloves.

The leader of this move is Anthony Eden, Britain's foreign secretary. His purpose is not to keep the League from giving consideration to the Spanish problem but to secure from the Council moral support for his plan to withdraw from Spain all foreigners now fighting both with the government forces and with the insurgents, and, if possible, to bring the civil war to an end.

There appears to be little chance of success at the moment, for the more ambitious aim. Both factions in Spain are convinced that ultimate victory for their side is inevitable. With Italy definitely hostile to the proposal that all "volunteers" be evacuated from Spain, and Germany no more than lukewarm to the idea, even the more limited of Mr. Eden's objectives may prove impossible of attainment.

Yet the attempt is worth making, if only for humanitarian reasons. Any nation which deliberately blocks the way will stand condemned before the bar of world public opinion as an international firebrand.

Under A Cloud.

Of even greater significance than the judicial sanction accorded the social security act is the changed attitude of the Supreme Court. The majority which was handing down controlling decisions a year ago has become the minority. A broader view of the Constitution is evident in several vital opinions since the court upheld the New York unemployment insurance law last November.

These liberal decisions have given rise to many unfounded assumptions that a new NRA or any other regulatory legislation which Congress might now pass would be sustained. There is nothing in the record to justify such a belief. In upholding the Wagner labor act a few weeks ago, the court made a special point of distinguishing the issue there decided from the points on which the Schechter case opinion was based. With equal care Justice Cardozo has drawn a clear line between the reasoning which led to invalidation of the AAA and judicial approval of the social security act.

A distinction was also drawn between the social security act and the attempt to tax the products of child labor. In effect, the court has said that Congress has authority to tax and spend for the general welfare within the scope of national policy and power. It did not say that Congress may levy taxes for purposes beyond its constitutional powers. Certainly there is nothing revolutionary in this attitude. The opinion appears to be merely an extension of long established principles.

Nevertheless, it is evident that the court is examining constitutional issues with more sympathy for the legislative viewpoint than it manifested two years ago. That attitude was especially evident in the reversal of its opinion in the Adkins case, which cleared the way for enactment of State minimum wage laws. Again, in the decisions upholding the labor relations act, the court turned its back upon some parts of the opinion which invalidated the Guffey coal law.

No one is in a position to know precisely what influences have operated upon the court. It is reasonable to suppose, however, that public criticism has been an important factor in inducing some justices to re-examine the relationship between legislative powers and modern social and economic conditions. So far as that influence extends, it is entirely constructive. No institution in this country is above criticism. Democracy functions at its best when the public is given full freedom to voice its complaints, and suggest adjustments, without applying insidious pressure to either officials or agencies of government.

Throughout our history the courts have attempted to interpret the Constitution in the light of prevailing conditions, so far as that could be done without sacrificing basic principles. For the most part they have succeeded admirably, as the present vitality of our 150-year-old charter suggests. There is every reason to suppose that a similar evolutionary process will continue in the future, except where clear departures from established principles call for constitutional amendments.

Some fear is being expressed, however, that other influences are operating upon the court. Most of the decisions favorable to the Administration have come since President Roosevelt set out to pack the court with judges favorable to his own viewpoint. There is no direct evidence to show that this threat has had any influence upon members of the court. But even a suspicion in the public mind that the court is placing expediency above principle to appease the President would be a serious reflection upon its prestige.

Mr. Roosevelt's scheme has put the court in a most awkward position. The majority which is obviously trying to appraise each constitutional issue in the light of current facts may be accused of shifting ground while the court is under fire. Congress may be encouraged to pass further unconstitutional legislation in the belief that the court no longer stands ready to set the organic law above conflicting statutes. And the confidence of the public in an independent judiciary may be weakened. Indeed, the gratifying trend of recent opinions may be entirely overshadowed unless the threat of executive coercion upon the court can be quickly overcome.

The Paris Exposition.

This week saw the opening of the Paris Exposition. Labor difficulties, particularly embarrasing in a land that has recently turned over its government to a left-wing coalition, delayed the inaugural several weeks. As it is, several buildings are still incomplete, including the United States pavilion. Eventually, however, 250 structures along the banks of the Seine will attract—it is hoped—50,000,000 visitors. Paris, it goes without saying, is dancing with excitement at this prospect.

Even the old Eiffel Tower has been refurbished, the polyglot little buildings at its foot having been obliterated and the whole structure equipped with lights to swathe it in gay colors which will change every night. Perhaps there is a symbol in this. World fairs recently seem to have been popping up on every hand. Is it possible that these noisy demonstrations of pleasure and prosperity are a sort of international whistling in the dark?

Like the lurid lights which hide the Eiffel Tower's undeniable starkness, are the fairs any more than brave efforts to keep up a smiling front in a day which, for all the occasional bits of brightness, remains clouded with baffling problems?

A Boon To The Treasury.

The rise in Government bond prices following the decision upholding the constitutionality of the social security act was a clear case of cause and effect. If the law had been invalidated the Treasury would have been deprived of more than $1,000,000,000 in receipts from pay roll taxes during the fiscal year 1938. Moreover, it would have been confronted by demands for refunds of taxes paid during the current fiscal year.

To be sure the Government is obligated to build up a Federal old-age reserve fund and an unemployment trust fund to meet withdrawals due under the State-operated unemployment insurance systems. These funds must be invested in Government securities or obligations guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Government. Nevertheless, the pay roll taxes are in the nature of a godsend to the Treasury. Instead of having to borrow in the open market to finance an estimated deficit of over $400,000,000 during the coming year, the Government will be able to cover this deficit and have additional funds available to purchase Federal obligations for the reserve accounts.

In case of the old-age pension fund the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to appropriate certain sums yearly with a view to building up a so-called self-sustaining system. The plan contemplates the creation of a fund that by 1980 will amount to an estimated $47,000,000,000 at which time interest on the invested securities at 3 per cent, together with annual appropriations, is expected to just equal annual benefit payments.

However, for many years the Treasury will be in receipt of millions of dollars in excess of the benefits paid to old-age annuitants. The investments of the reserve funds are simply the Government's IOU's acquired either by purchases of outstanding issues or by taking new evidences of debt. For example, during the next five years it is estimated that receipts from old-age pension taxes alone will approximate $3,000,000,000, although regular benefits do not become payable until 1942, and then on a reduced scale.

If the old-age pension fund should ever reach the colossal figure contemplated under the present plan, it would, of course, be capable of absorbing the entire national debt as it now stands. Indeed, the Treasury would be called upon to create additional billions of debt to supply a legal investment outlet for a large proportion of the fund.

Critics of the old-age pension proposal have properly concentrated their fire against this absurd and dangerous reserve plan They have effectively exposed the fallacy underlying the assumption that a self-sustaining fund can be created to relieve taxpayers of all burdens. The assets of the fund are not income-producing investments comparable to those of a private insurance agency. They are promises to pay made by the Government to a Government agency. Fulfillment of those promises depends upon the ability of the Government to levy taxes to meet its obligations.

In other words, the interest on the fund has to be provided by some form of taxation. There is no cash hoard, no productive capital equipment to supply the money needed. The reserve is simply a book-keeping arrangement, which determines the division of costs between taxed wage-earners and general taxpayers.

Such an arrangement is dangerous because it confuses the general public, creating a false impression that a national system of compulsory insurance which has to be supplemented by taxation is self-supporting. It is also dangerous because it provides such an assured and expanding market for government issues as to encourage extravagance. The weight of expert opinion favors abandonment of the present plan and substitution of a pay-as-you-go system of insurance, after a limited contingent reserve fund has been accumulated.

Unless the system is radically revised we shall face a very serious situation, necessitating all sorts of unexpected readjustments. "Sooner or later," as one critic says, "Congress will realize that these revenues (from pay roll taxes) * * * are really available for spending purposes. Hence this annual surplus may constitute a constant temptation for Congress to indulge in a program of spending—spending that seems to involve no financial burden but that would in reality be financed from the accumulated tax revenues largely derived from persons of small means."

We hope the movement in Congress to discontinue the CCC will meet with no success. Present headlong trends indicate that it may not be many years before the people of this country will need a lot of tall timbers to take to.

This is a wonderful world—for fish and pessimists. It's three-fourths water, and nine-tenths trouble.

Britain's Coal Problem.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial on "Nationalizing British Coal" brings out some interesting points. The main lesson to be learned from this act of a staid conservative government is that private ownership of natural resources cannot solve the anarchic contradictions inherent in the capitalistic and feudalistic social systems.

Brtain has taken one bold step forward in transferring unmined coal to public ownership and control. Your editorial states that the "mining industry will not be nationalized. This is what the British Laborites have been demanding. * * * The industry will remain in private hands as heretofore." If that is true, the problem is only half solved, and a half solution is no solution.

What caused this "chaos" which you correctly analyze? The private ownership, control and operation of the coal industry, of course. We in the United States have the same problem. Socialists have the only solution. But we still insist upon anarchy in production and distribution, instead of socialization. So we must continue to suffer. And it serves us right. But many innocent people suffer also, pending the time we come to our senses.

It is immaterial whether the Tory government goes all the way toward socialization, as expert observers of British politics and economics now forecast that the Labor Party will come into power there in the next election, with a clear working majority. That party will complete the job. The Labor Party already controls London, Glasgow, Sheffield and most industrial centers of Britain. Socialization is a world movement, and is only in accord with common sense. Why subsidize a bankrupt world capitalism and charge it all up to the taxpayers? Capitalism is just as obsolete now as was feudalism when capitalism succeeded it. S. R. RANDELL.

Grief Vs. Nirvana.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Since the Adams Memorial by Augustus Saint-Gaudens is "world famous," according to the caption in The Post on May 23, should not The Post refrain from repeating the notorious misnomer "Grief?"

There is no suggestion of grief in the statue and in the "Education of Henry Adams," the author refers particularly to this failure of supposedly intelligent adult occidentals to grasp a meaning which would be obvious to any Eastern child.

In the expression of the face there is not even resignation. Sexless and emotionless, it registers full and complete understanding and acceptance. With wisdom equal to his skill, the artist refrained from trying to define such a conception in any headline word. Must the breadth of this vision be set aside to provide a label? . . . must even Nirvana come to Grief?

Three Points Against D. S. T.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I think Daylight Saving Time inadvisable in Washington.

1. Summers are too hot for early retiring.

2. Confusing to have an hour difference in time between Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia.

3. Where tried before resulted in many persons made ill by insufficient sleep.

A Capital-Labor Combine?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Generally the typical Washington Post editorial stimulates thought, tends to bring hidden truths to the surface rather than provoke controversy; and The Post editorial of May 23 on the widening schism between our country's outstanding organized labor leaders—President Green of A. F. of L. and John L. Lewis of the Committee for Industrial Organization—runs true to type.

The editorial was appropriately captioned "A Contest In Mud-Slinging." Messrs. Green and Lewis are muddying each other, all right, and the mud processing increases with the days. In the circumstances, however, it is not unusual; for when two persons engage in a titanic struggle for the thing or place only one can get, "mud" is usually the principal weapon of both, especially when stakes are high and the objective vitally important, from their standpoints.

The death-struggle between William Green and John L. Lewis is not the result of a contest of leadership of a craft-union chief on the one hand and an industrial union advocate on the other hand. It has very little concern for which is better for laborers. The stakes are the perquisites of a labor czar and the objective the post of dual dictator of the Nation's economy on a "big business-organized labor control" basis, as we shall see ere long.

Hence it is not "especially anomalous," as your editorial suggests, "that this better understanding between capital and labor should be clouded by increasing hostility between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization." On the contrary, it is so natural as to be axiomatic.

"Big business" (ambitious human beings possessed of the acquisitive urge, as are most all human beings), hitherto was adamant in opposing union labor in its steel plants, but now welcomes the new dispensation "resembling an era of good feeling"—and if not, why not?

The elements of production are capital and direction furnished by themselves, brawn and supervision supplied by labor; the community of interest is undeniable, and it only remained for John L. Lewis to go forth with the horizontal union scheme requiring dealing with one big union, instead of with several, as the A. F. of L. craft idea demands, to accomplish the twain. And, consequently, only another act of Congress will prevent "doubling up" of steel barons and steel brawn against the major public interest, as we shall see!

Another act of Congress? Certainly. The other act was the labor section Title III of the Transportation Act, 1920, to cover collective bargaining between rail managers and rail employes. As the scheme's "court of last resort" Congress set up the Railroad Labor Board, a bipartisan tribunal of nine members divided into groups of three—three representing the carriers, chosen by them; three for the employes, selected by the unions, and three for the public, appointed by the President, confirmed by the Senate; and to prevent the six carrier-union members—a numerical majority of the board—from "doubling up" on the public, Congress made it mandatory for one or more members of the public group to vote in the affirmative for any wage increase decision to become effective.

The labor section of the act of 1920 was "wiped out" by the much vaunted railway labor act of 1926, written by the general counsel of the National Association of Railway Executives and the chief attorney of the railroad brotherhoods, passed by Congress almost on the "dotted line"—but which had to be amended by Congress in 1934 in order that rail employes denied membership by the standard brotherhoods might exercise the right of collective bargaining through chosen representatives that the carriers are now forced to recognize.

Mud-slinging by Messrs. Green and Lewis is natural, to be expected, and the net result shall be an act of Congress to prevent a capital-labor combine which would bring back the heyday of Standard Oil to the American scene.

England's "Court Fight."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: England had its own "court fight" more than a quarter of a century ago.

The impetus to the struggle was given when the House of Lords vetoed Lloyd George's proposal to soak the rich in 1909, despite the fact that it had long been customary for the Lords to assent to all finance bills adopted by the Commons.

Charging that the upper branch had "violated the British constitution," the Liberal government later sought to curb the Lords by submitting a bill that would make finance bills no subject for their review. For obvious reasons this proposal was rejected by the House of Lords. Following the general elections in 1911, Herbert Asquith again put the bill through Commons and announced that unless the Lords accepted it the king would name a sufficient number of Liberal peers to outvote the "die-hards" in the aristocratic House. Conservatives protested against this threat and accused the government of "dragging the crown in the mire." Eventually the Conservatives chose what seemed to them the lesser evil and allowed the bill to pass. Thereupon the stage was set for Lloyd George to agitate in favor of certain "radical" agricultural legislation against the landlordism stifling farming in England.

There is some similarity between the above and the court proposal of President Roosevelt. Will history repeat? NEILL RAYMOND.

Propertied And Propertyless.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It grieves me painfully to take up arms against "Aristotle" (apologies to the Greek), whose contribution in The Post of May 11 at first hopefully impressed me.

Obviously, Mr. Aristotle is a man of intellectual attainments to so completely and clearly grasp certain aspects of our civilization, such as the present inability to solve crime and unemployment; the folly of administering mustard plasters to the disease-ridden back of our social system; the uselessness of theologizing about a less greedy Government; the New Deal's myopia in neglecting causes; the absolute necessity of unionization of the workers in line with their true economic interests, and to top it off, his terse description of the Government as a committee of the ruling class.

But—alas—after this commendable start he kicks over the traces and runs pell-mell into a vortex of error. By pointing a significant finger at the Farmer-Labor movement as the mechanism by which the change from the profit motive to the use motive in production is to be effected, he shows himself to be immersed in a vast sea of misconception, or else to be an intellectual opportunist who makes use of such occasions to strut his "superior equipment" with less of an eye to elucidation than to vainglory.

Try to conceive of a coalition of two opposed classes under one banner. On one hand the poor and middle class farmers with a distinct property consciousness, and on the other a laboring class whose mission it is to forever free mankind from the scourge of private property. Does not the illogic of such a combination stand out boldly? How could a movement at once express the interests of two such incompatible elements as the propertied and the propertyless? GRANT HARRIS.

Fair Enough

Liar By The Clock.

L. F. Chapman, superintendent of the Florida State Prison, at Raiford, asks for an opportunity to deny that Harry Sidmore, a New York thief, has been held in solitary confinement for five years, as reported in these dispatches. The same mail brings from a friend of Sidmore on the outside a reiteration of the claim and the further charge that he has been subjected to physical and mental torture.

On the physical side it is alleged that he was squirted with a high-pressure hose, which left him bleeding. On the mental side it is claimed that as punishment for an escape Sidmore was confined 125 days in the death cage and 14 months in death cells in the company of men condemned to the chair.

The difference between the cage and the cells is not explained, but I imagine the cage is either the execution room or the pre-execution cell and the other place is the general quarters of the condemned.

It can be admitted that Sidmore is a thief by trade and that the jewel robbery in Miami for which he received a sentence of 40 years was merely a routine job in the career of a busy man. Nevertheless, a sentence of 40 years on a charge of breaking and entering in Miami naturally arouses suspicion.

It appeared that someone was overanxious to get rid of Sidmore, and his friends insist that he kicked back money and jewels to certain public authorities personally on their promise that he would get no more than five years. The quality of statesmanship in Miami and vicinity has been very low ever since the first boom, and if the charges and counter-charges heard in every political campaign are one-tenth true, then the superintendent at Raiford should be ordered to dust out a few cells for distinguished guests.

My acquaintance with the Florida method of handling accused men happily is impersonal. I am still impressed by the turpentine camp atrocities exposed in the old New York World and remember a little moonlight idyl in the old Miami Jail yard which was reminiscent of the political butcheries in Central America.

In that case a squealer tipped off a jail break, and the gallant officers, instead of preventing the attempt, took positions unobserved and slaughtered the men as they ran through the trap.

A sweatbox was discovered in a prison road camp last year, after all such were supposed to have been abolished, and just in large broad strokes my picture of prison conditions in Florida and of Sidmore's plight in particular was bad.

Warden Chapman says of Sidmore, however, that "he has not been in solitary confinement for five years, nor for any other appreciable time, and has not been treated brutally or subjected to inhuman punishment. He has the same food as the 1,700 others, has the run of a large yard every day and all day in the open air and a clean, well-lighted cell at night.

"As for physical comforts, he fares better than most others, since he has no onerous duties and is not crowded into a cell with several others.

"He is in the detention ward because he has made repeated attempts to escape and succeeded once by hiding under the hood of a truck. He has bribed a guard, for which the guard was put in jail, has attempted to arrange for bringing guns into prison and in many other ways has broken the rules. He seems to have no idea but escape and continuing his life of crime which he carried on for 20 years, during which time he served in other prisons.

"He simply is not permitted to escape, nor will he succeed. This makes him complain continually. When he shows that he can keep the few rules of the prison and has developed a respect for government and a regard for the rights of others he will be released from the detention yard and handled like the others."

Well, I don't believe any man could hide under the hood of a running truck motor, but otherwise the warden's story rings truer than Sidmore's, and I am relieved to be told that the atrocity, if any, probably will terminate at Sidmore's own will. He did break jail once and has threatened to do so again, he is a criminal by trade and a liar by the clock, and his most serious legitimate complaint seems to be that certain public officials of the two Miamis are not in prison with him. That is deplorable, but the prison warden can't go out and get them.

Anyway, there are both sides of the story.

Pack Trunks, Not The Court.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Many deserving people are looking forward to pleasant vacations this summer, and doubtless quite a few would like to enjoy fishing trips, as our great fisherman President has just done and as our great fisherman Vice President will do as soon as Congress adjourns. And why should our worthy members of Congress be kept in Washington in the heat of summer—and it can get unbearably hot there—when there is no emergency or real necessity of any sort to prevent adjournment by the first of June?

As a matter of fact, the sooner Congress adjourns its present session, the less uneasiness there may be in general business. And with more confidence and "pep" most of us could take vacations, too, for we are extremely sick and tired of the attacks on the Supreme Court, and want that issue settled by Congress from now on just by leaving it to die with the adverse report of the Senate Judiciary Committee. There is little good of any sort possible in a long summer session of Congress, but much possibility of harm and further shocks to confidence!

So, my dear friends and the people's friends of Congress, why not bluntly but politely inform the President you are not going to pack the Court, but instead will pack your own trunks and go home, or go fishing or go perhaps to the Paris exposition. That would be a popular decision all around, except perhaps with the President. But why should he kick? Hasn't he just had a nice vacation, and can't he have others as often as his spirit plus any Government warship may move him? HENRY D. BAKER.

BOOKS

A Mid-Week Review of Current Publications

Two New Biographies

"THIS IS LIFE," by Boake Carter (Dodge Pub. Co., $1.75).

MR. CARTER, from his picture, is a handsome man with a rather world-weary look. From the short biography of him, which his publishers have thoughtfully appended, his life has been an exciting one—Russia, Mexico, and in fact just everywhere.

His book is made up of numerous emotional thrills and conflicts, which he considers, after all, to be what life is. There are no doubt plenty who will agree with him. "For seven years" as the book tells us, "Boake Carter's voice * * * has been * * * for ten million people * * * the voice of history." So here we learn what "history" apparently means for ten million people.

For instance, something like this: "One wondered whether a lady in Cannes"—(guess who this is)—"heard that declaration by a man who was stripping his soul naked and stark for all the world to see, and one wondered whether she asked from a Superb Being somewhere help to enable her to be worthy of such a sacrifice in all the years to come."

* * * *

"This Is Life" may in fact recall to some middle-aged romantics that last of the late, great picturesque newspapermen. And it may suggest to others the curious change which has occurred in newspapermen and in news-writing since the rise of radio. Twenty years ago a newspaperman might have written "This Is Life." Today the book stands with the works of Floyd Gibbons and other reporters of what has so endearingly been called "The Human Side of the News."

Mr. Sheean, Mr. Farson and Mr. Gunther may insist that history—even contemporary history—is something made more of economics than of thrills. But for the great voices of the air and for their millions of listeners, floods, strikes and civil wars have human sides and a lady waits in Cannes for a prince.

SUSAN ROGERS.

"SHOWMAN," by William A. Brady (E. P. Dutton, $3).

A SERIES of letters from stage-struck youngsters asking for advice on how to crash Broadway made William A. Brady decide to tell how he did it. Consequently we have another record of an American's travels from the Bowery to the Great White Way.

William A. Brady started out like many other East Side urchins who later had their names in lights. He sold newspapers during the day and in the evening hung over the gallery rails of the Old Bowery theater, hooting and hissing and pelting the actors with cabbages. One of his first successful enterprises was selling rare old eggs, fruits and vegetables in front of the theater. This netted him $2 a night when he was still in knee pants—much more than his first bona-fide theatrical job, which was call-boy for a professional troupe playing in San Francisco. His first opportunity to act came with this company when the bad man with the heart of gold was suddenly taken ill and he was allowed to fill his big-league boots and swagger across the stage.

"Showman" is the correct title for this autobiography, for, according to its author, "it's impossible to draw a hard and fast line between the theater and the arena." He was in and out of both. He was Jim Corbett's manager both for the boxing ring and the theater.

He managed Jim Jeffries in a championship heavyweight fight at Coney Island and the next night opened "King Lear" at the Garden Theater in New York, starring Robert Mantell. Yousouf, the Terrible Turk, who caused riots wherever he appeared; Douglas Fairbanks, Katharine Cornell, are three of the various winners he picked.

* * * *

Though Brady's name is associated with many of the landmarks of the American drama, among them "After Dark," "Way Down East" and "Street Scene," he is too occupied with spinning yarns to theorize about Art with a capital "A." When he gives advice it is straight from the shoulder stuff: "Always go after the champion. Never monkey around with second-raters. Never bother with newcomers who don't give you a feeling they'll go straight to the top."

His advice to youngsters today is to take a chance on any good bet that comes along and luck and bullheadedness should see them through. Well, maybe that's good advice for anyone with the resilient and pugnacious spirit of a William Brady. Supplied with an abundance of Irish wit and temper, there is nothing he enjoyed so much as a good laugh and a hard fight. Judging by the number of amusing anecdotes he relates in his book, he has managed to pack plenty of both into his busy life.

Behavior of the Mind of Man

Topic Examined by 3 Authors and Duly Recorded.

"Personality: Its Study and Hygiene," by Dr. Winifred V. Richmond. Farrar & Rhinehart, $2.50.)

Here is a book on personality that neither gives hints on how to win friends or on how to sell life insurance, nor does it consider personality as spelled with a capital P and as being something that one has or has not. Instead it is a serious discussion of the many complex factors that go to make up all kinds of personalities and explains the psychologist's methods of studying and appraising them. It deals with the adjustments and maladjustments of varied mentalities. Finally it discusses the symptoms, and handling of persons whose personalities have broken down and must be considered mentally ill. On this subject, Dr. Richmond speaks with undoubted authority as she is a member of the staff of St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

It is a book for the thoughtful reader and for the student but it is written so simply and directly that it can be understood even by those 14-year-old intellects which the author asserts are to be found in the majority in any community. It contains advice for parents and teachers and emphasizes the great importance of intelligent supervision in childhood. The findings of such students as Freud, Adler and Jung are explained and though many valuable contributions have been made by these psychologists, none is believed to have found the one all-inclusive method of solving personality problems.

Every personality, says Dr. Richmond, is the product of the fundamental psychophysical make-up as modified by experiences. So the psychologist must study his subject's life history as well as his physical and mental equipment to reach satisfactory conclusions. This means a detailed analysis that takes into account his emotional experiences, his intelligence, his subconscious mind and many other factors. Physically and mentally each individual is the result of his heredity. While some correlation is seen between physical and mental vigor, the rule does not hold invariably. Physical handicaps influence the mental outlook, but Dr. Richmond is not convinced that organic variations have a controlling effect on the mental processes. She is mildly skeptical about the importance of the much publicized endrocrine glands, believing that studies are not sufficiently advanced to warrant drawing final conclusions about them.

Methods of studying intelligence are discussed in detail. Both the quantity and the quality of intelligence are inherited, but the uses to which understanding is put results largely from environment. Mental tests for growing children are recommended because through them both aptitudes and abilities can be discovered. The author holds that highly intelligent persons retain their interests late in life while the less well-endowed are prone to lose interest earlier and to accept the slowing down of mental powers as co-incidental with the decline of physical powers.

Emotional experiences and developments play a large part in building a personality, and the goal of emotional satisfaction is believed to be the urge behind most activities. It is a little discouraging to learn that few, if any, adults ever achieve real emotional maturity, but that most persons' reactions are modified by remnants of infantile or adolescent influences.

The direction of mental energy is one of the determining factors of personality. Its proper use is of great constructive value, but it can be easily frittered away in day dreams or consumed by such experiences as love, hate, fear and worry. Habits of thought are largely acquired in childhood. The author finds that in the United States the emphasis is on extroverts who receive all of the acclaim, even though the achievements of introverts are often as valuable as those of their more showy brethren. Dr. Richmond says she has never known a stammerer who was an introvert but has always found them to be thwarted extroverts.

Exploring the unconscious mind is one of the methods of studying personality. It may be revealed to the psychologist through psychoanalysis, hypnotism and similar devices. The unconscious mind plays strange tricks on the conscious mind. It is the unconscious that makes people sublimate their primitive instincts into socially acceptable actions. Hardened criminals are often convinced of the reasonableness of their behavior through unconscious rationalizations. Even nations frequently rationalize their policies on higher levels than can be justified by the facts.

In the normal personality the many factors are kept in balance, though certain characteristics may be strongly emphasized. In insanity, personality factors become gravely distorted. Careful diagnosis is essential in mental cases as symptoms indicating the beginning of true psychosis are often hard to recognize.

In conclusion, Dr. Richmond suggests that though little can be done to control heredity, much may be done through proper teaching, intelligent supervision and proper living conditions, to produce balanced and adjusted personalities.

A Physician's Viewpoint

"THE MIND OF MAN," by Walter Bromberg, M. D. (Harper, $3.50.)

Intangibles and imponderables, the sheer stuff of fancy or fantasy, weigh most heavily in the scales of things human. The kinship of genius and madness may be close. As Omar, the Tentmaker says in the Rubyiat," a hair divides the false from the true." The complex product we call culture or civilization, concerning which many persons are skeptical, is a thin and delicate fabric spun out of the same organ that can give either the soul-stirring symphonies of a Beethoven or the distorted cruelties of the Inquisition and Witch-Hunting of the Middle Ages. Both voodoo and science originated in the human brain.

It is a long but colorful story—the triumph of mind over matter—but even more colorful is the rise of self-controlled intelligence, the victory of mind over itself.

Dr. Bromberg, senior psychiatrist at Bellevue Hospital in New York City, is well qualified to discuss and unfold the compelling story of mental evolution from antiquity up to date. He does it in a satisfying manner. He shows how kindly monks in the Middle Ages were the forerunners of modern methods of caring for the mentally affected: "On the one hand, the papacy, through its inquisitors and bishops, was putting demented, deluded witches to the rack, while on the other kindly monks treated mental patients by methods singularly like those used in modern hospitals." Incidentally, Dr. Bromberg points out that the Protestant churches were equally as diligent in their witch-hunting programs as the Catholic, in later days, even unto Puritan New England.

As I read Dr. Bromberg's narrative, I could not help drawing some more modern parallels of the witchcraft period. Take for instance, the Reign of Terror which followed the French Revolution. There mass hysteria clearly was a similar mental state as that of "heresy" and witchcraft. Much of the benefit of the Revolution was counteracted by the revulsion of civilized persons in other lands and resulted in entrenching reaction more firmly. More recent "Red-Baiting" campaigns in America and Stalinist frenzy in Russia that sees "treason" lurking in every bush evidently reveal a mass delusion or mental illness comparable to the witchcraft mind of the Middle Ages.

It is impossible to list all the names of the great humanitarian physicians who broke away from the theological prepossessions represented in bedlam, blood-letting, purges, and the like with its treatment of mental illness as satanic, to the humane and biological concepts of the late Dr. William Allen White. The volume is clear, logical, interesting, and has an excellent bibliography, index and unusual illustrations.

Woodrow Wilson

"THE WOODROW WILSONS," by Eleanor Wilson McAdoo (Macmillan, $3.50).

WASHINGTONIANS who read Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo's new book, "The Woodrow Wilsons," will receive the impression of a much less austere and more gentle Woodrow Wilson through the eyes of his youngest daughter. With literary facility undreamed of when she was the gay "Nell" Wilson of White House days, Mrs. McAdoo has pictured her father's Princeton and Washington days from the vantage point of an "insider." Hers are no sideline sitter's impressions; she was part of the picture which she now portrays.

Those of us who remember the first Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, the soft-voiced, Southern woman with the kindly smile, learn with renewed interest of the great influence she had on the man who was to be the World War President of the United States. Always his confidante, frequently his most valued adviser and mentor, one wonders what difference there would have been in world history had she not died just at the entrance of the World War.

WOODROW WILSON.

There is a sprightly thread running through this chronicle which recalls the day of vivacious Eleanor Wilson who loved to dance and take part in all the festivities of the younger set as a White House young lady and later as a Cabinet hostess.

* * * *

Outside of the material, she had to draw on of people and events in writing the story of her own family, Eleanor Wilson McAdoo has written a book which has real merit as a literary effort. She has a smooth style and a knack of making what she has to relate readable.

While this is Mrs. McAdoo's first and, as far as we know, only effort at writing a book it is evident that she has been wise enough to let her collaborator guide her in the construction, continuity and technic of her work. Her example might well be followed by other men and women of distinction who have the background, experience and data for good books, but do not know how to present this in a book.

The Woodrow Wilson in this book of his youngest daughter is pictured as a simple man with a liking for his little joke. To most of us he was just a personage, but to her he was a comrade and father.

* * * *

Even if she had been writing a family that had not attained national distinction, Mrs. McAdoo's book would be of value because it is a really charming story of American family life of the type of family who have interest in each other's happiness, like to read and study and to meet interesting people. Something of the rare humor with which close friends and his daughter ascribed to Woodrow Wilson is revealed by his daughter in her description of the ways of life and the social duties and functions of official Washington. She excels as the recorder of the crises and responsibilities that crowded thick and fast upon the whole Wilson family after the Democratic nomination for Governor of New Jersey, the eventful days of the governorship and the bitterly contested Presidential election which swept the college president to the White House.

Mrs. McAdoo has portrayed the traits and personality of the friends and opponents of her father of that day: Bryan, La Follette, Champ Clark, Tumulty, Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Dr. Cary Grayson. Of course, her view of the controversy for the nomination and the eventful hours of the Baltimore convention are partisan and those held by the partisans of Wilson, but this is to be expected.

No one ever writes about the household at the White House without mention of Ike Hoover, who, up to his death in the early part of the second Roosevelt Administration, "ran" Presidents and their family from the days of Theodore Roosevelt to Franklin Roosevelt. Mrs. McAdoo has added her tribute to the kindly courtesy and efficiency of this late bulwark of White House life.

* * * *

In the difficult task of writing of herself as the fourteenth White House bride and wife of a Cabinet member, Mrs. McAdoo has shown real tact. Although she is now divorced and her husband, Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, remarried, she writes of him in the days of their romance and early married life with a friendly candor and even evidence of tender memory.

Lives of the Great

"PUSHKIN: THE MAN AND THE ARTIST." (The Paisley Press, $2.50.)

The commemoration of the centenary of Pushkin's death this year has been the occasion of the appearance of a number of books on the life and on the literary achievements of the greatest of Russian poets. The Pushkin Committee of America, which has been in charge of a vast program of commemorative exercises all over the country, has now contributed its share of this literary production by the publication of the volume under review.

The book is a composium of essays and articles by a number of authors. The introduction, written by Mr. Nikander Strelsky, lecturer at Vassar, evaluates the place of Pushkin in world literature. It is followed by a biographical sketch from the pen of Mr. Peter Malevsky-Malevitch, an alumnus of the Imperial Alexander Lyceum, a college which Pushkin had also attended; by an essay on Pushkin's place in letters, written by Mr. George V. Golokhvastoff, a contemporary Russian poet; and an anthology compiled by Mr. Mogula. The rest of the material in the volume are reprints, such as the Speech of Dostoyevsky delivered at the unveiling of a monument to Pushkin in Moscow, in 1880; the article on Pushkin and Russian Music by Olin Downes, the distinguished musical critic; two essays on Pushkin by members of the faculty of Vassar College, and eight chapters from Mr. Boris Brasol's book "The Mighty Three." The volume is completed by a bibliography in English compiled by Mrs. Helen A. Shenitz.

Although the material contained in the volume is very uneven, such a masterpiece as Dostoyevsky's speech on Pushkin, which has been out of print for a long time already, and the enchanting chapters on Pushkin from Mr. Brasol's book, are worth alone the price of the book. Even in its imperfections the book under review is the best general study on the life and works of the Russian genius available, so far, in English. That is why the undersigned does not hesitate to recommend it to anyone who wants to learn something about a man and a poet whose untimely death one hundred years ago has robbed Russia and the world of a great artist.

"FOUNTAINS OF YOUTH, THE LIFE OF MARIE BASHKIRTSEFF," by Dormer Creston. (Dutton, $3.00.)

Although "Journal de Marie Bashkirtseff" was the best seller in 1887 and caused a great commotion at that time, this biography is the first to appear of her in England. Dormer Creston has done an excellent piece of work, drawing his character accurately, portraying the vitality and power of Marie that will always remain fresh like the fountain of youth.

Marie Bashkirtseff once said of herself, "I shall not live long: you know the children who have too much spirits. And then, humbug apart, I believe the candle is cut in four, and burns at every end." Her impatience to live, to accomplish great things, coupled with her fear of oblivion and not having time to do everything, burned her life out quickly, when she was only 23.

In the latter part of the nineteenth century in a race of vase-like women who made hourglass silhouettes, it was unique to find a girl with a capricious, individual attitude toward life, determined not to conform. Such, however, was Marie. In separate moments of impetuosity she wrote to the 60-year-old Alexandre Dumas, held an intellectual flirtatious correspondence with Guy De Maupassant, dashed up the stairs at a Naples hotel to speak to King Victor Immanuel, bargained in prayer with the Lord, and in the face of death calmly wrote, "I shall find something delightful even in death." Even at the age of 12 she wanted tremendous things. She knew that they would not come to her just because she was a beautiful girl with masses of gold-blonde hair and reflective gray eyes, nor because she was of noble birth and had wealth. That was not enough; it would take work and achievement. At that early age she mapped out for herself a course of studies including Greek and Latin as well as music and art. Soon, too, she was reading Plato and Dante with appreciation and understanding.

Within the confusion of Marie's untrained mind were not only trends of unmistakable genius but qualities of greatness. For these qualities the famous painter, Bastien-Lepage, with his fineness of spirit and penetrating sympathy, recognized and admired her. He was an interpreter of spiritual values, of the real within the apparent. Wherever his eye fell, that on which it fell yielded up to him its secret. Gradually his mind, far finer and more penetrating than hers, matured Marie's mind, opened up for her vistas hitherto unknown. Had they both lived longer (they died within six weeks of each other) she would have learned from him to draw happiness from subtler sources and be remembered today as an artist as well as for an extraordinary woman and literary diarist.

There is romance and pathos in her unrealized ambition, unused talents and early death that catch the imagination and are deeply moving.

NANCY McDANIEL.

A Doctor Remembers

"THE SILVER FLEECE," by Robert Collis, M. D. (Doubleday, Doran, $2.75.)

An autobiography is a strange thing, but quite often autobiographers are stranger. At the moment, the bookstalls display everything from the memoirs of the lady who owns that famous diamond to the intimate recollections of aviators, playwrights, politicians and at least one gentleman who openly admits to being a working thief. All over this fair land typewriters are being punched by people who never before thought of applying the touch system to a keyboard, and "e," which used to be the most used letter in the alphabet, is yielding the repetition championship to the capital "I."

Whether you are an Admiral Byrd, a Mark Benny or a Robert Collis, M.D., it must require a bit of brass to sit right down and write yourself an autobiography. There must be moments, along the way, when you wonder who in heaven's name cares what influence that girl in grade school—the one whose books you dutifully carried—had on your later achievements. Autobiographers persevere, however, garnering in royalties and leaving for posterity pretty revealing pictures of themselves. "First Person—Singular" would be a good working title for many of their books.

If you have seen Noel Coward's clever, brittle comedies or one of his equally clever, brittle tragedies, reading "Present Indicative" will only add to your wonder that clever, brittle Mr. Coward does not snap right in half some day. What your reaction to Dr. Robert Collis' personal narrative will be is hard to guess, but you are likely to conclude that becoming a Cambridge Blue is an indispensable part of a pre-med course in England. The really vital influences in Collis' life seem to have been "rugger," at which he was adept; "AE," great Irish poet with whom he spent ten inspiring days; and Buchmanism, which he adopted with enthusiasm until Buchman told him God had said that Collis should stop smoking. Collis terminated his discipleship by declaring that he had received from the Deity personal permission to continue with tobacco.

Born in Ireland, educated in England and the United States, Collis does not say a great deal in his 294 pages, which carry him only to the point where he begins his life work as a doctor in Ireland. His experiences during a year at Yale, where one football scrimmage put him to bed, are among the more interesting passages. Being a Cambridge Blue was not quite so important on this American campus, and, with no rugger to describe, Collis found time for more interesting things.

On the whole, "The Silver Fleece" will disappoint readers of "An American Doctor's Oddessy" and similar volumes. Collis may be one of Ireland's great doctors today, but his autobiography does not lead you to believe that his career—either as a schoolboy or a medical student—contained many elements of greatness.

A Novelist's Conception

"THE SPECTACLE OF A MAN," by John Coignard. (Jefferson House, $2.50.)

Case histories are often interesting reading because of the dramatic material in them. "The Spectacle of a Man" is primarily a case history, but one which has been amplified by the notes and comments of the patient, Arnold Harvesting was so disturbed over his failure to adjust himself to life that he consulted a psychoanalyst. Doctor and patient held long sessions together, many of which are recorded, and as these progressed the patient became quite analytical. He analyzed himself and his lady love and recorded his deductions.

Harvesting stuttered and was abnormally shy. He could scarcely bring himself to go to a quiet dinner party at the home of a friend. Yet for all that he fell in love. When the object of his affections sent him away for a brief interlude, he was plunged into deepest despair. It was then that he called the doctor. His subsequent progress exceeded his fondest expectations. He not only conquered his shyness within a year but was able to turn the tables and send his lady love packing, definitely, finally, and with hardly a qualm of conscience.

As it turned out, love was at the root of all of his troubles. Dr. Coignard and Harvesting together investigated all kinds of love—parental affection, narcissism, sacred and profane love—and found them jumbled together in the patient's ego. When this was straightened out, Harvesting was cured. It was a triumph for doctor and patient, but it was rather hard on Mary. Mary bore with Harvesting all during the mental unraveling, only to be found wanting in the end.

That excessive shyness was the result of childhood experiences which were unfortunate, but not much worse than those of many other people who have managed, nevertheless, to achieve social balance. As a child, Harvesting loved his mother and struggled with his father to possess all of her affection. This attitude toward women was carried over into his adult life. He was intensely jealous of Mary. He thought that when she laughed she was laughing at him, and it was more than he could bear. He had the same ideas about other women with whom he had been associated. Fortunately, he realized that his attitude was abnormal and that there might be some hope of cure.

One wonders why he was so fatally attractive to women. He is not described as being handsome and certainly his exactions and eccentricities would make a girl think long and hard before marrying. He was highly egotistical, yet more than one woman loved him, though until the doctor got hold of him he had repulsed all but Mary.

It is an interesting book. It shows how a psychoanalyst works and from what incidents he draws conclusions. Dr. Coignard is said to be the pseudonym of a well-known doctor and the record is said to be that of an actual case. There is much evidence to support both of these assertions.

"Mara"

"MARA," by Stoyan Christowe. (Crowell Company, $2.)

Stoyan Christowe has a manner of saying things that make them seem well worth saying. His simple dignity of style is moving, stirring, forceful by its very measured quietness.

Born in Macedonia, Mr. Christowe, in this story of patriotic struggle of the Macedonians against the conquering Turks, with its tragic denouement, inevitable by reason of superior numbers and ruthlessness, knows whereof he writes. His command of English, an acquired language for him, is masterful, effective, perhaps because he employs it with the effect of music, operatically, though simply.

Hawaii

"ROAMING IN HAWAII," by Harry W. Franck. (Stokes, $3.50.)

The author reveals here his knowledge of many countries of the world, for he has a traveler's eye and a newspaperman's ability to write of what he sees. But the Paradise of the Pacific turns out to be pretty modern. Electric lights, China Clippers, newspapers, automobiles, political campaigns, schools, the big business of producing sugar and growing pineapples, policemen, radios—these reveal the twentieth century impact on the necklace of islands of which Hawaii is one.

Two things in the book impressed me. One was the description of the leper colony on the island of Molokai. The other was the author's mention of the spigots in the office building of a pineapple company that produces free pineapple juice instead of water.

Defendant Says He Confessed To Save Family

Detective Pledged Their Release, Accused Thief Asserts on Stand.

Assertions that his mother, sweetheart and brother were seized by police and were to be held until he confessed, were heard in District Court yesterday when Philip John Pratt, colored, a codefendant with J. William Tomlinson, was on the stand before Justice F. Dickinson Letts.

The entire afternoon session of court was taken up with the legal aspects of the "confession," which Pratt would not identify as the paper he signed. Previously, Charles H. Bass, also colored, had pleaded guilty and had testified Tomlinson had outlined plans for the robbing of Sam Siratonis, a Fourteenth street tailor, and had divided part of the alleged loot with Pratt and himself.

Another development yesterday was dramatically staged when Siratonis, who was so badly beaten he was thought to be dying, identified Bass and Pratt as the two who entered his shop on the morning of August 18, beat him over the head, and fled with nearly $800.

In the afternoon session yesterday, which was held while the jurors were excused, Government attorneys sought to show Pratt's statement was voluntarily made. Detective Paul Ambrose was called to the stand and attempts were made to have him admit the statement was obtained on the promise all of Pratt's relatives and friends would be released.

James A. O'Shea, veteran criminal attorney, said Justice Letts had indicated he would bar the Pratt statement as evidence before the jury.

Meanwhile, Government attorneys indicated they would conclude presentation of testimony early today.

Slash in Brady Salary Ruled Illegal in Md.

Annapolis, May 25 (AP).—The Court of Appeals ruled today that the board of Anne Arundel County commissioners had acted without legal authority in making a 10 per cent reduction in the salary of the late Theodore A. Brady when he was State's attorney of the county.

Judge D. Lindley Sloan, for the court, affirmed a ruling of the Anne Arundel County court which directed the commissioners to pay $458, total of the cuts, to Walter Brady and Albert Jerome Gooman, administrators of the Brady estate.

WPA Writers Protesting New York News Policy

New York, May 25 (U.P.).—Pickets from the WPA writers and artists projects patrolled in front of the Daily News Building tonight, chanting "give the news editors the dole, we want jobs," and carrying placards protesting against the News' editorial policy on relief. It was said to be the first time a newspaper ever has been picketed because of its editorial policy. Upwards of 125 policemen were on duty in the vicinity.

16-Year-Old Wife Swallows Poison; Condition Critical

Theresa Myles Decatur, 16-year-old housewife, was near death in Georgetown Hospital last night from the effects of poison which she told detectives she took in an effort to end her life.

She was found in her apartment at 3442 R street northwest by a roomer who took her to the hospital. Physicians described her condition as "very critical."

Mrs. Decatur, married two years ago to Frank Decatur, 21, an apprentice iron worker on the new Apex Building, Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, has been reported missing from her home twice in the last year.

Detective Sergt. Jeremiah Flaherty, of the homicide squad, who investigated the case yesterday, said the girl told him she had taken poison. She would give no reason for the act.

South American Envoys Speak on Short Wave

Envoys of five South American countries gathered at the Carlton Hotel last night to speak to their native lands over W2XE, new short wave station inaugurated by the Columbia Broadcasting System. editorial, there was a definite indication Mussolini's declared policy of friendship and justice for Jews would be continued.

There was a marked difference from the German policy, in that the editorial indicated Italy has no desire to purge the nation of its Jewish population but wishes to adapt it thoroughly to Fascist principles.

Sees Happy Solution.

The paper declared the problem would be solved satisfactorily and that Italy is "certain of the good faith of Italian Jews."

The Rome press did not reprint the editorial, but the Rome La Tribuna carried a similar article which was titled "Either Rome or Zion."

The Rome newspaper specifically attacked the journal Israel, published at Florence, which it said "tenaciously is keeping alive among Italian Jews their sense of race and religion and position, informing them of European and world activity in support of the Palestine movement."

There has been no so-called Jewish problem in Italy comparable to that of Germany, from which many Jews have fled.

During his tour in March to Libya, Premier Mussolini rejected any policy of anti-Semitism and assured Jews there: "You can count on my protection."

WJSV Granted Permit For Small Transmitter

The Communications Commission granted station WJSV, Washington outlet of the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., special temporary authority yesterday to operate a 100-watt portable transmitter on 1,510 kilocycles on an experimental basis between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. Boy Blames Girl In Hatchet Murder

Jersey City, N. J., May 25 (AP).—The red-haired boy friend of 17-year-old Gladys MacKnight told a jury today she chopped her own mother to death with a hatchet and then made love to him to persuade him to shoulder the blame.

A lanky, six-foot choir boy, Donald Wightman, 19 testifying at their joint murder trial, made blunt denials to the girl's defense. "Donald did it."

The slim Gladys snuggled over to him as they sat parked in a shady lane in the automobile in which they fled the Bayonne house where lay the body of Mrs. Helen MacKnight, the youth related.

"She began to sob a little," he went on quietly. "She said it would be nice—it would prove my love—if I would go back and take the blame."

"I said to Gladys: 'If you let me kiss you once more, I'll go through with it.'"

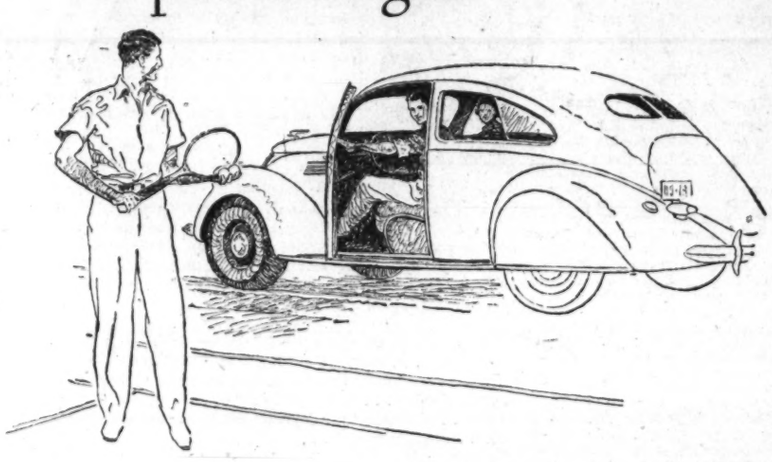
"Yes, we are actually driving for pleasure again"



TODAY the motor car is generally spoken of as "transportation," and routine driving accounts for most of the mileage. Cars and roads have improved, but the pursuit of motoring pleasure for its own sake has decreased. To car owners who think they can never recapture the kick and thrill of their "first car," we want to introduce a new kind of automobile, the Lincoln-Zephyr V-12. This car has already brought back to many people the habit of "driving for pleasure."

Drivers of experience will approach the Lincoln-Zephyr with eagerness, as they would a newly designed airplane, and at each new feature their minds click: "It's right—it's logical!" There are in fact so many new features to the Lincoln-Zephyr that it is difficult to take them all in at one time—its smooth, sleek beauty, its Lincoln machine-precision, its toughness under the stress of service.

Motor-wise people will be prepared for surprises the instant they step into their first Lincoln-Zephyr of 1937. From the passengers' standpoint the interior is more than roomy; from the structural angle, it strikes a new note in engineering design. Here is a vehicle for six adults which is built around the power plant and propeller shaft rather than over them. Out of this one fact grow numerous features that you have desired for years without perhaps realizing it.

"A vehicle for six adults"

For instance, let any nearby Lincoln-Zephyr dealer show you how, in so "low" a car, you increase visibility with the large panorama windshield. Let him show you how this new Lincoln-Zephyr design increases your safety and your average speed at exceptionally low cost for a car of this size and power. Any Lincoln-Zephyr dealer will be happy to let you drive a 1937 Lincoln-Zephyr on hills, on rough roads, in the city or wherever you feel you will get a good comparison with any car you have ever driven. Call your Lincoln-Zephyr dealer, today, and make the trial without obligation of any kind.

Bob Burns Says:

By Bob Burns.

When people are contented with their lot and are satisfied with what they already have, they should be let alone.

I thought I was doin' a great deed not long ago when I sent my Aunt Dutty a bottle of this Hollywood perfume. I thought I was doin' somethin' sweet and thoughtful and would bring happiness into her life, but it turned out I made two people unhappy.

The other day I got a letter from my uncle and he said, "I appreciate your thoughtfulness but I wish you hadn't done it." He said "Dutty has always been a dutiful wife and a hard-working woman, but since you sent that perfume all she does now is look at herself in the duck pond and sigh!"

Vital Topics.

"Possible affiliation with another national group of workers," and "the future organization program of Civil Service employes," are the vital topics for discussion and decision by the United Civil Service Employes at a meeting to be held Saturday night in the assembly room of the Board of Trade.

This was the substance of information contained in the formal press releases announcing the meeting. Ordinarily outspoken, President E. Claude Babcock of the U. C. S. E., said that he could not amplify the announcement—that to do so might embarrass the meeting program. But he wished it emphasized that the meeting will be of the greatest importance to the organization's membership.

Twelve nationally known experts in highway engineering have been appointed by Secretary Wallace to work with the Bureau of Public Roads in developing standards of highway design to promote maximum traffic safety and highway utility. Meetings of the experts with Bureau of Public Roads officials will be held periodically to consider topics such as road surface widths, maximum grades and curves, design of multilane highways, protection of grade crossings and other problems that involve themselves in highway construction. Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads will act as chairman of the committee, which is as follows: C. S. Mullen, of Virginia; Gibb Gilchrist, of Texas; P. M. Tebbs, of Pennsylvania; R. H. Baldock, of Oregon; Harold W. Griffin, of New Jersey; Murray D. Van Wagoner, of Michigan; O. L. Kipp, of St. Paul; G. H. Delano, of Massachusetts; Hugh Barnes, of Kansas; Fred Kellam, of Indiana; Ernst Lieberman, of Springfield, and C. H. Purcell, of California.

Lieut. Comdr. Leland P. Lovette, tall and positive in speech, is proving popular in his new post as head of the Navy Press Relations Section. He has been there a short while now, succeeding Lieut Comdr. Charles G. Moore, who has gone to duty on the Pennsylvania.

Lovette quite recently was on duty with the Asiatic fleet. Transferred here, he swung toward Washington by way of Paris and London, witnessed the jubilee and all the celebrations preceding the coronation and had a pretty good time on the trip. He served here once before—back in 1927-28—when he was attached to the Communications Office. He has a gold medal for an essay on a Navy topic and has written widely. His outstanding work is "Naval Customs, Traditions and Usage."

Born in Greenville, Tenn., the son of a Tennessee Congressman, he was graduated from the United State Naval Academy with the class af 1917. He served aboard the U. S. S. Memphis when that vessel transported Col. Lindbergh home after his flight to Paris. The lieutenant commander is a member of the Philadelphia Racquet Club and the Army and Navy Club of Manila.

Miss Florence E. Marshall of the office of the general counsel, Internal Revenue Department, is offering $10 for the cleverest advertisement of her book, "Are You Awake?" Colored Employes Local, No. 71, National Federation of Federal Employes, at their last meeting elected Edward L. Scott as delegate to the national convention of the N. F. F. E., to be held in Springfield, Ill., this fall. Mrs. Isadore A. Letcher was elected as alternate delegate.

That important meeting of representatives from the six "rebel" A. F. G. E. lodges will be held tomorrow in the Washington Hotel. This is the meeting at which plans will be laid for the monster mass meeting of protest against the Government's economy moves. A. F. G. E. President Stengle has frowned on the mass meeting proposal and this meeting tomorrow night is another wrinkle in the twisted A. F. G. E. situation.

U. S. Officials Urge Helium Sale to Reich

Cabinet Group's Report Is Sent to Congress by President.

Furthering the "good neighbor" policy of the Administration, President Roosevelt yesterday sent to Congress the report of a Cabinet committee which recommended that this country sell helium for export.

The report was issued while Dr. Hugo Eckener, German dirigible expert, was in the Capital telling Government officials "we must have helium," to prevent repetition of the Hindenburg disaster.

The Cabinet committee, Secretaries Ickes, Interior; Hull, State; Woodring, War; Swanson, Navy, and Roper, Commerce, told the President it would appear to be the duty of this country to share any unneeded surplus of the Nation's helium monopoly "for the promotion of commerce and science, alleviation of human suffering, and safeguarding the lives of passengers on airships, thus promoting international good will."

Could Limit Sales.

The report said:

"It is believed that export sales can be surrounded with safeguards that will prevent the use of helium by foreign countries for military purposes. The Army and Navy can estimate the quantity of helium required for replenishment abroad after the initial filling of an airship in this country, and with this knowledge exportation could be restricted so that a reserve of military importance could not be built up in foreign countries. Cutting off the supply in times of stress would ground all ships in a very short time, because helium is dissipated at a rapid rate when in airship use. The United States would serve as a filling station * * *"

The report suggested that the Government buy the only private helium-producing property, that of the Girdler company, at Louisville, Ky., but declared that a proposed sale price of $600,000 "is believed to be exorbitant."

Dr. Eckener yesterday attended a luncheon of Department of Commerce and private aviation representatives, at which he proposed that America lend him help "on a sound economic basis."

"You give us helium," he proposed, "for our merchant airships and we will give you our large operating experience in exchange. * * * In this way I believe the further development of the airship and airship traffic could be assured for the benefit of mankind."

Roper Expresses Hope.

Secretary Roper had remarked at the luncheon before the Cabinet report was made public:

"Personally, I feel that plans will be worked out whereby helium from our reserves will be made available for safe commercial purposes such as will create and maintain good will and never contribute to the disturbance of peace policies."

At the same time, a Senate committee was being told by representatives of an American airship company that Germany is seeking the helium for military purposes.

Thomas B. Slate, mechanical engineer, and Richard C. Horn, jr. All-American Airways Corporation director, opposed export of the gas before the Senate Military Affairs Committee. They said that neither the fire-destroyed Hindenburg nor her new sister ship could carry full crews if noninflammable helium were substituted for inflammable hydrogen. The lifting power of helium is less than that of hydrogen. The substitution, Slate and Horn contended, would reduce the pa, load of the new German craft to a point where operations could be continued only at a heavy loss.

"The German government wants heliu for military purposes," Slate said, adding that Italy, France and Japan also would like to buy the gas.

Dr. Eckener later scoffed at these contentions.

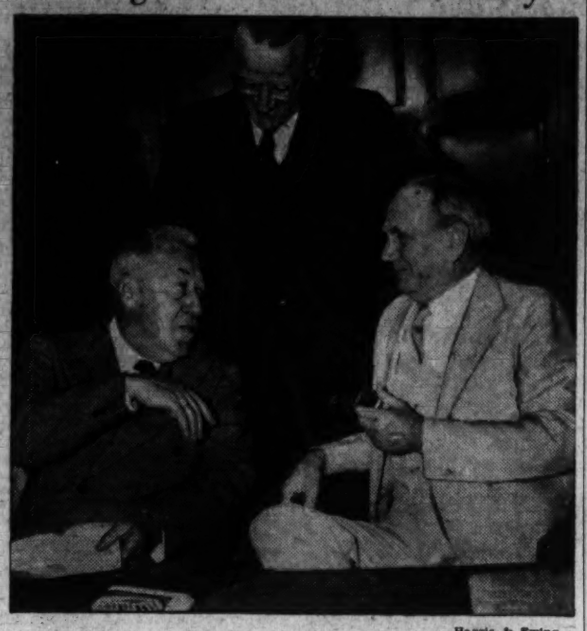
Might Enlarge New Ship.

F. W. Von Meister, vice president of American-Zeppelin Transport, Inc., who accompanied Eckener to Washington, said that the sister ship of the Hindenburg, now building, might be enlarged if helium is made available.

"If we add another section to her, we will be able to use more helium than we did hydrogen and the carrying capacity will be the same, he said.

Learning of the Cabinet committee's recommendations, Dr. Eckener said "this is definitely the first step toward what we want to get. He expressed hope Congress would speedily enact the proposed legislation.

Seeking Helium Gas for Germany



Harris & Ewing.

A plan whereby American helium gas could be made available to Germany for commercial purposes was discussed yesterday by Dr. Hugo Eckener, German dirigible expert, left; Secretary of Commerce Roper, right, and Assistant Secretary of Commerce Johnson.

Artists in Suspense as Ickes Delays Word on $5,500 Job

Jury Selects Winning Mural Design, but Name of Winner Remains Secret Pending Secretary's Approval.

Somewhere in the United States today is an artist who has won a $5,500 government commission but he does not know it and, furthermore, the jury that picked him does not know who he is.

It is, officials admitted yesterday, an odd situation whose solution rests in the lap of Interior Secretary Ickes.

Until Ickes acts, 310 American painters remain in a state of suspense, each hoping he—or she—has been selected to do the mural in the auditorium of the new Interior Department building.

Last February the painting and sculpture section of the Treasury Department announced a Nationwide competition for the commission. When the deadline for submission of designs arrived April 30, the Treasury had received 310 entries.

Unanimous Choice.

A few days later a jury decided unanimously in favor of one of the designs. It did not know the identity of the painter, however, because one of the rules of the competition was that entrants should not sign their name to their work but enclose it in the accompanying letter.

Another rule was that the jury's choice must be approved by Secretary Ickes before it became final. And there's the rub.

Although the "winning" design was submitted to him three weeks ago, Ickes has not inspected it yet, much less decided whether or not he likes it, one of his spokesmen said yesterday. And until he gives his approval, the identification envelope remains sealed, so that not a soul knows who the "prize winner" is.

Curious to learn his—or her—identity, as well as anxious to start work on the project, Treasury officials have been calling Ickes every day for almost three weeks to inquire if he's made up his mind.

Famous Artists Entered.

It is definitely known that the entries are the work of some of the most prominent artists, as well as some of the most obscure, because of the mass of correspondence which the Treasury has received from competitors wondering what is holding up the decision.

The winning design, as far as the jury is concerned, depicts a section of the West with the buffalo seal of the Interior Department superimposed on it and shows an Indian and a white man talking to each other.

Hence, if the artist can recognize his work from that meager description, he can congratulate himself as the $5,500 winner—when and if Secretary Ickes gives his blessing.

Citizens' Group Asks Welfare Head to Resign

'Out-of-Town' Persons Get Positions, Southeast Meeting Hears.

A resolution asking the resignation of Elwood Street, director of Public Welfare, was adopted last night by the Southeast Citizens Association after speakers had charged that he "ignores requests of various local organizations and appoints out-of-town persons to fill positions which, the organization feels, should be filled by local people."

Meeting for last time this season, at Hine Junior High, the group also approved a resolution calling for the passage of the King bill for the creation of a new board of welfare for the District.

A resolution, proposed by Dr. Homer K. Butler, secretary, suggesting that all persons "consigned to cremation be autopsied by the coroner and that stomach analysis be performed before permission is granted," was adopted.

Other business included adoption of resolutions recommending the enactment of a law to prohibit the sale and use of air rifles and recommending the passage of the bill pending before Congress which would require barbers to be licened.

Logan-Thomas Circle.

Mrs. Ella M. Thompson was re-elected president of the Logan-Thomas Circle Citizens Association for the thirteenth time last night at the association's last meeting of the season at the Logan Hotel.

A stand against daylight saving time for the District was taken when a resolution opposing it on the ground that it would be "impractical unless adopted on a nationwide scale," was adopted. A sales tax on luxuries was approved.

Other officers elected include Dr. Charles K. Koones, vice president; Mrs. Gertrude Young, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Lauretta Haig, corresponding secretary.

Red Rider's End Is Hailed By Educators

Out from under the threatening shadow of the late "red rider" the District's public educators yesterday cheerily discussed Congress' repeal of the law that operated to eliminate even mention of the word "communism" from classrooms.

Although they have already signed affidavits that they are neither "teaching nor advocating" communism through next Friday, when the next salary checks are distributed, teachers were already thinking about delving into the textbook chapters on Soviet Russia that they have been skipping since the "red rider" went into effect. Only President Roosevelt's signature is now necessary to make that anticipation legally possible.

"I am happy that the administrative machinery set up to carry out the provisions of the rider can now be scrapped," declared Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, "and our attention can now be turned to something more profitable."

Never Advocated.

Communism never has been advocated in District schools and never will, the superintendent said.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of the Board of Education, happy over the outcome of a two years' fight to rid local schools of the rider, expressed assurance the proviso that repeal should not be construed as permitting advocacy of communism was in complete accord with public school policy.

"The Board of Education never has and never will tolerate advocacy of communism," she said.

"The Board will continue to expect teachers of the District of Columbia to render services as the loyal American citizens that they are, imparting to their pupils patriotic support and understanding of our constitutional form of government."

Mary Norton Praised.

Mrs. Doyle pointed out that repeal would take "a great load of responsibility from the shoulders of our teachers." She said some of them, for fear of losing their salaries, had refused to discuss not only conditions in Soviet Russia, but also those in such countries as Spain, where political affairs are in a turbulent state.

The Board president praised Chairman Mary Norton, of the House District Committee, and Representative Ambrose J. Kennedy (Democrat), of Maryland, for their stand in the congressional battle for repeal.

"It's a gratification to think that the teachers will be relieved of the embarrassment caused by the rider," declared Mrs. Philip Sydney Smith, another member of the board.

Although pleased over the repeal action, Robert A. Maurer, the board's vice president, emphasized "this does not mean that there will be advocacy of communistic propaganda in the District public schools."

Henry I. Quinn, board member and president of the District Bar Association, said, "We all detest communism and have differed only as to the best method of combating it."

Other members made similar comments.

Moore Seeks Wider Planting Of Cherry Trees to Aid Shrine

Fine Arts Commission Head Believes Greater Distribution Would Lend Favor to Jefferson Memorial at Tidal Basin.

Dr. Charles Moore, chairman of the Fine Arts Commission, yesterday proposed wider distribution of Washington's celebrated Japanese cherry trees, hoping thereby to promote erection of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial at the Tidal Basin.

The veteran head of the commission, which has approved the Tidal Basin site for the memorial, urged that trees be planted along the Rock Creek Potomac Parkway and on Theodore Roosevelt and Columbia islands.

Opposition to the park site for the monument because it would mean elimination of all the cherry trees which fringe the basin was climaxed several weeks ago when the House Library Committee approved a bill barring its use.

The committee is expected to send the bill, drafted by Representative Allen T. Treadway (Republican), Massachusetts, to the House this week, accompanied by a comprehensive report on the entire controversy.

With most of the criticism of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Commission's plans directed at the proposed destruction of the Tidal Basin cherry blossom display, Moore hopes to placate opponents with his plan to scatter the trees.

C. Marshall Finnan, superintendent of National Capital Parks, said Dr. Moore and certain members of the Fine Arts Commission have discussed the dispersal plan with him but that no formal scheme has been submitted for official consideration.

Dr. Moore's argument is that wider distribution of the trees not only would end traffic hazards at the Tidal Basin when the blossoms are out, but also brighten up other parts of the park system by furnishing floral decorations each spring.

Park-o-Meter Rider Again Put Forward

Sen. Thomas to Revive Proposal for District; Seeks Experiment.

Senator Thomas, chairman of the Senate sub-committee on District appropriations, yesterday disclosed he will make another effort to attach a rider on the District supply bill authorizing establishment of park-o-meters on Washington streets.

Following a hearing of a delegation of Federation of Citizens Associations officials, Senator Thomas said he will revive the proposal for park-o-meters, stricken out of last year's bill in conference.

He said he believed the Commissioners should experiment on a small scale with the devices and then expand their use if they proved satisfactory.

While the primary purpose of the park-o-meters, he said, is to prevent overtime parking, adoption of the plan will give the District additional revenue at a time when it is badly needed.

The federation made a plea for for funds to finance a traffic study with the aim of reducing accidents by elimination or reduction of their causes.

Thomas E. Lodge, president, headed the federation delegation, which included L. A. Carruthers, Harry S. Wender and Miss Elaine Eppley.

Appropriations for a new Pennsylvania avenue bridge, an increased Metropolitan Police Department, and $169,000 for beginning construction of the Oxon Run sewage interceptor were among the items requested.

Lodge stated that while the federation was accepting the $5,000,000 Federal payment this year it does not consider the amount equitable but merely a temporary compromise and an "irreducible minimum"

Explaining the attitude of the federation on additional District taxes, Lodge said:

"We are willing to pay the additional taxes providing (1) that Congress appropriates the money raised and it is not permitted to accumulate as a surplus, and (2), if the District officials will give us an efficient administration."

Appearing for 3,300 per diem workers, former Representative Thomas L. Blanton asked that a rider depriving them of holidays with pay and the customary leave benefits be eliminated from the bill.

Representative Ellenbogen (Democrat), of Pennsylvania, asked the Senate sub-committee to restore a budget item of $175,000 as the District Government payment of unemployment insurance.

Twin-Feature Bill Presented At the Belasco

Foreign Films Are Offered With Stars Already Hits On American Screen.

By Nelson B. Bell.

The Belasco Theater yesterday inaugurated the run of two pictures, featuring artists of foreign extraction who already have made their marks on the American screen. Both of these releases were produced abroad. One is "Ladies Lake," with the ingenuous and pouting Simone Simon in the stellar role; the other, "Happiness," starring Charles Boyer.

"Ladies Lake" is reputedly the film that won Mlle. Simon her offer of a Hollywood contract. She is cast in the role of Puck—not in Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," but in a whimsical romance of youth, gayety and sparkle. The film is presented with English titles and dialogue and relates the love adventures of a young engineer and the juvenile offspring of a philosopher father and actress mother. Vicki Baum was the author of the original tale, already having "Grand Hotel" on the credit side of her American ledger.

Simone Simon here gives one of her better performances, evidently being more amenable to European direction than to American—if the fables of her feud with Director Irving Cummings, former Washington stock actor, on the Twentieth Century-Fox lot are to be taken at face value. She is supported in this subject by an able cast of foreign players, headed by Jean-Pierre Aumont, Rosine Derean, Illa Merry, Odette Joyeaux and Eugene Dumas.

"Le Bonheur," or "Happiness," as it has been rendered in English, deals with a story of social unrest in which Charles Boyer, as Philippe, attempts "propaganda by acts" by taking a potshot at the most popular motion picture actress of the day. Much of the subsequent action unfolds itself in a courtroom, where the dialogue probably is very much more pungent than the superimposed English subtitles make it seem. "Happiness" is played completely in French.

Boyer does a fine piece of saturnine characterization in this Henry Bernstein picturized play and is ably supported by Gaby Morlay, as the actress who received his vagrant bullet; Paulette Dubost, Mauloy, president of the assizes; Arvel and Collette. These foreign players seem to go in largely for single names.

These two features compile a bill that runs for more than three hours, but gives every evidence of being worth it.

Civic Theater

The eighth and final production of the newly organized Washington Civic Theater was presented in the Wardman Park Theater last night. It was "Fly Away Home," a sprightly comedy in three acts by Dorothy Bennett and Irving White, with a single adequate setting designed by William M. Girvan.

The nature of the farce being what it is, its cast is made up largely of the younger members of the Civic Theater's acting forces. William Jordan, Mary Jo Day, Helen S. Sperling, James Rawle, Betty Leaf, Edith Sognier, Jon Ervin Anderson, Samuel S. Otis, George Cain, John Van Sikken, Joe Bourne and Bess Wilkirson all do ample justice to the lines and lively action allotted them. Then there are the kitten and "Mr. Dooley," the Scottish terrier. Both acquitted themselves with fine credit last night.

The play is an inconsequential trifle, dealing with a disturbed home life, a repentant parent, who returns after many years, and a flock of carefree and independent children.

It is all good fun and deserves the attention of any amusement-seeker by the skill with which it has been contrived by the eager group of young artists who have made Wardman Park notable this year.

Nelson B. Bell About The Show Shops

Two Top Bands This Week Afford National Capital Season's Most Lilting Exposition of Modern Music

Paul Whiteman, With His Superior Instrumentation, and Guy Lombardo, With His Exceptional Specialists, Provide a Week of Melody That Will Not Be Matched in Many Weeks; Harry Hunter Drops a Line or Two From Australia; Notes of Current Amusements.

WITH Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra on the stage of Loew's Capitol Theater, and Guy Lombardo and His Royal Canadians, at the Earle, this week, Washington is being treated to the most exalted exposition of modern American music that the theater is able to offer.

BELL.

With a larger and more complete instrumentation—with a considerable bearing down on the string section—than the Lombardos are able to present, the Whiteman band is able to present musical treatments that slightly outclass those of his Thirteenth street competitor.

On the other hand, Lombardo has the better stage show of the two by reason of his more diversified specialties. "Goldie," the clowning trumpeter, who almost fell off the stage of the Metropolitan Theater years ago, while attempting an expansive dance as a member of the Jan Garber ensemble, still does his amusing bit with the Whiteman organization, but there is nothing in this act comparable to the exceptional dancing of Gower and Jeanne, who appear with the Lombardo group.

Whiteman, of course, has a fine asset in the presence at the piano of Roy Bargy, whose "swing" arrangement of the Liszt "Liebestraum" is one of the hits of the Capitol bill. Bargy, in the old days, was pianist-leader of the Benson Orchestra of Chicago. When Mr. Benson called it a day, the Benson Orchestra was taken over by Don Bestor, who still is conducting it with skill and fine musicianship.

It is not the intention of this column at all to draw invidious comparisons. Guy Lombardo has one of the "sweetest" orchestras on the boards, in the night clubs or on the air. Mr. Whiteman has a larger ensemble of instrumentalists who go in for elaborate arrangements and unique harmonic effects. Each has its place in the current amusement field and both are at the top in their respective divisions.

Speaking of the dance team of Gower and Jeanne, as we were somewhere back there, it is pleasant to record that these young people are among those who acknowledge favorable reviews by mail. A note from Gower Champion, the male half of the team, conveys, among other agreeable things, the fact that he and his partner have been in the "dancing business" scarcely more than a year. For that length of time, they have attained a proficiency, a grace and a complete co-ordination that would give the impression of a very much longer experience. Their work, to these eyes, is grace itself.

As long as we are on the topic of mail, it might be as good a time as any other to remark that a message arrived recently from Harry Hunter, former Paramount manager in Washington, recently transferred to the general managership of all the Paramount interests in Australia and New Zealand.

Under date of April 13, in Sydney, Harry has this in part to say: "Dear Nelson: We finally arrived in this far-away place after 24 days on the boat from Vancouver. A very nice city, but everything so different. I have learned to drive on the wrong side of the street, with the wheel on the right, so guess I can learn the rest, too. Regards to you and say 'hello' to my friends. (Signed) HARRY HUNTER."

The Roadside Theater, which opens shortly, will hold "open house" in the old red barn, out on the Rockville Pike, just beyond the Georgetown Preparatory School, on Sunday afternoon. Tea will be poured, a cold supper will be served and, if you must, so I am told, you can b. y. o. l.

• • • •

"War's End," the searching answer to the eternal question of "who won the war?" will be screened on Thursday evening of the current week, shortly after the conclusion of the regular bill at the Little Theater.

Coming on the eve, so to speak, of the department meeting of the American Legion, officials of that veteran organization, as well as representatives of other groups, will be present at the preview.

"War's End" depicts the tactical development in the crucial engagements of the World War, showing what units went where and what they did to bring about the signing of the Armistice. The picture will be part of the new bill opening on Sunday at the Little.

• • • •

Reverting to the Roadside, Henry Pearson, a second-year student in Yale's drama department, has been assigned to the post of designer-technician for the ensuing summer season. He will arrive in town with Anton Hardt, director of the barn theater's summer productions, to begin immediately upon the creation of sets for "The Wizard of the Wave," the opening production, set for June 14.

• • • •

A decade ago, Irving Berlin wrote a song called "Marie." By some strange quirk this number this summer is the most requested number in the Spanish Garden Ballroom at Glen Echo Park, where Dave McWilliams is directing his own orchestra. The strange part of this is that the younger generation, who probably never heard of "Marie" when it was popular a decade ago, are foremost in insisting that it be played.

The next most popular melody is "Sweet Leilani," from Bing Crosby's latest picture, "Waikiki Wedding." It seems hardly necessary to add that Dave McWilliams is acceding to as many requests as can be played in an evening. It is doing nothing whatever to injure his popularity.

The first prizes, to be sure, went to Maurice Evans for his "Richard II" and John Gielgud for his "Hamlet," but Miss Abba came next. The Gilbert Miller office, on this basis, insists that Miss Abba is the season's best actress. Since "Tovarich" opened in Baltimore and went then directly to New York, we would not know. Having supreme confidence in the theatrical perspicacity of this producing group, however, we are inclined to think that, perhaps, on the foundation of tangible evidence, they are correct.

Meteorological Note.

Yes, this must be summer—but who cares, with the Crystal Pool opening tomorrow?

5 A. M. "Larry Lowman, vice president of C. B. S., saw 'Wake Up and Live,' heard Jack Haley sing, and wired him a broadcast offer." Buddy Clarke, the C. B. S. singer, relates at the Harlem Uproar House. "So then I told him the truth—I sang for Haley in that picture" . . . "If we complete that deal now pending," the proprietor confides at the 18 Club, "Frank Tinney may get another chance for a comeback here" . . . "Life isn't bad," Bill Bertolotti sighs. "It's the people who have it" . . . "Max Gordon was over to our house in Hollywood," Mrs. Chico Marx informs, "and watched Groucho wrestle with his big son, Arthur—and throw him. Max doesn't know that Arthur gets his allowance only after the wrestling is over each week" . . . "George Abbott," an agent informs at the Man-About-Town, "will have his own production unit at Warner Bros. The picture deal is being set now."

Gas Tax Tie-up May Cut Funds By $1,300,000

ranged with Chairman Mary T. Norton to submit the tax recommendations to the full District Committee next Tuesday.

The language of the exemption of food products from the sales tax was disclosed when the Commissioners submitted complete legislative drafts of the five proposed taxes.

It states that there shall be exempt "the gross receipts from the sale of food products for human consumption."

Foods Exempt.

"Food products as used herein," the bill reads, "includes cereals and cereal products, milk and milk products, oleomargarine, meat and meat products, fish and fish products, sea food and sea food products, eggs and egg products, vegetables and vegetable products, fruit and fruit products, spices and salt, sugar and sugar products other than candy and confectionery, coffee and coffee substitutes, tea, cocoa and cocoa products.

"Food products does not include spirituous, malt and vinous liquors, soft drinks, sodas or beverages such as ordinarily dispensed at bars and soda fountains or in connection therewith, nor does the term 'food products' include the furnishing, preparing or serving for a consideration of any tangible personal property consumed on the premises of the person furnishing, preparing or serving such tangible personal property."

Auto Levy by Classes.

The motor vehicle tax bill, as finally drafted, proposes flat fees rather on classes of motor vehicles divided according to weights rather than a tax per 100 pounds.

Cars weighing up to 3,500 pounds, $5; between 3,500 and 4,500 pounds, $8; more than 4,500 pounds, $12.

If the vehicles are equipped with other than pneumatic tires, the fees are doubled.

A bitter fight against the tax bills on the floor of the House if they are reported with the sales tax as one provision was forecast last night by Representative Ellenbogen (Democrat), Pennsylvania.

Ellenbogen said that he and other members of the House would do all possible to prevent passage of the bill if it contains a sales tax measure.

Passage of a sales tax for the District would be hypocracy when the National Government has no sales tax, Ellenbogen said.

The Pennsylvania legislator, member of the House District Committee, said that the sales tax will have "hard sledding in the House." He declared there is great opposition to such a tax.

Maverick in Plea For Cancer Aid

Representative Maury Maverick, of Texas, last night issued a Nation-wide radio appeal for support of his national cancer bill. Citing the need for such a center, Maverick said that 140,000 were victims of the disease annually and that one out of every eight persons past 45 were afflicted.

Maverick declared the center would cost only between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 to build and equip and $1,000,000 a year for maintenance costs. Its purpose would be to collect and centralize scientific information and to serve as a training bureau for technicians who would later be sent out to man cancer clinics throughout the country.

In Hollywood

With JIMMY FIDDLER

Hollywood, May 25.—Idol chatter: Clark Gable still says that "next to pictures" his toughest job was selling neckties to lumberjacks. Wonder if Jack Oakie will some day look like W. C. Fields does now? Even though Claudette Colbert is married, her mama lives with her. Frederic March will never shed that Arrow Collar man look. What ever happened to the idea of making a leading man out of racqueteer Fred Perry? In tribute: Hollywood seems incomplete without Sir Guy Standing.

CLARK GABLE.

May West pays that stupendous income tax because she gave a risque touch to romance. Gladys Swarthout has that well-brushed look. Those who once said Jackie Cooper was a midget must blush at his present 6 feet of positive denial. Peas from the same pod: Gail Patrick and Dorothy Lamour. Path of a lovely tooth-paste model: From taking off film to getting on film. I have almost forgotten how Maureen O'Sullivan looks in dresses, she has been Mrs. Tarzan so long.

Joan Blondell has trouble with her diets because she is a born ice-box raider. Strange that Adolphe Menjou has not adopted the monocle. The movies have no "Grand Old Man" since Theodore Roberts took his final encore. No mother-daughter comradeship more inspiring than that of Charlotte (Alice in Wonderland) and Mrs. Henry. I cannot picture Johnny Weissmuller using oil on his hair. Tip to casting directors: The two box-office leaders (Shirley Temple and Clark Gable) have dimples. Try as she will, Mary Brian is not a good rowdy crowd mixer.

I have noticed that the average man's reactions are colored by his vocation. Like the other day: I was walking down the boulevard with a dentist and a tailor. A beautiful girl passes. The dentist remarked on her perfect teeth; the tailor commented on her well-fitting suit. Never mind what I had to say.

So I can understand the story Frances Farmer told me of her first few days in pictures. She was too nervous to see rushes, so she stood outside the projection room until they had been run. When the technical crew streamed from the showing, she asked the property man how the rushes looked.

"Having that white statue as background for the closeup was a swell idea," he answered. Next she asked the cameraman, and got this answer. "I think that overhead shot will slay 'em." Then an electrician opined that his new "blue shade lighting effects" were gorgeous.

It was in near desperation that Miss Farmer hurled this anguished note at their retreating backs: "But what about ME?"

The director and crew making the Fred Astaire pictures will probably wring my neck for letting this out. That is, they will if Fred hasn't twisted theirs before they get to me.

It seems that Astaire balks after two takes of any one scene, especially intricate dance sequences. After a second poor take, he blows sky high and gives out with his choicest longshoreman's language. What he does not know (until now) is that the director has discovered that Fred dances much better when he is hopping mad than when he is cool and collected. So the first two takes these days are simply for the purpose of getting his goat. And now, out of the way! I am headed for the storm cellar!

D. C. Chinese to Greet New Envoy Here Today

The Chinese Community of Washington has organized a general committee to welcome the newly appointed Chinese Ambassador, Dr. Chen-ting Wang, and his two daughters at Union Station at 4:30 p. m. today.

All Chinese organizations in this city are preparing a formal reception party to welcome the new envoy of China next week.

vestors. It also places all such indentures under strict SEC regulation, with forced disclosure of all information pertinent to the issue.

The President's letter to Lea stressed that "for many years abuse and exploitation have marked certain aspects of corporate reorganization practice and procedure," and said SEC and House and Senate investigations, "have emphasized that these conditions remain unabated."

He then recommended extension of the SEC act and of the SEC's powers "if we are to extend to the area of corporate debt readjustments legislative aid and protection comparable to that which the investor now receives upon the initial flotation of securities through the securities act of 1933."

Promises Early Hearings.

Lea, who promised to begin hearings on his bill by June 8, seeks in his measure to authorize the SEC to supervise and regulate activities of persons or committees interested in reorganization proposals for corporations in distress.

Lea said, "Committees set up to reorganize such corporations, and usually called bondholders' or stockholders' protective committees, often are controlled by selfish banking groups not interested in protecting the unfortunate investor."

In the letter to Sumners, the president discussed the revelations of investigations made by House, Senate and SEC committees with reference to section 77-B of the bankruptcy act.

The president here asked for further remedial legislation in the interest of investors, although noting that "great progress was made in facilitating the reorganization of corporate enterprises in the Federal courts" by the enactment of the section 77-B.

The President's letters are expected to add impetus to study of the pending bills.

New York, May 25 (AP).—With an airy flip of thumb to nose, Princess Olga Troubetskoy, one-time figure in the court of the late Czar of all the Russias, made her exit from New York Felony Court today.

The nasal gesture was the Princess Olga's way of celebrating her dismissal by Magistrate Michael A. Ford on a charge of felonious assault.

The princess, it was alleged, had tossed a couple of empty wine bottles out of the window of her third-story apartment, in midtown Manhattan, and hit a passing pedestrian.

Viennese Night Set Tomorrow At Pall Mall

Gay Lanterns Add Festive Note to Raleigh's Entertainment.

By Chanticleer

Very uxtry special goings on scheduled for the Raleigh's Pall Mall Room tomorrow night what with it being Viennese Night. Gay lanterns all about and Ray Benson and his ork devoting their attentions most considerably to that loveliest of all dance music—the Viennese waltz.

And for your additional diversion the Yates Sisters will be present—triplets, they are, suh, and very charming. Blonde, pretty and cute. For the evening they shall be Mitzi, Kitzi and Fritzi. You wouldn't miss it, would you?

This special Viennese night carries with it something more—a dinner for $2 and no cover for dinner guests staying for supper dancing.

Al Sakol and his band are putting their paces this week with a smoothly working dance team—Orlando and Verdetta. The maestro confides that it really is a pleasure to pour forth sweet music for these talented interpreters of the terpsichore. Randolph and Banks are on hand with a comedy tap routine and Bonita is showing the people how to do the rhumba.

Helene Greene is being featured these days at the Ambassador's Hi Hat Room in a piano recital from 4:30 to 5. The ork comes into action at 5 and continues to 7. A trio of male songsters arrives at this popular spot next Monday.

The Karre Le Baron adagio act at the Shoreham is recognized by those in the know as an uncommonly fine act. A petite little blonde is tossed about by two tall and muscular young gentlemen something scandalous. The lady's costume would be described as white feathers and a gold gown intricately cut and a lavender summer chiffon with a widening purple streak through the center front.

The opening of the popular Powhatan Roof has been set for Friday night. Pete Macias and his ork will move in as usual to provide the music—with Marty Rubin on hand with a new stock of stories in song. E. Everett Martin is the Powhatan's roof manager and promises bigger and better fun for all.

The Ida Thorne Girls head this week's program at La Paree, with Rodney and Gould featured in a "Knockabout Comedy" and Brett and Young stepping out in a waltz medley and a fast fox trot. Mickey O'Day is featured in an acrobatic routine which won her fame out on the Coast. All Norton and Bill Strickland and his orchestra for your dancing.

The Cork and Bottle has been selected by members of the graduating class of Georgetown University for a get-together or breakaway or some such festivity come Friday night and it's open to the public. The time is 9 p. m. Cord and Bottle is the newest cocktailery, in the Commodore Hotel.

Dick Gardner and his musical men are manning the stage at the Hot Cha Club again this season, out the Rockville road. Josephine Larkin is the songstress for the season. The grand opening is set for tomorrow night . . . Someone has just figured that it requires 457 blue and rose colored electric bulbs to light up Brinkley's Southeast Washington rendezvous. Another slant is: 125 half barrels of beer are consumed a week. Over the bar.

An honor has just been handed Otis Manning, the Mayfair's sleight-of-hand performer. Magician Manning has been selected as one of three of his profession to serve as master of ceremonies at the International Convention of Magicians, to be held at High Point, N. C., June 12. Next time you're in the Mayfair ask him to demonstrate his Lindbergh card trick.

My spies report that the Lombardo Orchestra is hanging out at the Madrillon in its spare time. However, musicians hanging out at the Madrillon is not new—for any Sunday night finds Johnny Shaw and his boys playing to the town's horn-blowers on their night off. They've got a swell new arrangement (by Gerson Kauffman) of "Between the Devil and the Deep Blue Sea."

Watch for opening note: Directly opposite the new Uptown Theater on Connecticut avenue is to be opened soon the Uptown Restaurant, with dining and dancing and a lovely cocktail room full of red leather furniture and frosted glass and semicircular seats. Music during the cocktail hour and in the evenings. Coming soon.

Musical Moment at Madrillon

D. C. May Receive $730,000 RoadFund

The District stood a chance yesterday of obtaining an unexpected $730,000 of work-relief funds for road repair and construction as the House adopted an amendment to earmark $150,000,000 of the emergency relief appropriation.

Sponsored by Representative Cartwright (Democrat), Oklahoma, the amendment was adopted in committee of the whole, but it may be stricken out when the amendment to the $1,500,000,000 relief bill is voted on in the House today.

The District's share of the earmarked road fund, if approved, would be sub-divided thus:

Regular Federal aid, $363,000; secondary or feeder roads, $242,000; grade crossings, $125,000.

Garden Club to Meet.

Taxi Passenger Asks $50,000 for Accident

Ernest Allwine, 4514 Hawthorne street northwest, yesterday in District Court brought suit for $50,000 damages against William E. Fitch, 4424 Edmunds street northwest, the Premier Cab Association and Walter F. Rothe, a cab driver, because of injuries he sustained last April 14, in an accident.

Through Attorneys Michael F. Keogh and Peter G. Chaconas, Allwine said he was a passenger in the cab when it collided with Fitch's machine at Forty-fourth and Hawthorne streets northwest. He claims to have been seriously and permanently injured.

On the Air Today

Brutally disregarding the anguish of Selznick's film moguls, casting directors and a waiting populace, which will be caused by her decision, Gracie Allen has stated that she will definitely not play Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind."

In deference to public demand, according to Gracie, she had considered accepting the movie role—when and if it were offered her—but she finally turned it down.

"Though Scarlett is a colorful role I don't think it would match my little blue hat," Gracie said.

Another point influencing Gracie's refusal, it is rumored, is the fact that Ray Noble, her current heartthrob in the Burns-Allen radio show, could not possibly play Rhett Butler because of his English accent. "Accents always make the heart grow fonder," Gracie advises solemnly.

"March of Time" is now being transcribed in French in three half-hour recordings for broadcast to radio listeners in France. The project is under the supervision of Jean Mason, program editor of Radio Luxembourg, in co-operation with Time, Inc. If the reception of the first programs, by European listeners, warrants the recordings will be made permanent. Hopes are high as the movie versions of "March of Time," in French, are popular with French cinema audiences.

Madeline Ensing, program boss at WOL, telephones to say that the Wednesday night "Announcers' Court" is proving a bell-ringer as an audience favorite. You might want to catch this half-hour tonight, at 7:15, and see for yourselves what good fun it is. As recorded in this space some three weeks ago, my impression was that the announcers were firmly convinced of their own innocence before going into "court" and thereby placed themselves in the light of being small school boys doggedly insisting they didn't break the window. That may be changed by now, however. Miss Ensing also wishes all listeners to understand clearly that the announcers are on trial, not the judge or the crier. Some listeners have complained that the announcers, on trial, do a much better job than the judge and the crier and hence—who are they to criticize? The judge and crier, obviously, are neophytes at radio broadcasting and are on hand merely as necessary props for the show.

"Cavalcade" tonight (WJSV at 7) presents a tribute to Indian music, presenting real Indians. And guess what songs the native Indian selected to sing! Songs written by white composers.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Catholic Girl Loves Man of Different Faith; Each Refuses to Renounce Church; What to Do?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My boy friend and I have been going together for a very long time. We love each other very much and want to be married soon. But here is our problem. We belong to different religious faiths. He is a Methodist and I am a Catholic. And he won't renounce his and I won't renounce mine. We don't know what to do. Please help us find a remedy so that we can be happy. We don't wish to give up each other. Sincerely, JANICE M.

• • • •

DEAR JANICE M.: As I have said here before, for the majority of religiously inclined persons there is no greater obstacle to domestic harmony than a difference in religious belief. This is particularly true where there are children of the union, for each parent sincerely feels that, with all due respect to the fine qualities of the other parent, spiritual justice will not have been done the children unless and until they have been trained in his creed. This conviction goes too deep for rational discussion and intellectual tolerance. It is an issue which cannot be solved to the lasting satisfaction of both parents.

• • • •

If you are to marry this man and remain a Catholic, you must be married by the rites of your church. This means your husband-to-be must take a course of instruction in Catholic theology and must pledge himself to an irrevocably binding agreement that any children of the union are to be reared in the Catholic faith. Is he willing to do this? Can he do this without betraying his allegiance to his own faith? If he cannot; and if you will not renounce your faith, you may still avail yourselves of a civil ceremony which makes you man and wife in the eyes of the law, but in that event, both of you would be indirectly betraying your religious beliefs and facing the future with a desolated sense of spiritual bankruptcy.

• • • •

Common sense should tell you that the only remedy for such a complete deadlock of irreconcilable convictions is renunciation of each other. M. H.

The Green-Eyed Monster.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have read and re-read several times "Gay's" letter and your answer, appearing in your column of May 22. To my way of thinking, you have given her good advice, and I am prompted to indorse it by telling something of my experience with the green-eyed monster jealousy. I wish to state my remarks direct to your correspondent.

• • • •

Gay, you are young and free. Could you only know the sordid depths to which a husband's jealousy can drag you down, you would pack your clothes and flee to the darkest jungles of Africa, if necessary, to escape the fetters of a love that is strong enough to make you cling to a man who has shown his hand so completely. Do something; get away; make new friends; do anything; but for God's sake and your own, don't marry him.

• • • •

Years ago I listened to my heart, not my head. I was younger than you, but old enough to know that the man I wanted to marry was fiendishly jealous. He, too, resented even the boys I had grown up with, employers, relatives, any man—but I called it "love." I hope you will believe me, Gay, when I say it wasn't love; it was a disease. A disease that drives and forces and drags you down until all pride, love, respect and even the desire to live are gone.

• • • •

If you are domestically inclined and really in love, you won't leave after marriage. You will remain in the hope that he will outgrow his jealousy. But he won't outgrow it, Gay. It will get worse until your very women friends and relatives—even your sisters—will come under its scorching flame. Whoever and whatever you may strive to cling to, in desperate hope of consolation, will be condemned—even a cat or a dog you might chance to love.

• • • •

Maybe you and others who read this will think it the outpouring of a demented mind . . . Suffice it to say I am one of those women who has kept her looks and figure through nearly a score of unhappy years. Being of a happy nature, I have tried desperately to keep my chin up and to laugh. Only my Maker knows the times I have considered a deep dark river, a fast locomotive, a bottle of poison and even acid as lasting release from living hell—anything to provide escape from a situation which has sapped me of all strength to change or remedy it . . .

• • • •

Don't marry him, Gay. Don't even see him. Forget all about anything that even remotely makes you think of him. Be thankful that your life is still your own and that you are still free to hope that somewhere there is a man you may meet who will love, honor and trust you. PAT.

Tomorrow's Problem.

"Have two individuals who complement each other in every way, who bring needed happiness, confidence and peace to each other, any right to dissolve a relationship involving a third person whose only faults are those of omission?" asks girl who cares for married man. Her question will be answered here tomorrow.

A Powerful Warning.

DEAR PAT: You have, indeed, corroborated my prophesy of what "Gay" may reasonably expect if she permits a slavish devotion of the senses to lure her into marriage with a man who has repeatedly and publicly humiliated her by his unwarranted, jealous rages. Your passionate exhortation to her to beware, spoken out of anguished personal experience, may carry greater weight than my more impersonal analysis and prediction. M. H.

TODAY'S HEALTH TALK

By Dr. Logan Clendening.

Nervous System.

ONE OF THE most complicated and intricate mechanisms of the body is one which we all take on trust, which is performed all the time on every vacant lot and place where a tennis court or golf course can be erected. This is the process which is the basis of practically all games, the ability to hit a small round object—a baseball—with a long, large object—a baseball bat, or a tennis racket or a golf club. Anybody can do it after a fashion. And yet if you are going to do it very well, it requires the co-operation of practically the entire nervous and muscular systems.

Just think of the difficulties of the situation. Here is a baseball, we will say, coming toward you at a speed of at least 60 miles an hour. I do not know exactly how big a standard baseball is, but certainly it is not more than 4 inches in diameter. You are going to try to hit that ball with a wooden bat which at its largest part is probably no larger than 3 inches. The ball is going to pass your body at a certain point in space and at a certain fractional second of time, and exactly at that time and exactly at that point you must bring forward with the muscles of your arms and shoulders the bat so that it exactly coincides with the middle of the ball. If you had a ball hanging there and could practice a couple of times, you could do it very well, but even that would be marvelous because the ball is entirely outside the contact of your body. In other words, you have to determine the point in space where the ball is going to be, and then you have to determine how to get the bat exactly to the coincident space.

What determines these judgments? There probably is no part of the nervous system, except the organ of reason, which is not involved. There is no reason to it. In the first place, you have to be able to stand up, to balance yourself in space. This means that the three little canals in the ear, which are filled with a very sensitive fluid, must respond so accurately that you can tell even with your eyes shut whether you are standing upright or lying down, or leaning to the left or right. They also, you see, allow your body to make judgment as to whether and how far it is leaning forward or backward. These canals send nerve fibers to the cerebellum. The eyes have to be able to judge distance, and they help in a way to keep the body in space. The eyes also send fibers to the cerebellum.

Now it so happens that if you have a normal nervous system, you are able to shut your eyes and extend your hand and forefinger, and at a command touch the tip of your nose with the end of your forefinger. To do this depends on muscle sense, whether your muscles are tensed, whether the arm is straightened or bent. Did you ever think that it is quite remarkable that you can tell whether your arm is straight or bent, and exactly how much bent? From the muscles and points which determine this judgment, nerve fibers go to the cerebellum.

We are getting to see that the cerebellum is a pretty important kind of an organ. It doesn't do any thinking for us, but it does all those automatic things which carry us through these complicated processes.

Costumes for Summer Cling to Spring Lines

Paris (U.P.).—No distinct change of silhouette has been brought about in the midseason collections. Summer clothes continue along the same lines seen all spring.

Waists are slim and normally placed, skirts are just above midcalf length and are full for both day and night wear. The "swing" skirt still is smart and the only exception to the full skirted rule is the classic evening gown with sheath-like lines and a skin-tight skirt. Shoulders are rounded for dressy clothes but remain slightly squared on jackets, coats and sports clothes.

Gay China in Vogue for Buffet Table

Colored china and glassware have come into prominence especially for informal entertaining in the home. No matter how simple your food may be, it will seem gala when served on such interesting china as this, designed from a piece of plaid organdy in shades of rose and gray. This china pattern may be purchased in 16 different color combinations.

Vivid Decorations Stressed In Exhibition of Chinaware

American Ceramic Colors Permit Unusual Effects in Modern Mode; Plaids Give Interesting Motif.

By Rebekah Blake.

VIVID DECORATIONS are the most prominent features of the new glassware and dinnerware for spring. With the present moratorium on new shapes, dinnerware manufacturers have concentrated on improving decorations and the bright permanent tones of these American-made colors have permitted unusual effects. These patterns include striking modern designs as well as new versions of conventional floral motifs.

One simple design of a modern dinnerware pattern has interest provided by colors.

It is especially suited for the buffet supper table. It borrowed its design from a piece of plaid dress material. The under-glaze application of American ceramic colors in rose and gray resembles a delicate organdy pattern. This series of plaids appears in 16 different color combinations of two-toned effect combined with gray. The adjustable wooden handles on the cups and coffee pot are another interesting feature of this shape and the covered soup dishes are especially convenient for buffet service.

Pattern of Rings.

A smart pattern of rings is a new decoration on another unpretentious shape of chinaware. Over indented rows of rings on the ware the design is outlined in three color tones, graduating from light to dark. The pattern is shown on the base and handles of the pieces and covers the entire shoulder of the plates. Ten vivid color styles are obtainable on a cream or white body.

Traditional patterns display simpler interpretations than formerly. Floral patterns range from the daintiest pastel shoulder treatments to elaborate sprays and clusters in the well and on the shoulder. Among the latter is a white rose pattern, in which the form rather than the color of this flower gives its name to the design. The rose is pale pink and is used as a central motif with smaller flowers in deeper colors on the shoulder, to accent the pastel tone. The body of this dinnerware is white.

Bands Accent Design.

There are modified forms of quaint early American designs of china. The variation of the Indian Tree pattern is especially interesting. In this the colors follow the old design but the background is less fussy and the effect is more clearly cut. Petit point patterns re-create the delicate coloring of old-fashioned bouquets or garlands of flowers and leaves. One of these was a lace and flower treatment, reminiscent of old-time Valentine. The pattern is a central motif in several pastel colors. Another decorated pattern is a modernized sampler effect in pastels. These patterns either cover the entire well of the pieces or are applied all over the shoulder and are chiefly on pure white grounds.

LAMB CHOPS WITH MUSHROOM GLAZE.

Trim 8 French chops, brush on each side with salad oil, sprinkle with salt and broil 8 minutes, turning occasionally. Spread with mushroom glaze. Garnish each chop with a paper frill and serve on platter around a mound of mashed potatos covered thick with fresh mint chopped fine. Surround with scraped horseradish on lettuce leaves and with large panfried mushroom caps.

Mushroom Glaze.

Cover stems and skins from ½ pound mushrooms, or 2 ounces fresh mushrooms broken in pieces, with 1 cup water, cook until reduced to ½ cup and strain. Mix 1 tablespoon arrowroot with 2 tablespoons cold water, add ½ cup beef stock and cook, stirring constantly until smooth. Gradually add ½ teaspoon sugar, mushroom liquor and a few drops of gravy seasoning to make a deep brown color. Season with salt, cook until thick and clear, and use a coating on any kind of meat.

Recipe Contest.

Winners in The Post's recipe contest of last week will be announced tomorrow on the woman's page. The subject of this weeks' contest is tea sandwiches. Cash awards are $3 for the first prize, $2 for the second and $1 for each of the three remaining prizes. Entries should reach Rebekah Blake, food editor, not later than Saturday morning.

By Alice Hughes

New York, May 25.

A GREAT LOCAL institution and mighty tourist magnate has just celebrated its sixth birthday. That's the super-colossal Empire State Building, which still towers 266 feet over anything ever fashioned by the hand of man, and which dominates the whole Island of Manhattan in an awe-inspiring way.

ALICE HUGHES.

During the blackest depression years it was known, locally, as "Al Smith's Folly," for the darned thing refused to rent. Now, however, tenants are moving in right steadily, and the place is rented solidly from the first floor to the forty-first, and from eightieth to the eighty-sixth. The eighty-sixth, incidentally, is the costliest—the fee increasing as the elevators fly upward. Our World's Fair organization has just rented six whole floors of the Empire State. At present a good-sized town of 7,500 people work in the building, and as many more visit it daily, while the observation tower still draws over 1,000 visitors a day. This feature, incidentally, is worthily publicized by the able Judy Chandler, late of the Old Dominion. And it surely is one of the earth's most thrilling spots. There is a very nice restaurant and bar up there now, and don't lean too far over after the third martini!

The great building's lighted mooring mast is our beacon, here on Murray Hill. To be sure, nothing has yet been moored to the 102-story thing, which alone cost a million. But it serves a useful purpose; for the gay blades of our part of town, on rough nights, steer homeward by its light, just as storm-tossed mariners keep their eyes on the fixed stars of heaven! For that relief, much thanks!

GIRL ABOUT TOWN: The village's sporting set are wagering marbles and bright red tops that the pretty Bernice Claire, who trills on the air, is going to marry Pilot Dick Merrill, who recently flew to England and back with the greatest of ease. The proper finger of her left hand is heavily iced, and she sports that knowing smile which is always significant of something or other.

Dorothy Stone, eldest daughter of Fred, is back in New York after a long absence. She and her handsome dancer-husband, Charles Collins, are now featured in a little musical comedy, "Sea Legs," which has just opened in the hope of coaxing some of the summer trade. Dot tells me that her pop is practically well after his long sickness, and will soon be back in the studios as the inheritor of the lamented Will Rogers' movie mantle. . . .

Mrs. John P. Herring, speaking to a conference on education for peace here the other day, told the assembled ladies and gents that an attempt should be made to convince toymakers that they should stop making tin soldiers for the tots and turn out toy postmen and such instead. Well, Mrs. H., it's an old, old problem, as every mother knows. I carefully keep all toy firearms out of the hands of my Martin, and instruct him that all shooting is very evil, indeed. Yet when he is playing in the stone courtyard far below my window I can hear him "bang banging" away at the superintendent's poor wife, who is trying to shake up supper. It's a rum thing, this—and what to do about it? . . .

Our matinee girls were oh so glad to know that their dear Lawrence Tibbett's London debut, in "Tosca," was a huge success! Baron Scarpia, a showy role per se, is one of Larry's best, and I'll bet he just knocked those Lunnon dowagers fair off their Covent Garden seats!

One of our most potent confectioners has just exploded a crafty notion. The firm is now marketing lollipops confected of pure honey and the juice of spinach and other greenstuff. They are said to be simply bursting with all the better vitamins, and that the kiddies, bless 'em, will simply go wild over the things. Ten for a dime, folks—let Junior favor his sweet tooth and get like Popeye, all for one small price, the tenth part of a dollar!

Two Legislators Address Women's Press Club

Senator Green and Representative Maverick Speak at Group's Last Luncheon Meeting of Season.

By Hope Ridings Miller,
The Post Society Editor.

Poles apart in manner, speech and comments, two Congressmen—one from the smallest State in the Union, and the other from the largest—yesterday entertained 50 members and guests of the Women's National Press Club at its final luncheon meeting of the season.

Senator Theodore Francis Greene, former Governor of Rhode Island, and Representative Maury Maverick, of Texas, divided time and honors in a program that turned out to be as amusing and informative as any the women of the press have enjoyed this year.

Suave, aristocratic in bearing and immaculately attired, the Senator was introduced first. His 15-minute speech was "off the record" but it bore out the widely-publicized report that the man whose ancestors helped to settle Rhode Island comes of "fighting stock."

A descendant of Nathanael Greene, Revolutionary general, Senator Green has won acclaim on many accounts not mentioned once yesterday. A scholar as well as a politician, he also has been a lawyer, a college professor, a soldier, and a business executice. Since he has been in Washington, much has been made of his athletic prowess (he is a champion swimmer, tennis player and wrestler), his scintillating dinner-table talk, and the fact that he is the wealthiest bachelor on Capitol Hill. But his Congressional confreres know another side of him. Almost any of them can tell you—and will—that he goes about his business of law-making in masterly fashion.

Both Roosevelt Backers.

In many respects the two speakers yesterday have much in common. Both are Democrats with strongly liberal leanings, both have stood behind the President's proposed Supreme Court plan, and both descend from families who have helped make headline history in America.

With a background of ancestry that would stagger a Boston blueblood, the Democrat from Texas—who brags of being "unbranded," as were the maverick calves in the Southwest—is descended on one side from a wealthy Lone Star family and on the other of the Maurys of Virginia.

Direct in speech and manner, he started out yesterday by distributing gifts to his audience. He directed an old-fashioned drawing of slips to see who got the grand prize—a pottery bowl with a cactus plant in it; the second prize—a colorful piece of tapestry; the third prize—a couple of miniature bears that jumped when you pulled the string. "just like the Republican rubber stamps and the Democratic rubber stamps," said Mr. Maverick. Consolation prizes that went to everyone were pottery whistles, brought, as were the other gifts, from Mexico.

Delights in Epigrams.

Anyone who has heard the rough-and-ready Texan talk knows he delights in epigrams, and yesterday he tossed off several, off the record fashion, as he briefly discussed subjects ranging all the way from the proposed establishment of a Government cancer clinic to the present status of the Supreme Court. On more than one occasion Mr. Maverick has startled a lethargic House with tirades against this and that, and he was no less effective yesterday. "You can tell he's a Texan," one of his hearers admiringly avered after the luncheon. "He expresses himself as colorfully as a cowboy. Wonder if he ever was one?"

No, he wasn't. He never rode the range, booted and spurred, with his eye on the horizon and his finger on the trigger; but he probably couldn't talk more colorfully if he had.

Among other guests of the press women were Mrs. George Barnett, Miss Bertha Noyes, Washington artist, who recently returned from the Orient; Mrs. Armistead Peter, jr., Miss Ann Barrett, Mrs. Lyndon White, of Philadelphia; Mrs. James Winthrop, jr., and Miss Mary Ritter and Mrs. Maury Maverick.

The Air Attache of the British Embassy, Group Capt. T. E. B. Howe, will entertain at a cocktail party tomorrow at the Mayflower from 5 to 7.

Mrs. Harllee Branch, wife of the Second Assistant Postmaster General, will entertain at a luncheon on Friday at the Wardman Park Hotel, where she makes her home, in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Wilbur King, of Atlanta, Ga. Mrs. Branch will give a luncheon followed by bridge on Tuesday of next week, and on the following day will go to South Carolina for a visit. She will be accompanied by Mrs. King, who will return to Washington with her for about 10 days before going back to Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. George Somaripa, of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., will sail from New York June 4 with their young son to spend the summer in Europe. They resided in Washington last year, and Mr. Somaripa has been here this winter and spring completing some work for the Government.

The MERRY WHIRL

By Marylyn

A CERTAIN well-known columnist announces Mrs. Campbell Prichett's engagement regularly every spring. Last year he reported her betrothal to the former Cuban Ambassador, Senor Dr. Guillermo Patterson. Now he has her engaged to Eugene Vidal, former director of the Bureau of Air Commerce, who divides his time between Washington and New York.

Yesterday Mrs. Pritichett vigorously denied the report, saying "there's not a word of truth in this." Her aunt, Mrs. Sydney Cloman, has suggested that she write the columnist and vow to let him know if she really does become engaged so that he will stop linking her name with those of men who, she says, are "just good friends."

Mrs. Prichett, is one of the Capital's leading hostesses. A striking brunette and always beautifully dressed, she lives at the Cordova Apartments with Mrs. Cloman. Mrs. Prichett's niece, Mrs. Clifton Wharton Phillips, the former Natalie Keeney, is popular among younger members of Capital society. Mrs. Prichett, who has a young son, works for a Washington automobile company.

Mr. Vidal formerly was married to the present Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, daughter of former Senator Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma, and Mrs. Gore.

ALL OF WHICH reminds us that Mrs. William Mitchell is another who has come to the same columnist's attention. He recently declared she had said "yes" to Tom Byrd, of the Virginia Byrds. Sorry we can't give you more information about it, but Mrs. M. is now in Detroit and that is that for the nonce.

HELEN DRURY is still well in the lead of the parade of Washington women famous for their discriminating choice of hats. Ever since we can remember this little blue-eyed lady has worn the most unusual and attractive lids. At the very delightful luncheon she gave the other day out at the Shoreham, she had on a quaint "flower-pot" number of burgundy baku, fashioned with a tiny basket fastened flat against the crown in the front, chuck full of bright nodding tulips. The handle of this and the band around the crown were of chartreuse velvet. Either the old axiom—opposites attract—must be shot to pieces or else the knack of picking out tricky chapeaux is contagious, because Helen's companion, Agnes Hartz, can also be depended upon to wear something smart and fetching. At the same luncheon, she had on a unique model of white chiffon-crepe, pleated and arranged in turban effect on her auburn head. Very chic!

CAROLINE HUGHES, who will exchange those binding vows with Dr. John Martin on June 26, is chin deep in plans and parties—and they can keep you very busy, let me assure you, "in spite of hustling and bustling, however, she looked very trim and cute in her rust-colored costume which she was wearing yesterday on her round of shopping. The frock was printed with violets and on her head was a band just matching.

This week-end there is to be a house party at her Rehoboth Beach summer home.

Her Engagement Is Announced

MISS ELEANORE ECCLES,

daughter of the chairman of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System and Mrs. Marriner S. Eccles, who announce her engagement to Mr. Harold J. Steele, of Houston, Tex., son of Mrs. James Hardy Steele, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, and the late Mr. Steele. Miss Eccles was graduated from Holton Arms School here, attended Rosemont College for one semester last year, and is now student at George Washington University. Mr. Steele is a graduate of the University of Texas. The wedding will take place in September in Ogden, Utah, home of Mr. and Mrs. Eccles. Mrs. Eccles and her daughter will leave the middle of next month for Ogden.

Diplomats Plan Entertainments In Near Future

Luncheons, Cocktail Parties and Dinners Listed; First Lady Back.

Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the White House last evening from a trip to Mount Stirling, Ky., where she dedicated several schools built with the aid of the Works Progress Administration.

Senator Alben Barkley, who went to Kentucky to make a number of speeches—one of which was on the occasion of the laying of a cornerstone by Mrs. Roosevelt—will return on Sunday.

The Spanish Ambassador, Senor Dr. Don Fernando de los Rios, left last evening with his daughter, Senorita Laura de los Rios, to visit American cities across the country. They will leave Chicago May 27 for a trip by train and plane to the West Coast, returning to Washington early next month.

The German Ambassador and Frau Dieckhoff will leave the first of next week for Warrenton, Va., where they have leased Viewtree, the home of Mr. Oscar T. Crosby, for the summer. Mr. Crosby and his two daughters, Mrs. Crosby Miller and Mrs. Crosby Hornblow, will sail June 12 on the liner Champlain to spend the summer in Europe.

Last evening the Ambassador and Frau Dieckhoff were honor guests at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Droop.

Mme. Dilmanis, wife of the Minister of Latvia, will entertain at a luncheon on Wednesday, June 2, at the legation on Massachusetts avenue. She will sail shortly after this date for her home in Latvia to spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander C. Liggett entertained at a cocktail party yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Liggett is the former Priscilla Watson.

Barbara Wright Joins Group Going to Europe

Will Visit Brother-in-Law, Sister in England, Then Journey to Sweden; Many of D. C. Diplomatic Corps Sailing Soon.

By Dudley Harmon.

Add Barbara Wright's name to the list of those luckies who are going to Europe for the summer. While everybody else seems to be coping with the problem of reservations, Miss Wright is all set to sail Friday from New York, on the Paris.

She will go first to England to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Capt. and Mrs. Ronald Macfarlane-Reid. Mrs. Reid is the former Miss Leslie Wright, her marriage to the former Air Attache of the British Embassy here having taken place in London in September, 1934. Capt. Reid is at present attached to the Ministry of Air in the British capital.

After a family reunion, Miss Wright will embark on the serious side of her journey. She has literary ambitions and will go to Sweden to write some articles.

"Sort of The Middle Way, variety of stories?" we asked Miss Wright, thinking of Marquis Childs' book on Sweden's economic aspects.

Sold One Article.

"Heavens, no," she replied. "I haven't yet decided definitely on the subjects, but it won't have anything to do with economics."

The much-traveled Miss Wright collected material for several articles on a trip last year to Cairo, Syria, Bagdad and Teheran, and felt as though she'd climbed out of the amateur class when she recently sold one. On this journey she stopped in Teheran to visit M. and Mme. Claude Achille Clarac. The former served for several years as a member of the staff of the French Embassy here, and is now attached to the French Legation in Iran.

Miss Wright will stay with friends in Sweden, and hopes to go to Norway and Switzerland before returning to Washington in the fall. The daughter of Mrs. Hamilton Wright, of Washington, she has a more thorough European background than most American innocents abroad. Her school days were spent in a European convent, and her entire family lived for many years abroad, where the late Mr. Wright was an expert on narcotics.

Diplomats Sailing.

Washington will be well represented on the ocean liners sailing from New York within the next few weeks. Practically the entire diplomatic corps usually takes itself off during the summer, and among those sailing shortly are Mme. Fotitch, wife of the Yugoslav Minister, who leaves on the 28th with Miss Sibilla Skidelsky; the latter's parents, the Portuguese Minister and Mme. de Bianchi, and Mrs. Haywood, wife of the Commercial Secretary of the British Embassy. Among officials who have made reservations are Justice and Mrs. George Sutherland, who will sail June 9 to spend the summer in Europe.

Mrs. Gilbert Hitchcock, widow of Senator Hitchcock, wishes she'd booked her reservations earlier. She has bookings on the return trip from abroad, but as yet hasn't been able to get passage across.

Cuban Luncheon Today.

The Cuban Ambassador, Senor Dr. Pedro Martinez Fraga, will entertain at luncheon today in honor of the newly appointed Undersecretary of State, Mr. Sumner Welles. It will be mostly an all-Cuban affair, with members of the Cuban Embassy staff present.

SOCIAL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Ellis have issued invitations to a garden party on Saturday for members of Phi Beta Kappa. The party will be held at Rippon Lodge, their home on the Richmond highway, 2 miles south of Alexandria.

Commander and Mrs. E. L. Cochrane will be hosts at a dinner tonight for Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. DeWitt Clinton Redgrave, who are leaving soon to make their home in New York.

Miss Julia Harris, daughter of the late Senator Harris, of Georgia, will entertain at a luncheon today at the Raleigh Hotel for Miss Rose Page, whose marriage to Mr. John Wilson will take place June 19. Miss Page will spend this week-end in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Chase, of Iowa, who have been visiting the latter's mother, Mrs. Bruce McCrae Colton, will leave today for New York accompanied by Mrs. Colton and Miss Grace Colton. On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Chase and Miss Colton will sail for Nice aboard the Rex for an extended tour of the Continent and the British Isles.

Mr. Chase, who won the Pulitzer prize in 1934 for the best editorial, will study conditions abroad and write for the Iowa Press Association. He is the former editor and publisher of the Atlantic News Telegraph of Iowa.

Dean and Mrs. George B. Woods have returned to their home in Wesley Heights from Rochester, N. Y., where they attended the meetings of the Torch Club, of which the former was elected international president. Early in June Dean and Mrs. Woods and their daughter, Miss Margaret Woods, who graduates from American University this year, will sail for Europe.

Mrs. Cecil Kaufmann entertained a company of 40 at luncheon yesterday at the Woodmont Country Club in honor of her mother, Mrs. David Grotta, of Reading, Pa., who is her guest.

Wedding Saturday For Miss Godden

Miss Eloise Godden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Eugene Godden, of Washington, and Harold Wheatley Hansen of the Capital and Beverly Hills, Calif., will be married Saturday at 11 a. m. in All Saints' Church, Chevy Chase.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Gilbert Britt Rude, will be her only attendant. Carl M. Hanse, jr., brother of the bridegroom, will be best man.

Only the immediate families will attend the church ceremony, which will be followed by a breakfast at the home of the bride's parents on Jenifer street.

The Counselor of the German Embassy and Frau Thomsen will entertain at a dinner this evening. They have issued invitations to a cocktail party on Tuesday, June 8.

Mr. Pope and his daughter occupied the home here of the United States Minister to Switzerland and Mrs. Hugh Wilson, at 2839 Woodlawn drive. Mrs. Wilson landed yesterday in New York on the Statendam and is expected to come to Washington in the near future. She returns to this country every spring, as her son, Hugh Wilson, jr., is in school here.

Women Voters' League Outlines Activities

By Jessie Ash Arndt,
The Post Club Editor.

THIRTY-FIVE MEMBERS of the District of Columbia League of Women Voters participated in the novel program of annual reports presented last night at the closing meeting, a dinner, at the American Association of University Women's clubhouse. Committee chairmen, instead of giving the reports themselves, introduced members of their study groups who outlined the work of the year, touching the high points in two-minute talks.

Mrs. William Kittle, retiring president, presided at the session. Mrs. Lyman Swormsted and Mrs. Elwood Street spoke on the bulletin; the report on the recent national council was given by Mrs. Louis Ottenberg, the incoming president; Mrs. Henry Chalmers, Mrs. Beatrice Duncan and Mrs. M. O. Lorenz reported studies on foreign policy; Mrs. Edward Chapin, on education; Mrs. Pearl Klein, Mrs. Edna Johnston and Mrs. Mary Gainey, on the legal status of women; Mrs. W. A. Morgan, Mrs. Christopher Granger, Mrs. Donald Goodchild, Mrs. Alexander Hawes and Mrs. Robert Leonard, on economic welfare; Mrs. Gordon Wagenet, Mrs. Jesse Adkins, Mrs. Audrey Smith, Mrs. David Cushman Coyle, Mrs. Hugh Butler, Mrs. Thomas Welch, Mrs. Charles Hodge and Mrs. E. R. Strempel, on child welfare.

The report on operation of government was given by Mrs. Charles Weston, Mrs. Henry Parkinson and Mrs. Samuel Horne; that on the student activity by Mrs. Bernard Hearn, Mrs. George Bradnor, Mrs. Robert Leonard and Mrs. G. S. Melleny, and Mrs. Walter Ufford, chairman of the committee studying appropriations measures, and Mrs. Thomas West reported for that group.

Mrs. Leonard's reporting under the department of economic welfare, pointed out the need for passage of the bill prepared by the league two years ago, providing a 40-hour week for women workers in the District, which is not affected by legislation governing the States. The bill sponsored by the league is in line with the President's recent proposals, she said.

In addition to the annual reports, there was election of officers. The slate was elected as previously announced: Mrs. Louis Ottenberg, president; Mrs. Leonard, vice president; Mrs. Christopher Granger, treasurer.

With the president at the speakers' table were Mr. and Mrs. John Lafky, Dr. and Mrs. George C. Ruhland, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Street, Mrs. Grattan Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Seal, Miss Laura Berrian and Mr. Jesse Suter.

Mrs. Wendell Lund was in charge of general arrangements for the meeting and Mrs. William Savin, of hospitality.

NEARLY 100 OFFICERS and chairmen of committees in the District of Columbia Congress of Parents and Teachers were present yesterday at an all-day meeting of the president's council conducted at the headquarters. The purpose of the program was to acquaint new officers with the program for the coming season.

Mrs. W. B. Fry, president of the D. C. Congress, introduced the new officers and presided during the morning and afternoon sessions. Miss Isa Compton, publication secretary of the national congress, explained the use of the national publications in carrying out and planning parent-teacher work; Mrs. J. W. Anderson discussed study groups; Mrs. C. C. Mullady, State treasurer, explained the new bookkeeping methods for the local units, and Mrs. Bertha Eldred, historian, discussed the local unit report, used for summarizing the year's work.

Mrs. William A. Moyer, chairman of ways and means, announced a series of entertainments sponsored with the co-operation of the Society of American Magicians. The P.-T. A. has taken the National Theater for the week of June 14 to 19. The original plan had been to present programs at the schools but it was found to interfere with the parades and closing programs. Proceeds will go to the student aid fund and other activities.

Meloy Garden Scene of Party

Dessert Bridge Is Given for Benefit of Clinic.

Mrs. Hugh B. Meloy, 3600 Rittenhouse street, yesterday afternoon opened her garden for a dessert bridge given by the Women's Auxiliary of the District of Columbia Dental Society, for the benefit of the night dental clinic it maintains at Children's Hospital.

Tables were arranged for 150 guests. As they arrived at 2 o'clock, they were served dessert and then spent the afternoon at cards. They reached the garden by a walk leading from the front gate around one side of the house. Tall trees, a fountain and pool, and peonies in a riot of bloom, formed the setting for the party.

Mrs. William M. Sweet, who was in charge of arrangements, was assisted by Mrs. Elliot Hunt, Mrs. Charles P. Bassett, Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. Alexander Rosenblum, Mrs. Hugh B. Callahan, Mrs. E. L. Colvin and Mrs. Edmund Lane.

Madame Chairman . . .

By Suzanne.

MISS NINA KINSELLA, who is the newly elected president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, has many distinctions. Following study of prison and criminal statistics and administration at Boston and American universities, she became head administrative clerk of the Department of Correction in Boston in 1930, executive assistant to the Director of Federal Bureau of Prisons, a position she now holds.

She is a member of the Women's City Club here, the Massahcusetts State Society, the National Organization of Social Workers and the American Statistical Association.

She has been vice president of the B. & P. W. Club during the past year, and active in its various departments.

MRS. HENRY S. SAWTELLE last night entertained the Excelsior Literary Club at a picnic supper in her garden—a party marking the fiftieth anniversary of the club. It has the distinction of being the oldest woman's club in Washington, the first to affiliate with the District Federation and the first in the District to be affiliated with the General Federation.

Mrs. Sawtelle was elected president of the group the first year she became a member and was re-elected for another term two years ago. Guests of honor last night included Mrs. Lloyd Biddle, president of the District Federation, who was present for a little while before hurrying on to the poetry banquet at the Roosevelt, and Mrs. Ellis Logan, a past president of the District Federation.

Mrs. Sawtelle has entertained the Excelsior group at its annual picnic party each year since she joined. She is one of the rare persons to whom entertaining is never any trouble and she'd rather have a whole party of friends in for a supper than to have just the family any day.

AN UNUSUAL BIRTHDAY present was received by the Pythian Sisters of Rathbone Temple last Friday night at their party in celebration of their forty-sixth anniversary. Mr. John M. Kline, now 90 years of age, and the "father" of the Temple, sent by Mr. Edgar C. Snyder, supreme representative of the Knights of Pythias, a cup and saucer used by Justice Rathbone, founder of the order. With it was a letter from Mr. Cline, who was not able to be present, telling of its history.

The anniversary celebration was a doubly significant occasion for the Pythian Sisters as it was also marked by the official visit of Mrs. Lorena Meyers, of Roanoke, Va., grand chief of the Jurisdiction of Virginia.

Women's City Club Is Scene of Party

The garden of the Women's City Club was the setting for a spring tea party given last night by the Tuesday Evening Bridge section of the club. Tables were arranged in the flagged courtyard with its border of small trees and gay flower boxes, and Japanese lanterns were hung overhead.

Mrs. Raymond H. Keller was chairman of the affair, with Miss S. Pearl Jencks, Miss Miriam Edwards and Mrs. Edgar T. Brown as assistant hostesses. Miss Nell Price was in charge of the cake and candy table.

Among those who made reservations were Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, club president; Mrs. Gus Schuldt, Mrs. A. B. Allen, Mrs. Glover, Miss Elva McNamara, Miss Maybelle Raymond, Miss Martha Daghs, Miss Edith Shipley and Miss Mary Atkins.

D. C. Federation Banquet Honors Poetry Winners

POETRY WAS the theme of the program and the conversation last night at the banquet sponsored by the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs at the Roosevelt Hotel as a tribute to the winners of its poetry contest.

Mrs. Inez Sheldon Tyler, editor of the Blue Moon, who conducted the competition, presided at the dinner which was attended by 80 guests.

Dr. Charles Edward Russell, chairman of literature for the Arts Club, who has awarded several poetry prizes there this season, sat at Mrs. Tyler's right. Also at her table were Mrs. Paul Kirby, winner of first prize, not only in the federation contest but also in that of the Martha MacLear poetry group of the A. A. U. W. and one of the prizes in the Charles Edward Russell rondo contest; Miss Mattie Richards Tyler, winner of the first prize for the District of Columbia general federation contest, and Miss Anna Priestly, winner of the second prize in the national contest sponsored by the League of American Pen Women.

Also at the table were Mrs. Victoria Faber Stevenson, past national president of the Pen Women's League; Miss Marguerite Marigold, president of the D. C. branch of the same organization; Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton, president of the Writer's League; Mrs. Lloyd Biddle, president of the District Federation, who hurried to the dinner from another at which she also had been guest of honor, and Mrs. Frank Hiram Snell, who represented the American Association of University Women.

Other guests of honor included Mrs. Marie Briscoe Croker and Mrs. Arthur Shipley, of Baltimore; Miss Lou Tate, of Louisville, Ky.; Miss Dorothy Gray Smith, winner of the second prize in the Federation contest, and Miss Ivy Lindsey, winner of third prize.

Red roses and baby's breath decorated the tables which were lighted with white candles. After the dinner each of the representatives of co-operating groups was called on for a brief remark and prize winning poems were read by their authors.

Dr. Tompkins, Bride on Trip

Couple to Make Home in Princeton, N. J., Upon Return.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Brown Tompkins, after their wedding here, left late yesterday for a short trip before making their home in Princeton, N. J.

Mrs. Tompkins is the former Miss Mary Ward Lewis, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Lewis, jr., of Bethesda, Md. She is a member of the graduating class of the University of Maryland, and he is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond D. Tompkins, of Rutland Heights, Mass. He is now a fellow in mathematics at Princeton University where he received his doctor's degree.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents on Wilson Lane, and the Rev. Dr. James H. Straughn, of Baltimore, president of the General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, performed the service. A wedding breakfast on the lawn followed.

Business Group Closes Season

Y. W. C. A. Club Holds Dinner Session at Vacation Lodge.

Musical novelties comprised the program last night at the final dinner of the season given by the business and professional women's group of the Y. W. C. A. at Vacation Lodge in Cherrydale, Va., with 60 guests attending.

Miss Glenayre Key, one of the members of the Elizabeth Somers Glee Club, played several selections on her musical saw; Mr. R. S. W. Walker presented accordion numbers, and community singing of old favorites was led by Miss Mary Burnett, director of the Somers Glee Club, and accompanied at the piano by Miss Louise Murray.

Miss Anne Paul presided at the dinner in the absence of Miss Jessie Smith, chairman, who has been in Kansas City for a short stay and is not returning until tonight.

Vacation Lodge, which will be the residence of 44 business girls during the summer months, was built 26 years ago by a small group then in the "Y." It is a long, rambling house of rustic design with a wide fireplace in the living room and ten acres of ground around it, including tennis courts.

Mgr. Buckey Is Guest At Benefit Card Party

Mgr. Edward L. Buckey was among the guests last night at the card party given for the benefit of the Catholic Home for Aged Ladies. The affair was held at the Playhouse, 1814 N street, with about 200 present.

Mrs. D. J. Hayes was in charge of arrangements for the affair, assisted by other members of the board. The home is located in Georgetown and now has 12 residents and a matron. It is one of the special interests of Mgr. Buckey, who does not let a week pass without a visit there.

Writers to Meet.

The Writers' League will hold its final meeting of the season tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, at the home of the president, Mrs. L. W. Tilton, 1823 Kalorama road. Awards for the poetry and short story contests will be made. The judges are Mrs. Inez Sheldon Tyler, editor of Blue Moon, and William H. Jackson.

REMAINING GAMES.

By John R. Vosburgh

Chief Charlie Guyon of the Ojibways reasserted his rule as chieftain of interhigh baseball for the tenth time in 13 years yesterday at Eastern Stadium when he maneuvered a mediocre Eastern team to the school boy championship with a 10-3 rout of Roosevelt.

Ten Roosevelt boys marooned on the bases tell the story of the victory which wreathed the gray-haired Indian's round face in smiles and snatched the title won last year by Western. The chief had his boys, a motley array at the season's start, in there pulling double plays when the going was the hottest, choking off one Roosevelt rally after another.

Pudgy Richard (Rip) Carver was no particular puzzle to the Rough Riders except when he had men on the sacks. Then it was that he fired over his strike-out ball or watched them slap his sinker into double plays. Nine Roosevelt stickmen trudged back to the bench victimized by Carver's strike-outs.

Roosevelt Gets 8 Hits.

Roosevelt, winner of only one game in four interhigh starts, collected eight hits off the stocky right-hander while the champions were pummeling Slowball Sammy Mallos for 13, finally driving him to the showers in the eigth with three straight bingles and a walk.

Eight passes helped the Eastern cause materially, which was led at the plate by rambunctious Marshall Jacobs, third baseman, who collected three hits for a perfect day at bat. Johnny Thrift, Roosevelt's hot-corner man, found Carver's pitching to his liking and slammed out three hits to lead what there was of the Rough Rider onslaught.

Eastern lost no time cutting loose for the title. Wes Taylor, second man up, slammed a neat triple to left center and Everett O'Brien doubled him across in the next breath. The title-bound tempest added another in the next when Carver drove Paul Kober over with the second run following a Roosevelt error.

The Rough Riders bounced back in the ball game in the third when they filled the bases on singles by Toddy Lagos and Thrift and a walk to Sherrard Robertson, only to have Carver send Art Miller down swinging for the third out.

A single by Lefty Stockwell and walks to Kober and Carver filled the bases for Eastern in the third and Stockwell scored when Richards dropped Thrift's throw on an easy force play at the plate on Chet Tawney's roller. Marshall Jacobs then singled Kober and Carver in for a 5-0 lead.

Squeeze Play Fails

Roosevelt finally scored in the fourth on a double by Richards over the rightfield hedge and a single by Mallos, but they missed their big chance in the fifth. A single by Thrift, a wild throw by Jacobs on Robertson's grounder and Miller's single cut the lead to 5-2 and the bases were full with one out when Tassa drew a walk.

A squeeze play was the strategy called for and First Baseman Hodge bunted a pop fly to Carver, who turned it into a double play unassisted at third. Again in the seventh Thrift and Arbuthnot singled, but Robertson hit into a force play and Miller into a double play as Lee Lusby at second and Al Kidwell at short clicked in fast style to kill the rally.

This was the most typical part of the ball game and together with Carver's strikeouts and Guyon's strategy and psychology, it explains why Eastern won the championship.

Fight Results

By the Associated Press.

New York.—Frankie Wallace, clever Cleveland lightweight, took a close decision from Maxie Berger, of New York, in the 10-round feature bout of the Queensboro Arena's opening outdoor fight show of the season tonight. Wallace weighed 136 and Berger 136¼.

Elizabeth, N. J.—Jack Torrance, 248, of Baton Rouge, La., former Olympic shot-putter, knocked out Lou Fisk, 205, Paterson, N. J., in 2:25 of the second round of their scheduled six-rounder tonight.

Moore Power to You, Sara

SARA MOORE,

Sara Moore Upsets Champion, 6-2, 6-4

Hard-hit drives engineered by a plucky young lady who has been knocking on championship doors for a long time whisked Mrs. Margaret Robinson, defending champion and No. 1 player of the District, out of the City of Washington Tennis championships yesterday.

The plucky young lady, Sara Moore, an unseeded entry, eliminated the titleholder without a great deal of ado, 6—2, 6—4, on the Rock Creek courts. It was the biggest upset in the city's women tennis circles in years and sent the modest winner into the semifinal round.

At the same time, a near upset was being enacted on a neighboring court with Mary Cootes, No. 2 seeded player, the near victim. Again an unseeded player was in the forefront, Anne Ellis, slender young Chevy Chase Club girl, who finally bowed, 9—7, 5—7, 6—1, after being a few points from an upset of similar proportions to Miss Moore's.

Accompanying Miss Moore and Miss Cootes into the round of four, Mary Greason, of George Washington University, seeded No. 4, eliminated Edith McCulloch, 6—2, 6—1, and Edith Clarke, seeded No. 3, disposed of Mary Ryan, 6—1, 6—0, to make herself the choice to win the title.

The semifinals are slated for today at 1:30 p. m. at the Edgemoor Club, Miss Clarke facing Miss Moore and Miss Cootes encountering Miss Greason. Semifinals of the doubles will be held at 3:30 p. m.

Miss Moore's surprising victory saw her rally gamely in the second set after trailing, 4—1. In the first set, Sarah, fourth ranking player of the District, had taken a 2—0 lead only to have Mrs. Robinson deadlock the count. Sara then began her hard-driving game, which sent an unusual number of placements whizzing into court.

Mrs. Robinson appeared to hit her stride in the second set, taking a 3—0 lead before Sara took a game and then stretching the lead to 4—1. Sara again hit her placement streak and ran out the set with a rapid-fire battery of power-packed drives. It was Mrs. Robinson's first defeat in a local tournament since she started playing here two years ago.

Before Miss Cootes emerged the victor, Anne Ellis had a 7—6 lead in the first set, only to drop it after a bitter struggle. The Alexandria girl finished out the match with such speed that her unseeded foe was unable to stand the fast pace in the last set.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.
Singles.

Quarter-finals—Sara Moore defeated Mrs. Margaret Robinson, 6—2, 6—4; Mary Cootes defeated Anne Ellis, 9—7, 5—7, 6—1; Mary Greason defeated Edith McCulloch, 6—2, 6—1; Edith Clarke defeated Mary Ryan, 6—1, 6—0.

Doubles.

Quarter-finals—Mary Cootes and Mary Greason defeated Elinor Finckel and Eleanor Craven, 6—2, 6—3; Mrs. Kay Baker and Willie O'Steen defeated Lillian Rixey and Corinne Frazier, 6—3, 1—6, 6—3.

TODAY'S MATCHES (at Edgemoor Club).
Singles.

Doubles.

3:30 p. m., semifinals—Mrs. Dorette Miller and Sara Moore vs. Anne Ellis and Mrs. Marian Pritchard; Edith Clark and Mrs. Margaret Robinson vs. Mary Greason and Edith McCulloch.

Batted Ball Hits Travis, Cuts Lip

Shortstop Cecil Travis, dogged by an injury jinx ever since the Nats returned from their Southern training trip, was painfully hurt yesterday for the third time this season.

Travis was struck in the face by a freak-hopping ball off Coach McNeely's bat in infield practice before the game and suffered a severe cut on his upper lip. He may be out of the line-up for two or three days.

Two days before the season started, Travis was spiked by Joe Moore, of the Orioles, and missed the first week of the campaign. Three weeks ago he suffered a badly wrenched knee while sliding into third base and has played only one game since.

Griffs Buy Catcher to Bolster Staff

Clark Griffith yesterday made the first installment of what is reported to be a $20,000 investment in an attempt to bolster the Washington catching staff.

He bought 21-year-old Milton Gray, highly-touted Baltimore Oriole catcher, with the provision that the Nats can turn back Gray to the Orioles before September 10, if he proves unsatisfactory.

Griffith is believed to have paid $5,000 for the privilege of testing Gray. The remainder of the purchase price will be paid to the Baltimore Club if Gray is retained.

Gray, a trimly-built six footer of 190 pounds, figured in the Nats' pregame practice yesterday and Manager Bucky Harris' first impressions were favorable.

The youth had been troubled with a sore arm which had kept him out of action with the Baltimore Club for the past ten days but yesterday his rifle-like throws to second base were faultless.

A Louisville high school boy when he entered professional baseball with the Thomasville, Ga., club in 1935. Gray was sold to Johnston of the Middle Atlantic League in which he batted .327. During the last two months of the 1936 season, he played with Baltimore but his hitting slumped to .237.

Both Griffith and Harris, however, were won to Gray by the alertness and aggressiveness he showed in two exhibition games against the Nats this season.

Diffenbaugh Qualifies in Pro Tourney

By a Staff Correspondent.

Pittsburgh Field Club, Aspinwall, Pa., May 25.—George Diffenbaugh was definitely "on the stick" today as the Indian Spring professionel gained one of the coveted 63 qualifying places in the P. G. A. championship and the accompanying $100. The second round 75, added to his 81 of yesterday, a 156 total, was a stroke inside the play-off limit.

After his erratic putting performance yesterday, that put him on the border of nonqualification, George changed putters today but it was a bad start for the new weapon when he 3-putted the first green. He parred the next two but trapped his tee shot on 4, to go 2 over but made up a stroke by rolling a 10-foot putt on the fifth hole for a birdie. George turned in 38, parring the next four holes, playing them in regulation figures from tee to green.

Drives were splitting the fairways and his seconds were close on the tenth and eleventh, but he made a hard way par on the twelfth, a par 5. The drive was pulled and his second shot was still in the deep knee-high rough, but a great approach shot and a 6-foot putt enabled him to stay even with par.

The fifteenth, his jinx hole yesterday, broke George's par string at seven straight. He again erred off the tee, pushing his drive in a trap and after blasting out, hit a four wood into another trap near the green. He got down in 6.

A curling 20-foot putt brought the midget Indian Spring mentor back to 2 over par on the short sixteenth hole, a birdie 2, but his chances for the match play rounds suffered a let-down on the seventeenth when a fine shot from a trap within inches of the pin was wasted as he blew the short putt. He parred the next hole for his 75 and 156 total.

Al Treder just couldn't get going today and the Manor representative, after scrambling to pars on the first three holes, went 1 over on the next two, 2 over on the sixth, 3 putting, going out in 42.

His incoming round was nothing like the 37 he rallied with yesterday. Al was hitting the ball poorly and could not score. His total of 80-82—162 was 5 strokes over the qualifying score.

Miss Saxon Wins Washington Event

Chicago, May 25 (AP).—Washington Park's race meeting settled down to the daily routine today, with the opening-day features out of the way.

Frank Barton's Miss Saxon, an outsider in the betting, raced to victory in the best offering on the card, the Matteson Purse, with Hal Price Headley's Sparta second and E. R. Bradley's Bootless, at odds-on, finishing third in the field of six. Jockey L. Sisler was astride the winner, which raced a mile and 70 yards in 1:42 and paid $21.20.

temple. He lay swathed in blankets as Ray Hayworth replaced him behind the plate.

Cochrane's injury is the second serious one this season suffered by a player hit with a pitched ball. Hank Leiber, of the Giants, is recovering in a New York hospital from the effects of being hit by one of Bob Feller's curves in an exhibition game between the Giants and the Cleveland Indians early this season.

The Detroit manager has been hampered by injuries throughout a brilliant American League career. Last June he had to leave his team for a complete rest because of a thyroid condition. Prior to that he had frequent attacks of sinus trouble.

Twice voted the American League's most valuable player, Cochrane has a major league batting record of .320. He was batting .302 for the 1937 season.

Mt. Rainier Wins Over Blair Nine

Young Edgar Shinn, was called to stop a belated Montgomery Blair ninth-inning uprising yesterday and the Mount Rainier team won, 6-5.

George Green, the Mounts starting pitcher, had been doing a right good job by fanning 10 of the opponents over eight innings, only allowing three runs and one hit. But the bats of the Blair team started to sing in the last stanza, and, this coupled with two walks, sent one run across and left three men on base.

Americans Pace British Golf Field

By Gayle Talbot,
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandwich, England, May 25.—Paced by the two leading threats, John O. Levinson, of Chicago, and Dick Chapman, of Greenwich, Conn., seven of America's delegation of 15 remained tonight in the thick of the chase for the British amateur golf championship, relinquished by Scotland's Hector Thomson.

In a day marked by the elimination of two former holders of the crown, Dr. William Tweddell and the Hon. Michael Scott, Levinson uncorked as brilliant a streak of sustained golf as the ancient tournament ever has witnessed, and moved easily into the third round, a jump ahead of his six countrymen.

Meanwhile, a "hot" putter carried Chapman to first round victory over the argumentative British boys' champion, James Bruen, jr., 2 and 1, in a match that was anybody's right down to the final holes. One down at the turn, Chapman squared the match at the tenth, but could not shake off his 17-year-old rival until he sank a 10-foot putt at the sixteenth and an 8-footer for his winning margin.

Surviving along with Levinson and Chapman were J. C. Freshwater, of Hollywood, Calif.; Wilford Wehrle, of Racine, Wis.; P. A. Valentine, of Southampton, N. Y., and Robert Sweeny and R. B. Foster, Americans, who live in England.

Wehrle drew a first round bye and plays his first match tomorrow while Valentine advanced by the default of his first round opponent, but the others had to overcome stubborn opposition to survive.

The American casualties of the day were Billy Sixty, of Milwaukee; Norman MacBeth, of Los Angeles, and Douglas Grant, transplanted Californian, who has made his home in England for years.

Sports in Brief

By the Associated Press.

Indianapolis—Lou Meyer, three-time winner of the annual 500-mile speedway race, announced tonight he had sold his victorious 1936 speedster to Anthony Gulotta, Kansas City filling station owner and a first cousin of Tony Gulotta, the driver.

Memphis, Tenn.—Marion Miley, of Lexington, Ky., clipped two strokes off women's par at the Memphis Country Club today to take medal honors in the Women's Invitation Tournament for the Marguerite Gaut Trophy.

Columbia, Mo.—The University of Missouri closed its polo season here today, defeating Ohio State, 11 to 2, to sweep a two-game series. The Tigers won yesterday's overtime game, 10 to 9.

Lafayette, Ind.—The Notre Dame baseball team thumped Purdue University, 6 to 1, in a hard fought ball game here today.

Indianapolis—Indiana University snaded the Butler baseball team, 5 to 4, here today to score the second victory of the season over the Bulldogs.

Columbus, Ohio.—The Columbus Red Birds purchased today Catcher Jack Crouch from the Rochester Club of the International League for an unannounced sum.

Tennis teams of Georgetown University, and Loyola University, of Baltimore, battle to a 4-to-4 tie here yesterday.

Georgetown won two doubles and two singles matches and Loyola three singles and one doubles.

Austin, Tex.—Advocates of repeal of the horse race betting law stood firm today in their intention to press for a House vote on the subject during the first few days of the special session opening Thursday.

Hillsdale, Mich.—John Gee pitched the University of Michigan to a no hit, no run, victory here today over Hillsdale College, 3-to-0. The Wolverine hurler fanned 13 batters.

Bad Seventh Inning Costly for DeShong

By Shirley L. Povich.

The Lyons share of the proceedings at Griffith Stadium yesterday was a seven-hit game that ancient Ted Lyons flung into the faces of the Nats, sending them skidding into seventh place.

The venerable Chicago right-hander, who was pitching for the White Sox when a good portion of the Nats were at the gate-swinging age pitched Chicago to a very emphatic victory. With a ninth-inning rally that fell seven runs short of tying the score and created no alarm whatsoever among the Chicagos, the Nats took it on the chin, finally, by a score of 9 to 2.

It was their third straight beating, if the truth be known, and a continuation of a hitting slump that is causing Manager Bucky Harris to sprout gray locks where once a shiny black marked the Harris pate.

They didn't get a hit for three innings as Lyons mowed 'em down, and when Jimmy DeShong gave 'em a chance to get in the ball game while he was pitching a string of five scoreless innings, the Nats could produce only one run. Subtract Buddy Lewis' three hits from their efforts and you have some idea how the Nats performed.

DeShong himself was comparatively blameless. When he retired at the end of the eighth inning, he had permitted only six hits and in the first six innings had pitched two-hit ball. But a seventh-inning lapse when he pitched four hits at the White Sox cost him the ball game.

Dat old debbil, the base on balls, set the stage for Chicago to take a 1-to-0 lead in the first inning when Radcliffe coaxed a walk, scampered to second on Walker's single, went to third on another base on balls and ultimately scored on Appling's long hoist to Hill.

Buddy Lewis provided the Nats' first hit off Lyons, a single in the fourth inning, which pushed Hill, who had walked, to third. But with none out, the Nats could get only one run out of the proceedings, Hill scoring on a force play.

Hogan's Throw Late.

Matters stood at 1 to 1 until the seventh, when the White Sox reared up again. Nine of 'em went to bat before DeShong could get the side out, Lucius Appling, the 1936 batting champion, pounded a double to right to start it off and when Hogan's throw to third on Hayes' bunt was late, both runners were safe.

Tony Piet's line drive that flicked Bluege's upstretched glove drove in one run. Ted Lyons got a wind-blown single to short right that didn't help the Nats any, Radcliffe's long fly drove in the second run of the inning, and Kreevich's double against the right field fence produced the third.

The Sox made it 5 to 1 with a run in the eighth that followed Appling's walk and his steal of second. He dashed from second to the plate when a double play attempt on Sewell's grounder missed fire. Umpire Brick Owen said Sewell beat Bluege's relay to first base. Joe Kuhel, who had taken it for granted Sewell was out at first—the third out—didn't attempt to catch Appling speeding home until it was too late.

Linke Helpless.

The ninth was a pretty sad inning for the Nats. Ed Linke, who relieved DeShong at the start of the inning, got the first two hitters out, but he couldn't negotiate that third out. He pitched five hits and a base on balls to the Sox, giving up four runs before Syd Cohen was called in.

Cohen got the side out, but prefers that no questions be asked. He got that third out because after Lyons singled to right on his first pitch, Johnny Stone took the ball and rifled it home to catch Tony Piet, who was trying to score from second base on the hit.

Stone tripled in the ninth and eventually scored, but it was all under the heading of wasted effort.

Slavonia Triumphs At Suffolk Downs

Boston, May 25 (AP).—Bringing the off-day Suffolk Downs crowd of 15,000 to its feet as they battled it out down the stretch, Mrs. Raymond Russell's Slavonia, 4-year-old daughter of Escobar, had a nose the best of it over Mrs. A. M. Creech's Miss Dolphin in the 6-furlong Columbia Purse, to pay $25 in the mutuels.

Overlooked in the wagering, the Texas-owned filly closed at 11 to 1 and was clocked in 1:11 2-5. Miss Dolphin paid $3.20 to place and had a length and a half margin over A. J. Sackett's Tabitha that brought $4.40 to the show bettors.

Savannah Cop Cracks World Pistol Record

Savannah, Ga., May 25 (AP).—City Police Sergt. E. D. Alexander claimed a new world's record today for a 284 score over the National Pistol Course.

Alexander was shooting on a two-man team at the Savannah Rifle Association's range where the State championship matches are in progress.

Three eminent fistic authorities predicted Braddock would win the heavyweight title many years ago . . . while James was still only a light heavyweight . . . and considered just another good puncher . . . those authorities were HYPE IGOE, the dean of all boxing writers . . . the late JIM MULDOON, The Noblest Roman of Them All . . . and GENE TUNNEY . . . incidentally, Tunney now is predicting that the highest honor in all fistiana will some day fall on the capable shoulders of BOB NESTELL . . . the Pacific Coast sensation.

Braddock, who probably will be an underdog in the wagering on the Louis bout, was on the short met TUFFY GRIFFITHS, JIMMY end of prohibitive odds when he SLATTERY, VINCENT PARILLE, MARTIN LEVANDOWSKI, JOHN HENRY LEWIS, ART LASKY and MAX BAER . . . all of whom he defeated . . . the champion would much rather enter the ring on the wrong end of the wagering than a favorite . . . because he believes it brings him good luck.

Diffenbaugh Qualifies for Title Round; Treder Ousted.

By Merrell W. Whittlesey.
A Staff Correspondent

Pittsburgh Field Club, Aspinwall, Pa., May 25.—The fastest tournament field in the history of the Professional Golfers Association moves into the match play rounds tomorrow with its star-studded group intact, and the Alex Smith Memorial qualifying trophy in the hands of young Byron Nelson, who added a 71 to his 68 of yesterday.

The Ryder Cup eligibles, of whom 4 out of a group of 11 will be added to the international team, on their showing here and in Detroit, were paced by the recent Masters' Open winner and were in possession of six of the eight lowest scores.

George Diffenbaugh, the Indian Spring professional, from Washington, D. C., gave the Washington contingent an even break by making the match play rounds with a 156 total, including a 75 today in which he made few mistakes, shooting beautiful golf en route.

Has Poor Round.

Al Treder, Manor Club, Norbeck, Md., was the victim of a poor round today, 3-putting several greens and pairing rounds of 42 and 40 for an 82 for a two-day total of 162, 5 strokes over the limit.

It was only by the play-off route that the field was not robbed of one of the greatest stars of the game, Willie MacFarlane parring the first hole, along with Sam Bernardi and John Kinder, and salvaging a match play berth. Ten played off for three places at 157. The losers were Willie Hunter, Connecticut; Ralph Stonehouse, Al Stein, Clarence Yockey, Charles Burkhart, Willie Klein and John Sargent.

Ky Laffoon, with the third course record-breaking score of the two-day rounds, a 68, paced the day's scorers. Jimmy Thompson had a 69 and Harry Cooper a 70.

Nelson's score, four under par for the 36 holes, was another of his near perfect rounds, lacking only the putting touch of yesterday. A pair of birdies on the fifteenth and finishing holes and a bad first hole when he flubbed his second shot were the only exceptions to the 15 pars that dotted his card.

Paul Runyan slumped to 75 today, making 40 blows on the back nine and he was bracketed at 143 with Harold "Jud" McSpaden, a consistent scorer with 71-72, and Ky Laffoon. Vic Ghezzi, Ed Dudley and Wild Bill Mehlhorn, whose "crazy" putter was the chief contributor to a 69 today, were deadlocked at 145.

Henry Cuici was the only nationally known golfer to fall before the two-day medal test, his 85 yesterday virtually eliminating him. Today's 78 was too high by 7 strokes. Johnny Revolta, one of the betting favorites, was 5 over par for the outgoing nine, but rallied with a 35, 1 under perfect figures, to score 154. Sam Parks and Perry Delvecchio, the local contenders, made the grade, Parks shooting 74 today for a 156 total, the same shot by Diffenbaugh.

Trail "Freshmen."

Mehlhorn and Cooper were the only shot makers to prevent the Ryder Cup candidates from making a clean sweep of the low-qualifying scores. Jimmy Hines and Sam Snead, at 147; Olin Dutra and Craig Wood, with 148, and Ralph Guldahl, with 151, trailed the leaders. Picard, Revolta, Smith, Sarazen, Manero and Shute, already named to the squad, all trailed the "freshmen" group.

Shute, the defending champion, an automatic qualifier, but playing for a crack at the medal trophy, warned the boys to hold that crown by posting a 70 today, 2 under par. Sam Snead, still the gallery favorite, played the course in even 72 figures, a last-hole 5 costing him a sub-par score.

The "sudden-death" match-play rounds are on tap today the field of 64 being reduced to 16 by nightfall and the double winners will be $150 richer. Thirty-six hole matches continue, starting Thursday, through the finals on Sunday.

Wild Bill Melhorn officially apologized to the press and officials today on the uncomplimentary remarks he made concerning Sam Snead yesterday after the P. G. A. rules committee had ruled Snead clear of the question of wiping his ball on the fifth green. Melhorn said he "spoke without thinking" and regretted the statements, hoping the club officials, pros and press would accept his apology, and that he did not wish to harm the tourney in any way.

George Diffenbaugh, the lone District qualifier, will have his hands full tomorrow in the match-play rounds of the P. G. A. championship, the Indian Spring mentor playing Alvin "Butch" Kreuger, the reformed baseball player and a top-notcher in the golf ranks for the past several years, at 11:15 a. m. Should George get by Kreuger he will play the winner of the Sam Snead-Jack Sabol match, and Snead, a 10-to-1 shot to win the event, should easily dispose of Sabol.

Sandy McDonald.

This big, good-natured Texan will meet Bob Tow, of Alexandria, in the heavyweight bout on the Police Benefit card at Griffith Stadium June 2 . . . he ran the gamut in the Lone Star State . . . and, after running the aforesaid gamut, decided the prize ring was no fit place for such as himself . . . so he retired . . . and was lured out of retirement by a prominent Cleveland business man . . . who took him to New York and quickly got him placed on practically every semi-final to each of Joe Louis' bouts . . . the Cleveland business man suddenly decided he did not like the fight game . . . so he droppsd McDonald . . . who automatically fell into the hands of Champ Siegal . . . one of the game's better-known managers, who had been associated with the Cleveland business man . . . Siegal did very well by Sandy . . . until he shoved him in against Marty Gallagher here . . . careless critics said Siegal was crazy . . . that McDonald would get bumped off . . . but, Sandy justified Siegal's faith in him by earning a draw decision against the pride of Foggy Bottom . . . although many thought the Texan had won the decison.

Bob Tow.

The Alexandria Adonis zoomed back into local favor by knocking out Eddie Mader, a highly regarded heavyweight, in his last appearance in a District ring . . . a confirmed in-and-outer, Tow shaped up as a grave threat to the heavyweight championship last summer . . . when he returned to local rings after an impressive string of victories in Chicago . . . Tow's first opponent upon his return to the wars in Washington was Marty Gallagher . . . Marty thumped out a decision . . . and Bob, never one to duck any kind of a fight, immediately set out for Dallas, Tex . . . there to fight Tom Beaupre . . . whom he already had knocked out . . . as a result of the Gallagher beating, Tow was in bad shape when he climbed through the ropes against Beaupre . . . and was stopped in the first round . . . Tow came back to Alexandria and started training . . . but suffered a hip injury which kept him on the sidelines . . . until just recently . . . when he resumed his career . . . by knocking out Mader . . . just by way of making the outcome of this fight more difficult to predict, it may be noted that McDonald once held Beaupre to a draw.

Giants Pass Idle Cards; Pirates Bow

Yanks Trip Tigers, Add to Lead; Athletics Defeated Again.

New York, May 25.—The New York Yankees increased their American League lead a game today by defeating the Detroit Tigers, 4-3.

Irving Hadley was the winning pitcher over Schoolboy Rowe, although he was relieved in the ninth by Johnny Murphy after the Tigers had scored 2 runs and had the tying and winning runs on base. Lazzeri's home run in the seventh proved to be the winning tally.

The Philadelphia Athletics suffered their second straight defeat, 4-2, to the Cleveland Indians in the first of a three-game series. Mel Harder, who was relieved by Galehouse after the A's had rapped him for both of their runs in the seventh, was the winning pitcher.

Three errors in the first inning cost the St. Louis Browns 3 runs and a subsequent 4-2 defeat by the Boston Red Sox. It was the second win of the season for the veteran Lefty Grove, who held the Brownies to six hits, giving only two of them up until the eighth inning when St. Louis scored both of their runs.

The New York Giants took second place in the National League, going around the idle St. Louis Cardinals, by downing the Cincinnati Reds, 9-3. Gumbert went the route for the league champions and coasted to victory behind his mates' 16-hit assault.

The Brooklyn Dodgers handed the leading Pittsburgh Pirates their second straight loss, 2-1. It was the fifth win of the year for Van Mungo, who turned the Bucs back with six hits.

Bill Lee scored his fourth win of the year, pitching the Chicago Cubs to a 5-3 victory over Philadelphia. The Cubs got away fast, reaching Passeau for three runs in the first inning. Their third-inning tally, which turned out to be the winning one, came as a result of a scratch hit by Demaree, who went to second on fielder's choice and scored on Hartnett's single to center.

Boston at St. Louis was postponed because of wet grounds.

Roosevelt, Central School Golf Victors

Roosevelt High advanced to within two steps of the interhigh golf championship yesterday when it swamped Western, 9 to 0, at the Manor Club. Bobby Brownell led the Rough Riders, routing Pope, Western No. 1 man, 6 and 5. To take the Dawes Cup, Roosevelt must defeat Wilson and Tech.

Central High was another winner, repulsing Tech, 8 to 1, at Washington Golf and Country Club.

Roosevelt, 9; Western, 0.

Brownell defeated Pope, 6 and 5; Cooke defeated Vass, 3 and 2; Roosevelt won best ball, 6 and 5. Liebman defeated Brown, 2 up; Smith defeated Felker, 3 and 2; Roosevelt won best ball, 3 and 1. Ramson defeated Stonestreet, 3 and 1; Goodman defeated Dewitt, 7 and 6; Roosevelt won best ball, 7 and 6.

Central, 8; Tech, 1.

Leapley (Central) defeated Kelly, 2 up; Stein (Central) defeated Blank, 1 up. Central won best ball, 3 and 2. Smith (Tech) defeated Hanlan, 2 up, 1 to play; Franklin (Central), defeated Kallio, 6 and 4; Central won best ball, 3 and 2. Kahn (Central) defeated Donohue, 2 up; Holmes defeated Arnold, 2 up; Central won best ball, 3 and 1.

P. B. I.	AB	H	O	A	Nav. Air.	AB	H	O	A
Roulon,ss

Mickey Cochrane lies in a New York hospital this morning, his skull fractured and his serious condition an ugly reminder that big league baseball is a grim sport.

The business of standing up there at bat while a big 200-pound pitcher only 60 feet, 6 inches away bends every ounce of strength behind the task of throwing a slick-covered baseball at a home plate only 17 inches in diameter, is no lark for the hitter.

POVICH.

He can be killed. It has happened. The pitcher need have only an errant grip on the ball, he need only misjudge his aim a fraction of a foot in an effort to shade the plate or cut a corner—and the hitter has little chance to duck.

It is part of the pitcher's business to conceal which way he intends to break the ball. It may curve in toward the hitter's head. It may dip away. It may rise with an eccentric hop. It may curve out. For the most part, the hitter is guessing. If he guesses wrong, it may be a case for the coroner—at least for the club doctor.

* * * *

And so it is that unthinking fans who yell, "You bum!" as a hitter misses a swing, forget that tragedy rides with these pitches—that one errant pitch can rend body from soul. At a test at the United States Bureau of Standards several years ago, the speed of Walter Johnson's fast ball was gauged at more than 100 miles an hour.

* * * *

Bump Hadley, of the Yankees, was the pitcher who beaned Cochrane. But baseball men instantly absolve Hadley of any intent. Other pitchers in the league might have been accused of deliberately throwing at a hitter's head. It is done daily. But Hadley would not do it, you can bet.

Because Hadley hit a player in the head accidentally here in Griffith Stadium a few years ago. It was Fred Schulte, if I recall rightly. Before the ball hit Schulte, Hadley ejaculated a wild "Look out!" But Schulte couldn't duck. As he sagged to the ground, Hadley blanched and whitened in horror.

* * * *

So upset was Hadley that Manager Bill Killefer, of the Browns, removed the pitcher from the box. Hadley was still trembling in horror as they lugged Schulte from the field.

In the clubhouse after the game, Hadley was inconsolable. "I'll never throw that side-arm curve again," he declared. "I can't control it. I'll hurt somebody—bad."

But, contrastingly, players and fans alike were quick to accuse Carl Mays of intent when he killed Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, with a bean ball in the heat of the 1920 pennant race.

Mays had a habit of "dusting" the hitter's off, just as you find them doing it today. He had beaned several men in his time. It is a quaint custom among pitchers. They aim not to hit the batter, but to scare him. A fast ball, inside and high, tends to make the hitter give ground at the plate. That makes him a sucker for the next pitch over the outside corner.

League officials have long been aware of the growing tendency to dust the hitters off. It's good pitching strategy—if the pitch misses the hitter by just enough to scare him—good. And so it is that league rules have been tightened and new warnings issued.

In every clubhouse in both leagues huge notices are now posted. The umpires, it states, now has the authority to warn a pitcher whom he deems is deliberately throwing at a hitter. There is to be no second warning. The umpire thumbs him out of the game and reports him to the league president for fine, suspension and possible banishment from baseball.

Walter Johnson hit plenty of batters at the height of his fast-balling career but somehow there were no fatalities. But he virtually ended the careers of two New York players—Shortstop Jack Martin and Outfielder Freddie Cree—who were always plate-shy after being hit by Johnson's fast ones.

Thus it is that big league batting stars frown on exhibition games in the spring against wild rookie pitchers and collegians. The same fearless fellows who would dig a toe-hold in the batter's box and take a strangle hold on the bat against big league pitching, admit that they're scared to bat against those wild rookies in the spring.

Hagerstown Feature Won By Flosilda

Defeats Nay Nay by Half Length; Pays $5.70; 5,000 Fans Attend.

By Walter Haight.

A Staff Correspondent.

Hagerstown, Md., May 25.—Mrs. H. Horst's Flosilda, a game little filly which fell in the running of last Saturday's feature race, came back today to show the way to seven others in the Coffman purse, the outstanding event on the program. The daughter of Wrack defeated Nay Nay a half length, with Sun Sweep third and another five lengths farther back.

The race, over the 5 furlong course, was watched by a crowd of 5,000, which installed Flosilda a $5.70 favorite. The filly stepped the route in one minute, creditable time. The program was conducted over a fast track and under smiling spring skies.

Nay Nay was first to show in front after Starter Gregory and his men had quieted Diplomacy, one that threw Jockey Garrett several times and as a result has been barred from future racing here. Flosilda was closest to Nay Nay and running easily in the opening furlong. It was at the far turn that Jockey C. Coffman asked Flosilda to show her speed and she gradually disposed of Nay Nay to win going away.

The daily double shrunk to its lowest figure of the meeting, the fortunate cashing a $21 mutuel. The first half victory was scored by Schley Nurse, capably handled by Jockey Joe Sherry, which led her stablemate, Schley Goree, to the wire. The entry paid $4.50 to win and $4.70 to place. Chief Hollis completed the "double" transaction by winning the second race with ease at an $11.90 mutuel while ridden by Leon Garrett.

Garrett came back to pilot Bueaty B. to victory in the third race. The Claptrap filly took the measure of Canter Belle and Little Whisk with an $8.90 pay-off resulting.

By driving Lady Nymph to a thrilling victory in the 4th race, the Lions Club Purse, Garrett rode his third winner of the program. The Nashville, Tenn., boy had to go to the whip in the final furlong and his charge downed Sunny home by a head.

†G. G. Waugh, jr.-Mrs. A. S. Bowman entry.
Two-dollar mutuels paid—SCHLEY NURSE (entry), $4.50, $4.70, $3.00; SCHLEY GOREE (entry), $4.70, $3.00; ANNEKE, $5.80.
SCHLEY NURSE, excellently handled, was steadied along to the far turn, came around SCHLEY GOREE smartly and was in hand at the end. SCHLEY GOREE pressed the pace of ANNEKE, took a brief lead and was driving at the finish. ANNEKE saved much ground at the first turn to get to the front and tired gradually thereafter. GOODWINE closed some ground. SCOUT ALLOW could not keep up.

SECOND RACE—About 6½ furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won handily; place driving. Went to post at 2:50. Off at 2:51½. Winner, Mrs. I. P. Engle's b. g. (4), by Tall Timber—Corlette. Trained by R. Payne. Value to winner, $275; second, $75; third, $35; fourth, $15. Time, 1:22.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHIEF HOLLIS, $11.90, $5.90, $3.30; AELLA, $11.60, $6.30; STINGAREE, $4.30.
CHIEF HOLLIS, close to the pace of AELLA from the start, took command when placed to drive and was taken in hand after gaining a winning lead in the stretch. AELLA, hard ridden throughout, closed gamely under punishment. STINGAREE gained gradually throughout the running and showed a good effort. MAZYNIATA failed to rally. The others were not prominent.

DAILY DOUBLE PAID $21.00.

THIRD RACE—About 6½ furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 3:25. Off at 3:28½. Winner, John White's b. f. (3), by Claptrap—Linton Nell. Trained by E. Williams. Value to winner, $275; second, $75; third, $35; fourth, $15. Time, 1:22 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BEAUTY B., $8.90, $4.40, $3.20; CANTER BELLE, $6.60, $4.30; LITTLE WHISK, $6.10.
BEAUTY B., much the best, was under steadying restraint while saving ground in close attendance of the pace of CANTER BELLE, took command easily when called upon, opened a good lead and was in hand at the end. CANTER BELLE, hard ridden throughout, closed willingly, but was no match for the winner. LITTLE WHISK was forwardly placed from the start and showed a good effort. WHITE SWEETS could not threaten at any stage. VAL X dwelt at the start.

FOURTH RACE—About 5 furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. The Coffman Purse. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:04. Off at 4:15½. Winner, Mrs. H. Horst's b. f. (4), by Wrack—Marshmallow. Trained by E. Brining. Value to winner, $275; second, $75; third, $35; fourth, $15. Time, 1:00.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLOSILDA, $5.70, $3.30, $2.80; NAY NAY, $3.30, $2.80; SUN SWEEP, $2.90.
FLOSILDA, kept in the middle of the track for three furlongs while close to the pace of NAY NAY, came around leader when placed to drive and was running easily at the end. NAY NAY, sent to the front under hustling tactics, saved ground and fought it out willingly. SUN SWEEP, forward factor throughout, tired in the final furlong. BROMIDE was listlessly handled. DIPLOMACY, fractious at the post, tired after running wide.

FIFTH RACE—About 6½ furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:50. Off at 4:53. Winner, A. H. Ritter's b. f. (4), by Abbot's Nymph—Merry Paran. Trained by R. Weeks. Value to winner, $275; second, $75; third, $35; fourth, $15. Time, 1:22 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADY NYMPH, $13.60, $5.70, $3.90; SUNNY HOME, $6.10, $4.40; CANYNGE, $3.70.
LADY NYMPH, well handled, followed the pace of SUNNY HOME to the stretch and responded to punishment to be up in the concluding strides. SUNNY HOME shook off DOLLED UP to take command early and finished gamely. CANYNGE came from far back to close with a belated rush. PRINCE PETTIE made up some ground. TOM'S BOY was poorly handled.

SIXTH RACE—About 1 1/16 miles. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place same. Went to post at 5:25. Off at 5:26. Winner, Mrs. H. R. Smith's br. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FIFE, $4.90, $3.40, $2.50; LUCKY TURN, $10.80, $5.10; JIM BROWN, $3.50.
FIFE, the best and under improved handling, saved ground while in hand and close to the leaders, went between PRINCE KHAYYAM and HOLLAND to take command and drew far out to win easily. LUCKY TURN gained sharply in the final three furlongs, but was no match for the winner. JIM BROWN closed gamely. HOLLAND was used up chasing PRINCE KHAYYAM. MINNA showed a very dull effort. PRINCE KHAYYAM stopped.

SEVENTH RACE—About 1 1/16 miles. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 6:01. Off at 6:03. Winner, S. Crowhurst b. g. Disability Wage Plan Revealed By du Pont Co.

Workers Will Receive Full Pay During Idleness or Injury.

Wilmington, Del., May 26.—Wage-roll employes in all plants of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. and subsidiary companies will benefit substantially by a far-reaching disability wage plan devised by the works councils and announced by the company today. Under the plan, which becomes effective June 15, all wage-roll employes having one year of continuous service will receive full wages during disability resulting from nonoccupational illness or injury for a maximum period of three months, less a waiting period of two consecutive regular working days. About 80 per cent of the company's 41,000 wage-roll employes will be eligible on the effective date.

Several months ago five works councils representing the employes of five plants asked that some form of disability wage benefits be granted to compensate them for loss of time when they were absent from work due to nonoccupational illness or accident.

Composite of Five Plans.

These works councils were asked to submit to the local managements a plan which they thought would fill this need. This was done, following which a tentative plan was drawn up which represented a composite of the five plans. This tentative plan was then submitted to the 67 other councils for their criticisms and suggestions. The plan was formally adopted with only minor amendments worked out through joint discussions between the works councils and their respective works managements.

The adoption of the plan was announced yesterday in all of the company's 81 plants in 27 States. Under current conditions of employment and wage disbursements, the company estimates that the operation of the disability wage plan will require an additional outlay of between one and a half and one and three-quarters million dollars annually.

Ethyl-Dow Doubles Sea Bromine Plant

New York, May 25.—A $1,000,000 expansion program is under way at the Ethyl-Dow Chemical Co.'s plant, for recovery of bromine from the sea at Kure Beach, near Wilmington, N. C. Capacity will be doubled, and the annual output of ethylene dibromide will be stepped up to 20,000,000 pounds to keep pace with the quickening world demand for ethyl fluid, used in the production of antiknock gasoline for high compression motors.

Unique in industrial civilization, and the first to exploit the mineral resources of the ocean on a commercial scale, the plant, when construction is completed on July 1, will be enabled to draw 137,000 gallons of water from the sea a minute.

Extra and Higher Dividends Voted

New York, May 25 (AP).—Directors of Remington Rand Co. declared a dividend today of 25 cents a common share. Previously 15 cents cash and 1 per cent in stock was paid quarterly. The latest dividend, payable July 1 to holders of record June 10, was designated as an interim dividend. Sales in April increased to $4,453,127 from $3,444,384 in the same month last year, a gain of 29.3 per cent.

Directors of Superheater Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share on the common stock, payable July 15 to stock of record July 2. The last previous payment was 25 cents a share on April 15.

Draper Corporation, maker of automatic weaving machinery, announced an extra dividend of $1 a share and the regular quarterly dividend of 60 cents on the capital stock, both payable July 1 to stock of record May 29.

An extra dividend of 20 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents on the common stock were announced by directors of Mohawk Carpet Mills, Inc., at the annual meeting of stockholders today. Both are payable June 15, to stock of record June 10.

British Cotton Output Makes New Record

Manchester, May 25 (AP).—British Empire cotton production, excepting India, exceeded all previous records during 1936, says the annual report of the British Cotton Growing Association.

Production amounted to 752,800 bales, of which the Uganda protectorate was responsible for the biggest share, the Soudan being a good second. In most other territories, the report says, climatic conditions were far from good and poor crops were harvested.

Overseas Telephone Calls.

New York, May 25 (AP).—Long distance telephone calls handled by 11 subsidiary operating companies of International Telephone & Telegraph Corporation during the first quarter of the year totaled 8,784,997, compared with 7,085,029 in the same period last year, the company reported today. The report covered operations in North and South America, the West Indies, Europe and Asia.

Settlements Drive Wheat 4 Cents Down

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, May 25.—Simultaneous with first receipts of 1937 new crop United States wheat, the Chicago market collapsed almost 4 cents today, and Winnipeg quotations fell 5 cents.

The tumble of wheat values at Winnipeg was to the extreme limit allowed in any 24-hour period. Giving impetus to the downward slide of prices were large liquidating sales to settle Chicago May wheat contracts which must be completed by tomorrow night to avoid acceptance of tenders of grain in store or on track.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 2½@3⅞ cents under yesterday's finish; May, 1.22⅞@1.23; July, 1.16¾@1.17; September, 1.16@1.16⅛; corn, ½ to 4 cents down; May, 1.34¾@1.35; July, 1.20¼@1.20½; September, 1.09¾@1.10; oats unchanged to ⅝ off; May, 51¾@51⅞, and rye showing 1 cent to 4 cents setback; May, 1.16. In provisions, the outcome varied from 22 cents decline to a gain of 2 cents.

Consumption of Tin Shows Large Gain

New York, May 25.—According to statistics just published in The Hague Statistical Bulletin, of the International Tin Research & Development Council, world consumption of tin in March, 1937, was over 19,000 tons against 14,600 tons in the previous month. The total consumption in the first quarter of the current year was 49,432 tons against 39,999 tons in the corresponding period of 1936, and the quantities of tin produced in these periods were, respectively, 44,110 tons and 39,065 tons.

Thus consumption has been in excess of production this year by over 5,000 tons.

The Market

Stocks Decline in More Active Trading; Rails and Steels Weaken; Wheat Breaks.

New York, May 25.—Stocks worked lower on increased volume, which rose to around 1,000,000 shares, the largest in about a week. Government bonds were firm, but commodities were unsettled, a sharp break in wheat on rain reports being a factor. July wheat sold 2¾ cents lower at 117 cents a bushel. French francs lost most of their buoyancy of yesterday as official intervention ceased.

If business this summer is going to miss the spending of $2,000,000,000 or so which it had last summer as a soldiers' bonus, the public is making good much of the slack by going into installment buying at an unprecedented pace. Most of the companies which finance such business, as well as the personal loan departments of the banks, report a heavy volume of loans. By no means all the borrowing is going to the motor industry. The country apparently is taking a positive stand on the question of whether employment and wages will continue to rise, or else it is growing cynical over the value of the dollar and the obligation to pay a debt.

Industrial news was of no new color, and the fresh weakness in stocks, although it did not become prominent until the last hour of trading, scarcely could be attributed to anything fresh. Reports from Washington suggested delay on the 40-40 hour-wage measure, and while one or two more independent steel companies settled with the C. I. O., the Inland Steel Co. took an uncompromising stand against it. Whatever the cause for renewed pessimism, or whether the selling was merely what the brokers call a "technical adjustment," after the recent recovery, the decline in prices toward the close was the most severe seen in nearly two weeks.

Attack on Rails.

Railroad shares were the targets for the late selling. Bearishness on that sector of the front probably was incited by a number of reports from executives of Eastern and Northwestern carriers, indicating less freight in sight than had been hoped for, partly because of crop deficiency, and by the current reports on earnings for April. Those statements show that although gross revenues increased at about the usual pace of recent months, expenses rose sharply, with the result that net operating income is running only a little higher.

Selling carried prices for leading stocks down 1 to 2 points and volume increased for a while. Steel dropped to below 98, after being lower from the start. Inland and Acme were exceptions to the downtrend. Tobaccos softened about 2 points. Motors were quiet with Chrysler and General Motors lower throughout. Some of the mines hardened, particularly Smelters, Phelps Dodge, and Anaconda.

More Change.

Reassurance in the Government bond market springing from the Supreme Court's favorable decision on the social security act, which seems to guarantee a large revenue to the Treasury and a huge fund to be used for retirement of Government bonds, had an offset in the growing tendency of stockholders to worry over the implications for industry. The Supreme Court is increasingly inclined to uphold legislation sponsored by those who have in mind economic changes to be brought about through schemes of social legislation and political management of industry.

The bent of the court makes it more likely that the latest proposal of the Administration to reconstitute the NRA in many of its features, viz, the fixing of hours and wages, will be passed by Congress and allowed to stand by the court. Naturally, stockholders will wonder with the managers of their corporations whether profits can be maintained if new high levels for wages and new minimum work hours are to be established. The proposed 40 cents an hour minimum and 40-hour week undoubtedly will greatly increase production costs and consequently will not only present a problem for corporate management, but raises a serious question of whether, if its influence toward reducing production cannot be overcome, it might not help to bring on a business recession.

Purchasing Power.

The effect on the profits of the individual corporation will depend largely on the proportion of labor costs to total loss, on the nature of the product, which determines ability to pass on higher costs to the public, and on the hours and wages already in operation. For industry as a whole it is at least arguable that enough slack exists between actual cost of operation—aside from the hourly wage scale—and the reduced level to which costs might be brought through the greater use of more efficient methods and better machinery, largely to absorb higher wages. What seems to worry industrialists now more than anything else is the prospect for a big jump in another cost element—taxation—which they cannot offset in any manner except by raising prices.

The Administration is proposing its higher wage-shorter hour scheme as a means of increasing employment and maintaining public purchasing power. It cannot increase employment unless it enables industry to produce and sell more of its products, and the experience of the NRA, with an initial sharp rise in costs and consequently in selling prices without a corresponding gain in production, does not encourage much hope. The real purchasing power of the consumer comes from his increased production—not from his lowered output.

In one direction the campaign for shorter hours and higher wages promises some improvement in purchasing power, namely, in the stimulus that may be given to capital goods industries. That is where business recovery has lagged, and if in order to keep above water industry will now have to spend large sums toward plant improvement a backward section of industry may come forward, paradoxical as that may seem in the light of the President's recent fears of overstimulation of durable goods.

Oil Output Sets Another New High

By the Associated Press.

Tulsa, Okla., May 25.—The Oil and Gas Journal reported another new high today in its computation of the daily average production of crude oil in the United States. The total daily average for the week ending May 22 was 3,553,235 barrels, an increase of 3,414 over the week before.

Oklahoma had a decrease of 10,325 to a total of 649,725 barrels daily. East Texas was up 1,410 to 464,957 and all Texas increased 7,058 to 1,428,397. Production in Louisiana declined 695 to 242,430 barrels daily; California had a rise of 3,000 to 659,000 and Kansas declined slightly, 925 to 197,550.

Steel Corp. Votes $2 for Pfd. Arrears

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 25.—In a surprise move that caught Wall Street napping, directors of U. S. Steel Corporation dropped a $7,200,000 melon in the laps of preferred stockholders with a dividend on account of arrears of $2 a share on the senior stock. The latest payment leaves $3.25 of unpaid dividends, amounting to $11,709,136 of accumulated dividends on the issue. The payment made on May 29, last, was a regular of $1.75 and $4 on account of back dividends. The latest dividend is payable June 20 to stockholders of record June 4.

Harvey Couch New Chairman Of K. C. South.

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 25.—The influence of Harvey C. Couch and associates in the Kansas City Southern Railway system was broadened today by election of Couch as chairman of the board. He succeeded Kenneth D. Steere, partner in the investment firm of Paine Webber & Co.

In a statement issued following his election Couch said, "I am deeply appreciative of the confidence imposed and I am hopeful to contribute something to the continuation of the fine record made by the Kansas City Southern under the able administration of Mr. Loree (Lenor F. Loree, one-time chairman) and president C. H. Johnston. Needless for me to say I am a great believer in the great Southwest and since the K. C. S. goes right through the heart of it 'as the crow flies,' I feel it will be a factor in its continued development."

Entrance of the Couch interests into Kansas City Southern a few months ago was believed by Wall Street circles to presage consolidation with the Louisiana & Arkansas Railroad Co., a Couch property. Harvey C. Couch is chairman and his brother, C. P. Couch, is president of the L. & A.

Steere, the retiring chairman, said "this change places all executive offices of the railroad in the territory served by it. Mr. Couch's wide knowledge of industrial and business conditions in the Southwest and his large personal interests in the property makes him the ideal man for this position."

Joint Hearings Will Be Held on Hour, Pay Bill

Black and Connery Agree on Program to Speed Roosevelt Plan.

Joint House and Senate hearings on the Administration's new wages and hours bill were arranged yesterday in an effort to expedite action this session on the proposed fair labor standards act of 1937."

Chairman William P. Connery, of the House Labor Committee, announced plans for joint action following a talk with Chairman Hugo Black, of the Senate Labor group.

No date has been set for opening of hearings, pending further conferences today, but Connery predicted they will get under way early next week. He had previously scheduled House hearings for Tuesday, but canceled arrangements when Black prepared to proceed concurrently.

The bill, messaged to Congress by the President on Monday, would legislate minimum wages, maximum hours, and a prohibition of child labor under 16. It vests in a five-man Labor Standards Board sweeping power to adjust wage and hour standards up and down. This adjustment would be by individual industries.

The wage minimum and the hours maximum was left blank in the Black-Connery bill, but the nominal authors both favor a 30-hour floor, possibly ranging up to 40 hours. The wage "floor" suggested has been around $16 and $17 a week.

Also left blank in the bill was the number of employes required before plants would come under the law. Twenty-five had been tentatively agreed on, but Connery said yesterday he would try to move it down to 10.

Meantime, some Administration economists predicted that removal of children under 16 from the labor market and fixation of a standard 40-hour work week would result in immediate re-employment of 5,000,000 jobless.

Waneeta Beckley Of Kentucky Wins U. S. Spelling Bee

The contention of some experts that girls are better spellers than boys was strengthened yesterday when Waneeta Beckley, plump, 14-year-old pupil of Holy Name Parochial School in Louisville, Ky., won the National Spelling Bee held in the National Auditorium.

Two girls remained on the stage as the orthography derby reached the stretch—Waneeta and Betty Grunstra, 12-year-old, 55-pound pupil from Clifton, N. J. They had been at it for three hours when Betty was asked to spell "plebeian," a word that comes from the Greek and means the common people.

Waneeta, who represented the Louisville Courier-Journal, spelled it correctly and was acclaimed the winner—the eighth girl to triumph in the bee since 1925, in which period only five boys have won. Just for good measure, Waneeta spelled "promiscuous."

Four Badly Hurt In Auto Mishaps

Several persons were seriously injured, two by hit-and-run drivers, in traffic accidents yesterday.

John Cox, colored, 39, of 2110 Bancroft place northwest, was in a critical condition at Garfield Hospital after a collision at Thirteenth street and Florida avenue northwest. He suffered a broken back when a truck he was operating smashed into a car driven by Alfred E. Budd, 42, of 5606 Kansas avenue northwest.

Struck by a hit-and-run driver at Fourth and K streets northwest, Ardole Brown, colored, 19, of 1529 Ninth street northwest, suffered a fractured leg and a fractured skull. She was taken to Freedmen's Hospital. Her conditon was reported serious.

In another hit-and-run accident, Mary Slade, colored, 3, of 69 R street northwest, suffered severe lacerations. She was taken to Emergency Hospital. She was hit in front of her home.

While playing tag in the street near his home at 104 Eighth street northeast, Elbert Lake, 6, was knocked down by a car operated by Wilson H. George, 31, of 1801 Massachusetts avenue southeast. The boy was taken to Casualty Hospital.

of Justice, which was asked to check his record.

News of Powell's arrest brought considerable relief to residents of Arlington County last night. Many of them said they had been afraid to leave their homes at night, lest they be robbed. There was also much joy as some of the robber's victims discovered valuables in the loot.

Howard D. Crocker, of 3348 North Glebe road, identified silverware which he said was 150 years old and had come down to him from his grandparents.

Others who identified property ranging from heirlooms to auto tags were Henry N. Leifferts, 3402 Fifteenth street; J. G. Butler, 1621 North Abbington street; C. J. Bazire, 3838 North Upland street; Robert L. Evans, 3512 Third street; Thomas Wegg, 3115 North Utah street; G. D. Potterton, 316 North Kenmore street; Guy W. Lane, 4141 Larcom lane; Vernon Marsteller, 1619 North Glebe road; A. N. Finn, 1306 North Wakefield street, and Arthur Scott, 4221 Fifteenth street.

Among others who reported their homes robbed since February were: E. F. Hawkins, 1109 South Rolfe street; H. T. Quick, 2215 Albemarle street; H. B. Swain, 4524 North Carlin drive; Edward J Beamish, 3340 North Glebe road; Herrold G. Tower, 1419 North Herndon street, Ralph Baldwin, 1526 North Jackson street; George P. Grove, 3119 Seventeenth street; George M. Fuller, 16 North Taylor street; Miss Sallie Beach, 26 North Lincoln street; J. J. Ruckert, 2240 North Potomac street; J. F. Compher, 4530 North Fairfax drive; C. F. Colton, 3220 Seventeenth street; R. H. Pritchard, 368 Albemarle street, and Charles T. Jesse, 1204 South Monroe street.

Jesse is treasurer of Arlington County.

Blocs Earmark $505,000,000 In Relief Attack

PWA, Flood Control, Roads Groups Raid Bill by Decisive Votes.

On amendment by Representative Marvin Jones (Democrat), of Texas, the $10,000,000 for water conservation ponds was added. Then the PWA bloc executed a surprise maneuver. Representative Millard F. Caldwell, of Florida, offered the $300,000,000 PWA amendment, instead of Beiter, recognized head of the PWA bloc. Caldwell is a member of the Appropriations Committee, and has preferred status in the House on appropriations measures.

Completing the earmarking raid Cartwright, chairman of the House Roads Committee, led the successful drive for $150,000,000 for highways.

Out of scores of amendments offered, the following additional changes were approved:

An amendment by Representative Lanham, of Texas, making unskilled and agricultural workers who refuse private jobs ineligible for relief as long as the private work is available.

An amendment by Representative Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi, authorizing WPA funds for construction of transmission lines in rural sections for non-profit and cooperative utility groups.

In fruitless efforts to quell the earmarking revolt, two Administration pillars on the Appropriations Committee, Representative Clarence Cannon, of Missouri, and Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, of Virginia, took the floor. House Majority Whip Pat Boland also backed up Rayburn's warnings. Boland said the sum earmarked for PWA would reduce the total by 20 per cent, and mean a similar number would be dropped from WPA relief rolls.

Postlude

By Ray C. B. Brown.

Combined choirs of Mount Pleasant Congregational and National City Christian Churches present their annual spring program in Mount Pleasant Church under the direction of William F. Braithewaite.

Samuel Coleridge-Taylor's "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," the first part of the choral trilogy based on Longfellow's poem, was the principal item on the program of the spring concert presented last evening by the combined choirs of Mount Pleasant Congregational and National City Christian churches under the leadership of William F. Braithewaite. The performance was enjoyable not only for the musical content of the work but also for the spirited singing.

The fame of Coleridge-Taylor, the English composer of West African extraction on his father's side, rather unjustly rests upon his Hiawatha trilogy, which is frequently performed because of its attractiveness. There are merits as well in his symphony, chamber music and incidental music for four of Stephen Phillips' poetic plays. His early death at the age of 37 cut short a talent which was steadily developing.

Melodic freshness and a strongly marked personal idiom are the characteristics of his style. In his setting of incidents from "Hiawatha" there is evident a certain rhythmic monotony caused not by his own lack of invention but by the persistent beat of the trochaic dimeter in the text, a meter which Longfellow took from the Finnish epic, "Kalevala." This rhythmic regularity, however, is quite in keeping with the primitive theme.

Other choral numbers on the program were "Cruger's "Now Thank We All Our God," Chaikovski's "Pilgrims' Song" and "God of All Nature" arranged from the slow movement of the fifth symphony.

Scotty Prepares for Air Jaunt, With Alimony Action Unsettled

By the Associated Press.

Los Angeles, May 25.—Death Valley Scotty made ready to celebrate settlement of his wife's $2,500-a-month separate maintenance suit tonight, but her lawyers indicated the preparations were a little premature—no settlement exists.

From his fantastic castle in the valley, the fabulous "desert rat" telephoned airline officials for the price of chartering a plane to Chicago, New York and Eastern points. "Just for a celebration," he said, explaining it would be appropriate for an out-of-court settlement.

But Moses E. Lewis, counsel for Mrs. Walter E. Scott, said settlement conferences have not yet brought an agreement.

Airline officials recalled that some time ago Scotty asked about chartering a ship. Scotty was told it would cost him $7,500. He did not take it immediately.

Trial of Mrs. Scott's suit would answer some of the questions concerning the source and size of Death Valley Scotty's fortune. An out-of-court settlement would keep the mystery as dark as ever.

Lewis said Scotty and his partner, A. M. Johnson, jointly named in Mrs. Scott's suit, "are willing to provide for her."

"But," he added, "they are not willing to definitely secure her status for life."

Contract Bridge

If the decisions that a player must make at rubber bridge are called hairline, what can one say of the same decisions at duplicate? Here, they are even closer!

In rubber bridge, whenever one is in doubt as to whether opponents can make a certain contract, the wiser course is to take the bid away from them if this can be done at negligible risk. In duplicate, however, if opponents' contract can be defeated one trick it is a serious matter to outbid them and go down one trick yourself. West, in today's hand, had to make a split-hair decision.

Duplicate Bridge.
East-West vulnerable.

	♠ 10 6 3 ♡ A 7 5 4 ◇ A ♣ A K Q 7 3
♠ A Q 8 ♡ Q J 6 ◇ K J 10 9 8 ♣ J	North West East South	♠ 7 ♡ K 8 3 2 ◇ Q 5 4 3 ♣ 9 6 4 2
	♠ K J 9 5 4 2 ♡ 10 9 ◇ 7 6 ♣ 10 8 5

Bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ◇	Double	2 ◇
2 ♠	4 ◇	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Before West made his final pass he pondered the matter for several minutes. I cannot blame him for this indecision. Although he was vulnerable and the opponents were not, a five diamond sacrifice bid was highly tempting. He could almost count that at five diamonds he would lose no more than one club, one diamond, probably one heart, and very likely no spades since either a singleton spade in partner's hand or an opening spade lead would preclude spade losers. But, while he could figure a probable one trick set at five diamonds, his real problem was to appraise the chances for success of the four spade contract.

He opened the sigleton club and, as soon as the dummy appeared, knew that he had made the correct decision. His two spade tricks were safe and, even though partner's bid had been a weakness raise, there was a splendid chance that he held the heart King. Dummy won the club lead and led a spade to declarer's Jack. West won with the Queen and, to insure that partner would go up with the King of hearts if he held that card, led—not the Queen—but the Jack of hearts. Declarer temporarily stopped this attack by playing dummy's Ace, but a second round of spades lost to the Ace, and now the low heart put East on lead for the vital club ruff.

West's decision had proved itself admirably.

J. S. McIlhenny, Former Capital Man, Is Dead

James Smith McIlhanney, 72, longtime Washington resident and former engineer of the Washington Gas Light Co., died last night in Birmingham, Ala., while on his way to California.

Mr. McIlhenny retired from the gas company six years ago after 51 years of service. At the time he retired he was chief engineer and a member of the board of directors.

Born in Montgomery, Ala., Mr. McIlhenny came to Washington in 1880 to work for the company with which he was to spend the rest of his life. He also attended Columbia Medical School and was granted his M. D. degree. He never practiced, however.

During the more than half-century that he lived here Mr. McIlhenny was prominent in social and club life. He married Nellie Peffer, daughter of Senator W. A. Peffer, of Kansas.

Surviving him are a daughter, Mrs. Jane Cates, wife of Lieut. Col. C. B. Cates, U. S. A.; a brother, Dr. George A. McIlhenny, of Forest Miss.; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. George McIlhenny, of Washington, and two grandchildren. A son, George McIlhenny, died several years ago. Funeral plans were still incomplete last night.

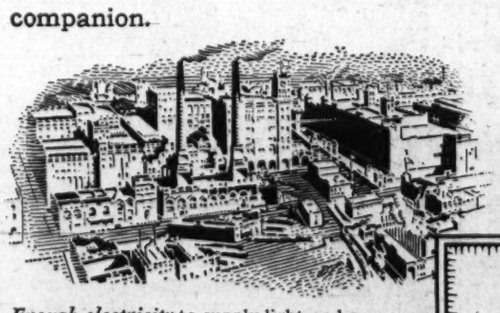
To be big, don't belittle little things

In brewing, it's the little things that count against you—if you don't watch them. Little grains of broken barley... little metal particles... little drops or rises in temperature... little oversights on timing. Watching and guarding against a multitude of such little things 24 hours a day has produced one brew of such qualities that it has become something more than beer—a social companion.



Enough electricity to supply light and power to all the homes in either Milwaukee or Buffalo! That is the light and power required in the Home of BUDWEISER—virtually a city by itself. Covering 70 blocks, this plant has its own railroad system and its own water filtration plant. The demand for BUDWEISER made such facilities necessary.
